Despite Court Orders

A woman is forced to move her own baggage on arrival in New York aboard a cruise ship Saturday. Longshoremen who reported to New York piers in compliance with a court ruling went home again without doing anything because no work orders had been posted. The orders are usually posted the day before work is to be done but one official said the court action came too late Friday to allow for this. Workers are expected to man the piers Monday after almost two months on strike. (UPI)

Increased Fighting Claimed By Pakistani Army Sources

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pakistani officers asserted Saturday that Indian troops were repulsed on three fronts in East Pakistan, but had made some headway on a fourth.

Pakistan claimed its forces had destroyed four Indian tanks and inflicted casualties of 1,000, at a cost of 30 dead last week. The figures appeared high. India has acknowledged only two incursions in East Pakistan last week. An Indian spokesman in New Delhi denied any Indian troops were fighting inside East Pakistan Friday.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi of India visited troops concentrated along the eastern border of East Pakistan and told them: "The whole country is behind the armed forces in the task of safeguarding the country and its freedom.

"I did not come to talk about war," she told The Indian formations in the Rajasthan Desert. "I am merely making a routine visit."

Pakistani military sources in Dacca, capital of East Pakistan, told newsmen the Indian army had suffered setbacks in three sectors—Jessore in the west, Comilla in the southeast, and Chittagong in the east.

Since even by Pakistani accounts there has been no fighting around the port of Chittagong, the latter apparently referred to the area of Feni, 50 miles north of the port near a bulge in the Indian border. The Pakistanis claimed 50 civilians were killed by Indian shellings near Feni.

A military officer in Dacca said Indian forces were making progress on the fourth sector, near Hilli in the north. But a Pakistani major general expressed confidence the Indians could make no more headway in East Pakistan.

Pakistan radio said the ratio of casualties was due to the fact that the Pakistani army was fighting from prepared positions while the enemy was attacking.

All the attacks were of battalion strength, the radio asserted, and supported by mortar fire and heavy artillery barrages.

As an example, it said that in fighting in the Comilla area, which also involved Indian tanks, India lost 43 killed and 100 wounded and one tank, while Pakistani losses were 3 killed and 11 wounded.

The Indian spokesman said that in Thursday's incursion into the Hilli area, 200 miles north of Calcutta, the Indians suffered 20 casualties. He listed Pakistani casualties as 80 killed or wounded and one tank destroyed.

"We didn't lose any of our tanks in the fighting because we don't have any tanks in that area," the spokesman added.

He also charged that Pakistani forces continue to shell towns along India's eastern border. No action of any significance was reported by the spokesman along the nation's western border, where both India and Pakistan also have massed large forces.

In Calcutta, two U.S. senators—William Saxbe, R-Ohio, and Frank Church, D-Idaho—said they believed a settlement of the East Pakistan crisis is still possible without war.

The visiting senators outlined their views in a talks with newsmen after touring an East Pakistan refugee camp in Calcutta. They came to India two days ago at the invitation of India.

President Plans Meeting With Japanese Minister

PALM DESERT, Calif. (AP) — President Nixon will meet with Japanese Prime Minister Eisako Sato in San Clemente, Calif., Jan. 6-7 for consultations prior to Nixon's Peking and Moscow Trips, the Western White House said Saturday.

The meeting will be the third announced so far in a series of Nixon's summit sessions with major allies and leaders.

Nixon will meet with French president Georges Pompidou Dec. 13-14 in the Azores and with British Prime Minister Edward Heath Dec. 20-21 at Bermuda, the White House has said earlier.

The announcement was made simultaneously in Tokyo and at this posh desert community, where the President had come for the dedication of Eisenhower Memorial Hospital and to play a round of golf at nearby El Dorado Country.

Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said that this is the first time Nixon has met with a foreign head of state at the Western White House at San Clemente, 70 miles west of here.

As with the two other meetings, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and national security advisor Henry A. Kissinger will join in the Sato meeting.

Japan's Foreign Minister, Takeo Fukuda, will accompany Sato, Ziegler said.

Nixon is scheduled to visit Communist China early next year—the date to be announced officially by Dec. 1. His Moscow visit is set for late May.

So far, Nixon's consultations with allied leaders will give him a chance to talk with the European neighbors of the Soviet Union and mainland China's most influential Asian neighbor, Japan.

No details have been worked out as for the housing of the Japanese delegation.

Ziegler was asked whether it could be assumed that there would be no more meetings with other heads of state between Dec. 21 in Bermuda and Jan. 6.

"Well, I don't want to guide you into assumptions. Draw your own conclusions," the press secretary replied.

There was speculation that Nixon might also meet with West German Chancellor Willy Brandt, heightened when Ziegler scheduled an unusual 8:30 a.m. PST Sunday morning news briefing in California.

Ziegler said Nixon's meetings with the Japanese delegation will take place at Nixon's office in the Western White House compound, located on a coast Guard installation overlooking the Pacific Ocean and next door to Nixon's Pacific home.

Docker Walkout Still in Evidence

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Longshoremen in most East and Gulf coast ports were under court orders to return to work Saturday, but it was expected to be at least Monday before full crews are working the piers.

The government, under President Nixon's instructions, moved in 11 cities Friday for the back-to-work orders under the Taft-Hartley Act, which provides for cooling-off periods of up to 80 days in strikes jeopardizing the national welfare.

The 57-day strike by the AFLCIO International Longshoremen's Association has tied up more than 200 ships and about 1.5 million tons of cargo.

By nightfall Saturday, one federal judge, in New Orleans, had granted the government's request for a full 80-day injunction against the ILA Strike. In 10 other cities temporary restraining orders—sending the men back to work pending hearings on requests for full injunctions—were in effect.

U.S. District Court judges issued the temporary orders Friday in New York, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Mobile, Ala., Alexandria, Va., and Savannah, Ga.

On Saturday, orders were issued in Boston, Miami, Portland, Maine, and Houston, Tex.

Government lawyers were to seek similar court action Monday in Providence, R.I.

In New Orleans, all parties agreed to bypass the request for a temporary restraining order and deal directly with the full-fledged Taft-Hartley injunction.

The order, however, had no practical effect as longshoremen were already back at work under the terms of a Wednesday return-to-work order issued when shippers called the strike there an illegal secondary boycott.

In New York, some longshoremen reported Saturday to piers where Caribbean cruise ships docked. Shippers turned them away saying Friday's court order came too late in the day for them to cancel such other arrangements for unloading passengers' luggage as using supervisors and office personnel.

A pier manager said the longshoremen who reported would be paid for the day anyway.

In Philadelphia, shippers asked for about 100 longshoremen to unload two sugar ships Sunday, and for about 400 men for general cargo ships on Monday.

West Coast ports, struck for three months by the independent International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union, were reopened last month under a Taft-Hartley injunction which expires Dec. 24.

In a reversal of the usual positions, New York shippers opposed a Taft-Hartley injunction, while the ILA did not.

The New York-New Jersey dockers go back under terms of an expired contract which guarantees them pay for 40 hours a week at $4.60 an hour, 52 weeks a year, whether they work that much or not.

Postal Service Will Continue At Arrow Rock

(Democrat-Capital Service)

ARROW ROCK — Statewide interest plus the support of two senators and a congressman was enough to convince the U. S. Postal Service to continue operations of the historic Arrow Rock Post Office, it was learned Saturday.

The possibility that the Postal Service might close the post office became a near certainty when the position of postmaster was vacated here recently.

Sens. Stuart Symington and Thomas F. Eagleton, and Congressman William Randall wrote a series of letters to the Postal Service urging continuation of the post office here.

Special emphasis was placed on the fact that the post office had been designated by the National Historic Service as a historic landmark.

"In that Arrow Rock is one of the most historic points in the Louisiana Territory and is now a growing center of activity supported by the Missouri State Park Department and other state and national agencies, the people of that area want very much to have the post office continued," Symington told the Postal Service.

The post office is one of many restored buildings in this small community, which draws an estimated 80,000 visitors a year.

"The concern expressed by Missourians over the possible loss of the Arrow Rock post office testifies to the appreciation we have for this significant center of Missouri western history," Symington said.

Other key attractions here include the Lyceum Theatre, a museum established by the Missouri Press Association, a medical museum honoring Dr. John Sappington, a native or Arrow Rock who discovered quinine as an effective treatment for malaria; and a museum being established by the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co.

SHOPPING DAYS TO CHRISTMAS

Stolen Money Orders Being Investigated

Sedalia Police and the Pettis County Sheriff's officers are investigating a rash of stolen money orders being used to make purchases in Sedalia and the surrounding area.

Several local stores cashed the money orders Friday. Connor-Wagoners, Krogers, Gibsons, Locketts, Montgomery Ward and A&P all honored the $75 notes, which had been forged.

Saturday morning Sheriff Emmett Fairfax received a report that a similar incident had occurred in Boonville. Then at 10 a.m. Saturday, city police received a report from the IGA Foodliner that two women were trying to cash a $75 money order there.

They left in a 1967 black over green Pontiac carrying Missouri license plates, according to store employes. The women had been reported using a "dirty white car" Friday, Fairfax said.

Although two men have been seen in the cars, only the women have tried to cash the money orders, using the names Charlene Barton and Wilma King, police report. They are described as in their 30's and of medium height. They gave their address as Route 12, Springfield when passing the money orders. The person cashing a money order at the Montgomery Store did not fit the women's descriptions, police said. No further leads are available.

According to Fairfax, the women used a money order printing machine stolen from a Pick and Pay store in Springfield and city police believe the money orders were stolen in Texas. All of those passed here were Republic Money Orders drawn on the Republic National Bank of Dallas.

The Highway Patrol was asked to assist in the case. Officers are looking for the two women, who may be accompanied by an unidentified man.

Three Kansas City Youths Hit Downtown Businesses

Three 15-year-old Kansas City girls suspected of a shoplifting spree in Sedalia Friday afternoon were injured in a car accident in Windsor after attempting to elude Sedalia police officers in a high-speed chase.

Injured were Miss Carolyn Hayes, driver of the 1970 Chevrolet police were chasing, and Miss Shirley Townsend and Miss Carolyn Wilson, the Highway Patrol said. They were taken to Windsor Clinic and later transferred to Bothwell Hospital.

Miss Hayes and Miss Townsend were admitted, according to Bothwell spokesmen, suffering possible back injuries. Miss Wilson was released to the custody of Sheriff Emmett Fairfax and is being held in the county jail, Fairfax said.

The accident occurred at 3:40 p.m. following a chase which began at 14th and Limit and eventually involved three Sedalia police cars. A sheriff's department vehicle also went to the scene of the accident, but was not directly involved in the chase.

The car driven by Miss Hayes apparently went out of control, left the west edge of Highway 52, crossed the pavement and then hit a telephone pole and a concrete embankment, the Highway Patrol reported.

The three girls were allegedly involved in a rash of shoplifitings at C. W. Flower Co., Penney's and Russell Brothers Clothing Store. An employe of Flowers said the girls left the store with their coats bulging. A few minutes later a saleswoman noticed a red pants suit was missing and police were notified.

Jim Callis, vice-president of the C. W. Flower Co., said he believed everything taken from the store came from the "Designer's Room." Bob Johnson, manager of Russell Brothers, told The Democrat-Capital that about eight or 10 bulk pieces of womens clothing were taken. Johnson called the shoplifters "real

Neatness Counts

Bob Childers, 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Childers, 2704 South Quincy, (kneeling), and Bob Stockwood, 12, son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Stockwood, 2600 South Quincy, were among 30 members of the seventh grade class at Horace Mann School who volunteered to pick up litter on Sedalia streets. The group of litter scavengers began combing West 16th from the school to State Fair Shopping Center where they lunched. The return route brought them back along 16th until they quit at 2 p.m.

Charge Man With Assault In Shooting

A Sedalia man is in serious condition at the University of Missouri Medical Center in Columbia while the man believed responsible is being held in Pettis County jail on charges of assault with intent to do great bodily harm.

Marvin Eugene Harvey, 41, 900 West 24th, co-owner of Harvey Brothers Implement Co., was seriously wounded by a blast from a shotgun at 2:15 a.m. Saturday at 1506 South Mildred.

Harvey was struck by about 20 shotgun pellets in the back and the back of the head. He also suffered a fractured skull.

Roy Richard Griffin, 41, of the Satellite Motel, was taken into custody by Sedalia police after the shooting and held for investigation of felonious assault. He was later taken to the Pettis County jail.

Sheriff Emmett Fairfax said Saturday charges had been filed and bond set at $5,000.

Lloyd Smith, 1507 South Mildred, said he was awakened by "loud car noises" which sounded as if engines were racing. Then, he said, he heard "two loud reports and I really thought they were shots."

When he got up to investigate, he said, he saw Harvey lying in the street in front of the Smith residence. Smith notified police of the incident.

Fairfax told The Democrat-Capital the weapon used in the shooting was a double-barrel 12-gauge shotgun and that both barrels had been fired recently. He could not say, however, if both were fired at Harvey.

Smith said that the shooting probably took place in the yard at 1506 South Mildred, the residence of Mrs. Wanda Griffin. Harvey apparently was able to run

Economy Indicator Showing Increases

WASHINGTON (AP) — Spurred by a record number of housing permit applications, the Commerce Department's list of economic indicators showed a 1.2 per cent increase during October.

Asst. Commerce Secretary Harold C. Passer said the October increase and a 0.2 per cent increase in September were difficult to interpret "because of the sweeping change in government economic policy."

"The indicators are still on a decisive uptrend, however," he said, "and this is consistent with private forecasts of a vigorous expansion of the economy in 1972."

Three indicators—stock prices, industrial materials prices and contracts and orders for plant and equipment—declined.

But a 15-per-cent increase in housing permit applications, to a record annual rate of 2.2 million, and other increases offset the losses.

Elsewhere on the economic front:

—The Construction Industry Stabilization Committee, appointed by President Nixon to hold down wage increases in the construction industry, approved increases in 47 contracts, most of them far exceeding the 5.5 per cent guideline set by the Pay Board.

—The Postal Service announced it will raise third-class postage rates 23.9 per cent Monday unless the Price Commission rules against it. The commission does not meet again until Monday.

The Postal Service had planned to put the increase into effect Sept. 15, but was prevented from doing so by President Nixon's wage-price-rent freeze. The increase would affect the cost of mailing advertising circulars, catalogs and other printed matter.

—Cost of Living Council Chairman Donald Rumsfeld said that 64 price-increase requests considered by the commission averaged 3.3 per cent, a figure he said does not "threaten the achievement of the goal of bringing the cost-of-living increase down to 2.5 per cent by the end of next year.

—The Atomic Energy Commission announced an 11.5 per cent increase in its prices for processing fuel for nuclear power plants. AEC Commissioner Wilfred Johnson estimated in February that such an increase would boost the cost of electric generation by atomic plants by about 1 per cent.

Unfinished Attic Aids Builder

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Leaving an attic unfinished enables a builder to offer a house at a lesser price to a family which either doesn't need upstairs rooms or would prefer to do the finishing when the space is needed and the budget permits.

A do-it-yourself job on an attic can cost as little as several hundred dollars to as much as several thousand, depending on the general floor plan and the kind of materials used. If the family can get by without a bathroom on the second floor, for instance, there is a sizable savings. Even if one is installed, the difference in cost can be considerable between a small one with only a sink and toilet bowl and a large one with a bath and-or shower.

Whether the attic layout is elaborate or simple, the excellence of the result depends on what is under the walls and ceiling; in other words, the framework. When the framing is installed properly, the walls and ceilings will have a neat appearance no matter what their composition. Also, if the framework is level and plumb, the task of attaching to wall and ceiling materials is much easier than if it is out of line even a fraction of an inch.

It is important that a sketch, no matter how crude, be made before hammering a single nail. The location of doors, built-ins and electrical outlets must be determined and marked, permitting the elimination of studs at certain points and the avoidance of additional cuts later.

The collar beams or joists already running horizontally across the upper area between the rafters can serve as a base for the ceiling. Additional joists can be added if necessary to make them 16 inches apart on center. And if you think the present location of the collar beams is too high for the ceiling as you visualized it, attach another set at a lower point.

The walls can be anywhere from 4 feet high to about 5½ feet. The top height is preferable when there are to be closets and built-ins, but the installation of gypsum board, plywood, hardboard or any material that comes in 4 foot dimensions is easier with knee walls close to that size.

There are several ways to attach vertical studs to the rafters. One is to nail the tops of them to the rafters. Another is to attach 1 by 3s to the underside of the rafters to form top plates. In either case, sole plates are nailed horizontally to the floor where the bottom of the walls are to be. The sole plates, 2 by 4s, should be nailed through the floor to the joists below. The studs rest on and are nailed to these plates.

Nothing should be left to the eye. Measure everything twice and constantly use a level and a plumb bob. No sole plates are needed where there will be doors, but the framing should be reinforced at the top and sides.

One extra tip: select the doors first, then build the framework to fit them.

(Squeaky floors and stairs, sweating windows and walls, overflowing gutters and noisy plumbing are among the 35 household problems discussed in Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," which can be obtained by sending $1 to this newspaper in care of Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Steel, Auto Prices Are Increased

By STEPHEN H. MILLER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel producers and auto makers announced price-hike moves this past week amid some of the most important adjustments yet in Phase 2 of the Nixon administration's new economic program.

The Justice Department obtained injunctions in 12 cities in efforts to force a break in the crippling East and Gulf coast dock strikes. Other major business news of the week saw the Reading Railroad file for bankruptcy reorganization.

The Price Commission granted price increases of more than 7 per cent on tin-mill products of Bethlehem Steel Corp., the nation's second biggest steel firm, and National Steel Corp. There was immediated reaction from container makers, the principal tinplate users.

Continental Can Co. said it was applying for a "directly proportional" increase on its prices. American Can and National Can said they too wanted price hikes.

The biggest steelmaker, U.S. Steel Corp., was expected to push for price-increase approval on sheet metal in the coming week.

General Motors Corp. asked for a 3 per cent price increase in a move expected to influence other automakers. Chrysler Corp., which had already won approval for a 5.9 per cent hike, said after GM's move that it would boost prices 3 per cent.

Justice Department lawyers obtained on Friday court orders forcing 45,000 striking East and Gulf coast longshoremen back to their jobs. The strike was 57 days old.

The Reading Co., operator of the Reading Railroad, said the dock strikes, local strike and slump in steel shipments this year were prime contributors to an immediate deficit of about $1,530,000.

"There is nothing wrong with this railroad that a good business pickup wouldn't cure," said President Charles E. Bertrand in announcing that the company had filed for reorganization under bankruptcy laws.

Labor unhappiness with wage controls continued. Some 50,000 AFL-CIO Meatcutters struck for one day in various parts of the country. Afterward, Secretary Pat Gorman of the meatcutters union said some of the struck firms had agreed to help the union get scheduled pay raises which have been held up by contols.

Most of the nation's soft coal miners returned to work this past Monday after the Pay Board approved a new contract giving them wage and fringe-benefit increases of 15 to 16.8 per cent in the contract's first year.

Treasury Secretary John Connally expressed what he said was his personal disappointment over the approval. He suggested in the same news conference that the Nixon administration might agree to some provision for retroactive pay raises if Pay Board standards were preserved.

At the week's end, the Commerce Department announced that the U.S. trade deficit with other nations fell to $821 million in October, a record imbalance which government economists blamed on the dock strikes.

The department also reported that leading economic indicators showed a 1.2 per cent gain last month. Wall Street analysts said that report helped touch off a rebound on the sagging stock market.

The Dow Jones index of 30 industrial stocks rose 17.96 points Friday to 816.59, its biggest one-day gain since announcement of the wage-price freeze in mid-August.

Mansion To Become Huge Music Room

CANTERBURY, England (AP) — A 400-year-old mansion near Canterbury is about to become the noisiest stately home in England.

Charlton Park, a 16th century manor with a 100-acre garden, is being turned into a giant pop-music auditorium.

Owner Michael Underwood, an army colonel who likes music, said he is planning to install camping grounds, mobile lavatories, restaurants, medical teams and a day and night movie house.

"The kids should get a fair deal," British movie actor Stanley Baker, a member of the business group behind the move, told a news conference Friday. Baker said youths at a dozen previous pop rallies in Britain had to put up with poor conditions and high prices, but Charlton Park will be a permanent and comfortable festival site.

In the project with Baker and the colonel is Lord Harlech, former British ambassador to Washington.

Search For Mine Might Be Ending

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — A century-long search for the legendary Lost Dutchman Gold Mine may be nearing an end.

The U.S. Forest Service has proposed a five-step management plan which would virtually halt exploration on the western slopes of the Superstition Mountains, a rugged, desolate range east of Phoenix.

Legend has it that an old Dutchman, Jake Walzer, blasted the mine's entrance closed in the 1870s because he realized he was dying and could never return to his treasures.

Some stories say he left millions of dollars in solid gold bars which had been stolen earlier in the century. Others say he tucked Spanish treasures into the tunnels, or that he discovered solid veins of pure gold while carving his way into the Superstitions.

Whatever is there—if anything—the Forest Service says it has interested too many persons, and that fortune seekers using everything from bulldozers to shovels are scarring the barren mountain range.

The Forest Service proposal would prohibit campers and prospectors from living in the area and establish rigid guidelines to control treasure hunters.

as far as the street before he collapsed. The skull injury may have been caused by the fall. Smith said when he saw Harvey, the man was lying face down.

He added that his house was located almost directly across the street from the Griffin residence. "There were chips and holes on the siding on my house and on my car," Smith said. He attributed the damage to the gunshots.

Harvey was taken to Bothwell Hospital for emergency treatment and later transferred to Columbia.

An ambulance attendant reported he thought the injuries sustained by Harvey appeared to have been inflicted at close range, but this could not be confirmed.

Police officers investigating the incident said Griffin apparently went into the house after the shooting. At one time it was reported that Griffin also called police, but this could not be verified.

It was reported that Griffin did not attempt to elude police after they arrived. Smith said he saw Griffin coming out of the house to talk to police officers.

Three Blacks Hijack Jetliner To Havana

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — Three young blacks charged with murdering a New Mexico state trooper escaped an extensive manhunt Saturday by hijacking a Trans World Airlines jetliner to Havana.

Left behind during a fueling stop at Tampa International Airport were the 43 passengers aboard the 727 when it was commandeered at take off from Albuquerque, N.M.

A TWA spokesman said there were no sky marshals aboard the flight.

Cuban authorities reported to the Federal Aviation Administration that the three hijackers, armed with two guns and a knife, were taken into custody on landing at Jose Marti Airport. The three crewmen and three stewardesses aboard were said to be unharmed.

There was no immediate word when the plane would be allowed to take off, presumably for Miami.

The FBI identified the hijackers as Michael Finney, 20, Ralph Goodwin, 24, and Charlie Hill, 21. They are charged with gunning down patrolman Robert Rosenbloom when he stopped them for a routine check west of Albuquerque Nov. 8.

TWA Flight 106, originating in Phoenix, Ariz., with scheduled stops in Albuquerque, Chicago and Washington, was ready for take off from Albuquerque when the three hijackers drove up in a tow truck they had commandered.

"They were ready to close the door when these three guys came running, one holding a gun on the last passenger," said Kent Swigard, a reporter with the Spokesman Review in Spokane, Wash., who was en route to New York with his wife, Marie. "They seemed very organized and incredibly calm throughout."

Swigard said a hijacker held a stewardess at gunpoint until the plane door was closed and it taxied down a runway.

Then one took up a position near the cockpit, one in the door between the first class and tourist sections, and the third at the rear.

As the plane winged out of Albuquerque, C. A. Hill of Phoenix said a stewardess walked down the aisle, telling the passengers the plane was being hijacked and, "Don't worry, I've been there a couple times myself," apparently meaning hijack trips to Havana.

The plane landed at Tampa and parked on a runway about a quarter of a mile from a terminal. The hijackers refused to allow it to approach closer to be fueled by the airport's modern underground system. They said they would allow only a fuel truck and a bus for the passengers to approach the plane.

A fuel truck and bus were obtained from MacDill Air Force Base five miles away. After the two vehicles arrived at the airport, the passengers filed off, including two elderly persons in wheel chairs.

During the unloading, Hill said, one of the hijackers held a cocked Army 45-caliber pistol on a stewardess.

It took 20 minutes to fuel the plane then it took off for Havana at 7:51 a.m. landing there at 8:49.

An FAA official said that when Cuban authorities reported on the landing in Havana, "They sounded like it was just a routine operation."

The New Mexico patrolman was shot to death by the side of Interstate 40 west of Albuquerque after he radioed that he was stopping a car for a routine check.

Fingerprints found the next morning in an abandoned car led to the issuance of murder warrants. Police said the car contained numerous pieces of literature, including pamphlets of the Republic of New Africa, a movement dedicated to establishing a separate black nation in the South. It was founded in Detroit in 1968 but now has two factions, one in Detroit and the other in New Orleans.

Finney, Goodwin and Hill have been the object of an intensive search since then.

The trio used a stuck car ruse to get an auto wrecker tow truck and then forced the driver to take them to the airport where they drove within 20 feet of the jetliner.

They bounded up a stairway into the aircraft and held a TWA fuel handler hostage until he told them the plane couldn't leave until his fuel truck was moved.

Crew members aboard were pilot S.B. McGhee, flight engineer J.B. MacFarland, first officer Richard M. Clark and hostesses Diane Barrois, Elizabeth Caubre and Shirley Ann Harrell.

First reports said movie actor Dustin Hoffman was aboard the plane but it turned out to be another passenger of the same name.

After leaving the plane, the passengers were given breakfast and sent on to their destinations in other planes.

Annual Parade Has 80 Units In Schedule

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce 1971 Christmas Parade, beginning at 10 a.m. next Saturday, promises to be one of the largest ever held, with 80 units scheduled to participate. That compares to the 61 groups who were in last year's parade.

The various participants have been given their schedules and assembly times, with units to line up at their designated places no later than 9:15 a.m., according to E. G. Kehde Jr., parade chairman.

Floats and walking units will be judged before the parade this year. Once the parade is underway, units are asked to keep a three-car length distance away from the next unit.

The parade will line up on Main Street, go east to Ohio, south on Ohio to Seventh, west on Seventh to Osage, north on Osage to Third and west on Third to disband.

After the parade, the Chamber has requested that floats be parked at the State Fair Shopping Center, Thompson Hills Shopping Center, Kroger Family Center and at Gibson's.

Dignitaries scheduled to appear in the parade include heads of the various law enforcement agencies in the city and county, Mayor and Mrs. Jerry Jones, Col. and Mrs. William J. Grossmiller III from Whiteman AFB, Mr. and Mrs. William Burkholder, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Rains, Miss Cindy Heering, who is Miss Sedalia, and Mrs. David Curry, Jaycee Wives' Outstanding Young Woman.

The parade will include 24 entries from civic clubs, eight church entries, 16 entries from schools and 4-H clubs, 14 commercial units and five special units, including a fire truck carrying Santa Claus, Lawrence said.

Truck-Auto Mishap Leads To Fatality

(Democrat-Capital Service)

MARSHALL — Charles Hirt, 47, Miami, Mo., was killed at 5:15 p.m. Friday when his 1962 Plymouth collided with a 1970 GMC milk truck driven by Carl Cobb, 33, 610 South Montgomery, Sedalia.

The accident occurred at the junction of highways 41 and 122 as a third vehicle drove onto Highway 41 in front of the Cobb truck.

Cobb, southbound, applied his brakes, apparently lost control and skidded sideways into the northbound Hirt vehicle, according to the Highway Patrol. The milk truck turned over onto the Hirt car after the impact.

Hirt was pronounced dead on arrival at Fitzgibbon Memorial Hospital. Cobb sustained possible head injuries. He was issued a summons for careless and imprudent driving, the Highway Patrol said.

Every gathering of Americans—whether a few on the porch of a crossroads store or massed thousands in a great stadium—is the possessor of a potentially immeasurable influence on the future. — Dwight D. Eisenhower.

pros." Jim Edwards, manager of Penney's, said he knew of at least $400 in suits taken from his store.

Patrolman William McKnight saw the girls walking rapidly west on Third at Ohio and began to follow them. Later, patrolman Russell C. Phillips saw the girls in their car, headed south on Limit. Phillips pursued the vehicle and stopped it at 14th and Limit.

Sgts. Perry Franklin and Frank Lueck were called to help with the investigation and arrived at the scene after Phillips had checked Miss Hayes' license. Sometime between the license check and the arrival of Lueck and Franklin, Miss Hayes jumped back into the car and drove away.

Phillips, in his car, and Franklin and Leuck in their car took up the chase with patrolman McKnight behind them. About a block north of the Holiday Inn the girls began throwing plastic sacks out the windows, police said. McKnight stopped at intervals to retrieve the bags, which contained clothing. The labels had been torn or cut from each article of clothing, it was reported.

McKnight stopped at the city limits while Phillips continued the chase that ultimately ended in Benton County. Leuck and Franklin followed Phillips, but were not in hot pursuit of the car.

The Chevrolet was impounded in a garage in Windsor until a warrant could be obtained to search it Saturday, said Fairfax. The trunk yielded three plastic bags, like the ones thrown from the car, filled with clothes. At presstime the value of the clothing had not been determined. Tags had been removed from the coats and suits found in the trunk, according to Fairfax.

Keyes escaped unharmed. Damage was estimated at $75.

WHY ISN'T THE BOTTLE FULL?

We have heard this question many times when we have given a customer their prescription and the bottle is not filled to the top. There can be many reasons for this happening. In some cases, the drug is stored in a concentrated powder form and a liquid has to be added to release its active ingredient. Sometime it is just a case of leaving room for a medicine that needs to be given an extra hard shaking before it is taken.

If there is something unusual about a prescription, your pharmacist will usually mention it to you and in most cases it will be explained on the label.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine and we will gladly deliver it without charge. If you prefer, you may pick it up at our drive up window. We keep accurate records for tax and insurance purposes. We carefully fill welfare prescriptions and deliver or mail free of charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions.

Analyze Hijacker

WOODLAND, Wash. (AP) — The missing air pirate who bailed out of a jetliner carrying a parachute and 24½ pounds of $20 bills was "either an experienced jumper or crazy," the FBI agent coordinating the search for him says.

Officials say they believe the hijacker parachuted from the plane over this sparsely populated area of southwestern Washington but add that they have found no trace of him in two days of searching. They planned to resume the effort Saturday.

FBI coordinator Tom Manning said Friday that searchers were working on the premise that the man was an experienced jumper.

"If he is in the area and has landed in rough terrain, it's an educated guess we will get some trace of him," Manning said. "We have to presume at this point he is still alive."

Authorities disclosed Friday that the $200,000 Northwest airline paid the sky-jacker in response to a bomb threat was supplied in $20 bills — a packet of 10,000 bills that weighed 24½ pounds and measured 8 by 6 by 27 inches.

Details involving the speed of the three-engine Boeing 727 jetliner, its course and the prevailing winds as it flew over the area Wednesday night were fed into a computer Friday in a quest for information that would help search parties.

FBI agents told searchers to look for two white parachute canopies and portions of a pink one found open and torn aboard the plane when it landed in Reno, Nev. They also said there might be traces of some crew food rations, which were missing from the plane.

A 100-man posse, aided by 10 patrol cars and six helicopters, fanned out Friday in a five-mile line through the mountain foothills, but Manning said the eight-hour effort under low clouds and misty rain did not yield any useful information.

Crew members disclosed Friday some additional details of the incident, which began after the plane took off from Portland, Ore., for Seattle, Wash., the last stop on a flight that had originated in Washington, D.C.

The man—described as calm, middle aged and well dressed—boarded at Portland and gave a stewardess a note shortly after takeoff.

"I thought he was trying to hustle me," stewardess Florence Shaffner, 23, said at home in Minneapolis, Minn. "I stuffed the note in my purse, and he motioned that I should read it."

His note said he had a bomb and wanted to go to Mexico, officials say. While the jet circled Seattle, the man also ordered that $200,000 and four paracutes be brought to the plane in Seattle, and Northwest agreed.

The 36 passengers and two of the three stewardesses were allowed to leave the plane in Seattle.

Scott said indicator lights in the cockpit showed the rear stairwell was being operated as the plane flew over the Woodland area, shortly after takeoff from Seattle. This also was soon after the hijacker's last communication with the crew, which had remained in the cockpit on his instructions.

The Air Force disclosed Friday that the pilots of eight chase planes which tailed the jetliner did not see a person leave the plane. Five planes followed the jetliner all the way and three picked it up en route to Reno. But officials had said earlier that the chase planes would have difficulty spotting a skydiver at night if he did not open his parachute immediately.

Made It Back

First Officer Ernest Pennyweight, left, and Capt. Bob Lukow, right, of Frontier Airlines, answer questions in Denver concerning the engine that fell from the plane they piloted from Cheyenne, Wyo., to Denver. The plane, carrying six passengers and two crew members, landed safely at Stapleton International Airport on the remaining engine. Propeller failure is suspected as the cause. The missing engine was found in a field near Greeley, Colo.

Plan on Long Walk

MADRID (AP) — Spanish students Cirilo de las Heras and Manuel Gil, both 23, plan to walk along the equator from Macapa, Brazil, at the mouth of the Amazon, to the Pacific coast in Ecuador. They say the 2,030-mile trip should take about six months.

Shortage Of Power Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — About a third of the nation's utility systems will fall below the normal electrical-power-reserve level this winter, although the country generally has enough power to meet the season's demands, the Federal Power Commission says.

The commission made the assessment Friday in a report covering 186 major utility systems in all states except Alaska and Hawaii—accounting for 98 per cent of the nation's total electric load.

The report said 56 systems will have reserves below 20 per cent and 16 will be under 10 per cent. The commission did not identify individual power systems or companies.

A reserve of 20 per cent generally is considered necessary to allow for maintenance, breakdowns and other contingencies.

Even though some systems will fall below that level, the commission said, the country as a whole appears to have sufficient power reserves to meet winter demands, a slight improvement over last year.

The nation's generating capacity is expected to total about 351,317 megawatts, while peak demand is estimated at 276,283 megawatts, the commission said, allowing for an overall reserve capacity of 27 per cent.

The South Central region, where peak loads come in summer with operation of air conditioners, is expected to have a reserve capacity of almost 65 per cent this winter.

Two regions are expected to have less than 20 per cent reserves—the Southeast, with 18.6 per cent, and the West, with 19.2 per cent.

The commission said the other regions are expected to have reserves above 20: 29.5 per cent in the Northeast, 27.8 per cent in the West Central and 21.1 per cent in the East Central.

Patrolling Border

An Indian soldier patrolling a road near the India-Pakistan border in Tripura state, Pakistan, passes a small boy sitting on the ground. Pakistani troops have killed 1,042 Indian troops and damaged 20 Indian tanks since hostilities erupted along the East Pakistan border last Sunday, an official Pakistani report said Thursday. (UPI)

Injuries Are Fatal For 2 St. Louisans

GRANITE CITY, Ill. (AP) — Two St. Louis persons died Friday night in St. Louis hospitals from injuries suffered hours earlier in a two-vehicle accident north of here, state police said.

The victims were identified by police as Willie J. Roberson, 57, and Nancy K. Gibbs, 20, passengers in a car driven by Johnny Gallimore, 37, of St. Louis.

The Gallimore car, according to state police, was struck by a truck operated by Harry H. Schellenger, 31, of Florissant.

Survey of Graduates

LONDON (AP) — Fewer than 37 per cent of University graduates in Britain took jobs after earning their degrees in 1970, a government survey showed. About 40 per cent continued studies, and the rest were still out of work six months after graduation.

Killed in Accident

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Jerry Lee Center, 28, of suburban St. Ann was killed early Saturday when struck by a car as he walked down the middle of an aterial road, police said.

More Helicopters Taken Out of War

SAIGON (AP) — The U.S. Command announced Saturday the phase out from Vietnam of another 75 helicopters, bringing the two-day cut of aircraft to nearly 200.

The latest stand-down involves the 158th Aviation Battalion, which will cut U.S. strength by 825 men. The battalion operated in the northernmost 1st Military Region, supporting the 101st Airborne Division, which is being phased out.

On Friday, the command cut 13 Army units with a total strength of 3,233.

Modern Egyptians Use Ancient Names

CAIRO (AP) — Some aspects of the long-dead past still are alive in parts of modern Egypt.

Names, for example, such as Isis, Nefertiti, and Ramses still are used by some contemporary Egyptians. In the old days, Isis was the mother goddess of ancient Egypt, Nefertiti the wife of the hunter-king Tut Ankh Amun, and Ramses a warrior-king.

In addition to names, some present-day village dwellers also are influenced by the ancient practices of medicine, black magic, and burial of the dead.

Some 30 centuries back, Egyptians worshipped the sun. Today, when a village child loses a tooth he hurls it at the sun and cries: "Oh, sun ... take this buffalo tooth, and give me another which looks like the tooth of a bride."

In Talkha, a village in the Nile Delta region, the family of a sick person places a loaf of bread under his head to drive away evil spirits. This custom, mentioned in the pyramid texts, was popular 3,000 years ago.

Tourists who visit the Cairo Museum find the statue of a noted healer called Zed-her with inscribed formulas for different illnesses. The inscription includes this note: "If you are suffering of an illness, pour fresh water on my statue. The water will run into the inscription and will thus have healing power. Drink the water and you will be cured."

Unfortunately the statue cannot be touched and anyone pouring water on it would be arrested.

Today, the power of written words still prevails among Egyptian peasants. In some villages sick persons dangle from their necks "Higabs," written prescriptions prepared by holy men and wrapped in cloth. They are claimed to have a healing effect.

Some wealthy peasants wrap their dead in 100 meters of cloth, a protection against speedy disintegration. They are influenced by the ancient pharaonic custom of mummification. Islam forbids the use of decorative or expensive shrouds. When the prophet Mohamed died he was buried wrapped in his cloak.

Like the ancients, Egyptians today light lamps at tombs during feast days, bring food and cookies and go for a family "visit" to the cemeteries in order to "please the dead."

In modern Egypt, the eldest son of a dead person descends into the grave to loosen the wrapping on the body. The origin of that practice was found in the pyramid texts, which say:

"Horus comes to you, to separate your bandages and fling off your bonds."

Horus was the son-god, the eldest boy of Orisis, god of the dead. Isis was his mother.

POPULATION SHIFT

PERU, Ill. (AP) — Older Americans are moving to the south and west of the United States, a preliminary report of a Social Security study shows.

Paul A. Schmidt, manager of the Social Security district here, said the study of the nation's retired—about 1 per cent of the total—moved permanently from one state to another during the year surveyed.

Student Plans An Appeal On Sentence

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A former Washington University student sentenced to six months in confinement in connection with the burning of an ROTC building last year said he will appeal the sentence.

Joseph W. Eisenberg, 22, of Olivette, Mo., was sentenced Friday to one year in prison.

However, U.S. Dist. Court Judge William H. Webster suspended six months of the sentence and ordered Eisenberg placed on probation for three years.

Judge Webster suggested Eisenberg spend his six months in confinement at the U.S. Medical Center in Springfield, Mo.

Eisenberg was convicted by a federal court jury Nov. 8 on a sabotage charge. He was accused of attempting to destroy Washington University's Air Force ROTC building by fire. The building was burned during a May 1970 disturbance at the school.

In pronouncing sentence, Judge Webster told Eisenberg: "The Constitution guarantees to each citizen not only freedom of speech, but the right to peaceful assembly.

"However," the judge said, "the destructive physical assault upon the institutions and property of our government, for whatever reason, is intolerable."

Four Die As Plane Crash Lands

ROLLA, Mo. (AP) — Four Texans died Friday afternoon in a crash of a light plane about 20 miles northeast of Rolla near the High Gate community.

The highway patrol said the victims were the pilot, H.M. Wingfield Jr., 37, and his wife, Gracie Jean, 33, of Bryan, Tex.; the pilot's mother, Mrs. Ellie Wingfield, and Mrs. Leona Crawford Virgil, 51, both of Fort Worth, Tex.

James Cummins, stationed at the Rolla National Airport 10 miles north of Rolla, said there was misty rain when the pilot radioed for permission to make an instrument landing at the field.

Miss Janet Clark of Bland, Mo., a motorist, saw the plane briefly before it disappeared into the timber.

"It came out of the clouds in a spiral," Miss Clark said. "It was almost vertical."

The patrol said the plane was enroute from Texas to St. Louis.

Another Texas plane crashed Wednesday night in Southwest Kansas near Garden City, killing four persons and injuring a fifth critically.

In Plettenberg Bay, South Africa local residents call their amber colored water supply "champagne water."

Kidnaping Conviction Given Rose

MONTREAL (AP) — Paul Rose was convicted Friday of kidnaping former Quebec Labor Minister Pierre Laporte in October 1970. Laporte was eventually slain.

Justice Fernand Legault set sentencing for Tuesday after the 12-man jury returned from 3½ hours of deliberation with a verdict. Maximum sentence on the kidnap charge is life imprisonment.

The case went to the jurors without a defense case or summation from Rose, who had been barred from the courtroom for more than a week because of outbursts and failure to rise when Justice Legault entered the chambers.

The court's refusal to allow Rose, a 28-year-old former teacher who conducted his own defense, back into court to present his case likely will be the strongest of 25 grounds for an appeal to be launched "as soon as possible," Rose's legal adviser, Jean-Serge Masse said after the verdict was announced.

More than 20 of Rose's requests, ranging from accusations of juror partiality to demands that locales of the kidnap case be visited, were rejected.

While out of the courtroom, Rose listened to testimony over a loudspeaker in an adjoining room.

Disciplinary Hearing Ban For Attica

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Authorities at Attica Correctional Facility are under court order not to subject inmates to disciplinary hearings, pending completion of a grand-jury probe that begins Monday.

The order, issued Friday in U.S. District Court by Judge John D. Henderson, orders officials to suspend hearings concerning inmate behavior during the period Sept. 8-30.

Attorneys for the state did not contest the request for the temporary injunction.

A lawyer for inmate George Nieves sought the class-action order, contending that statements a prisoner might make in a hearing might be used against him later in criminal indictments by the jury.

A Wyoming County panel Monday will begin its investigation of a September rebellion at the prison that resulted in 43 deaths.

Henderson reserved decision on lawyer Herman Schwartz's motion for the convening of a three-judge panel to rule on his contention that procedures used in disciplinary hearings throughout the state penal system violate basic constitutional freedoms.

Farm Roundup

Pests Trouble Farmers

By DILLON GRAHAM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Screwworm outbreaks in the Southwest have been worse in 1971 than in the past several years, the Agriculture Department reports.

There were 433 cases listed through mid-November, making this the worst year since 1968 for the screwworm eradication program when 9,877 cases were reported, the department said. Only 153 cases were listed during 1970.

Although severe drought conditions during the spring kept screwworm populations low in the spring and summer, ideal conditions for screwworm development were recorded for the usual fall peak of cases.

Since the first screwworm case this year was reported Feb. 5 in Hidalgo County, Tex., 404 cases have been reported in Texas, four in Arizona, and 25 in Arkansas.

The department noted that an unusual occurrance this year was the screwworm outbreak in Texarkana, Tex., and nearby Arkansas.

This isolated but persistent infestation was first found on June 24 and resulted in 56 cases in a three-county area of Texas and Arkansas. The department said animal health officials theorize that the infestation was started by an infested animal that was shipped into the area. A thorough spray program and regular steriie fly drops ended the outbreak.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says nutrition education experts have found the eating habits of U.S. teenagers to be a dietary disaster area, composed largely of cookies, potato chips, skipped meals, greasy hamburgers, soft drinks and doughnuts.

"If you think your teenager is not eating properly, chances are you are right," a department report said.

"Many teenagers have very strange eating habits. They may have the poorest nutrition habits in the United States," the report said.

Steals School Bus To See His Family

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Robert Sherman Reams was homesick and wanted to go back to his family in Flint, Mich., but now he is in the Jackson County jail.

Reams, 27, is charged with stealing a school bus to make the journey. His bond was set at $1,500.

Ron Barney, sheriff's detective, said the schools bus, with key in the ignition, was taken from a service station in Oak Grove Thursday night. Reams was soon stopped by a patrolman.

"He was upset because he only got to drive that bus five miles," Barney said. "He really wanted to drive a bus. He figured if he ran out of gas he would pick up hitchhikers and charge them enough to buy gas to get to Michigan. He was penniless."

Ann Landers

Girl Has Suggestion To Spruce Up Guys

Dear Ann Landers: I am a Cleveland high school girl, back in class after a groovy trip out of town, and already it's awful. The boys are so sloppy it's a crime. They don't even smell clean. I am sick of uncombed, straggly hair, moustaches, sideburns, bare feet and clothes that are so "casual" they look like rejects from a rag bag.

The other night I had a date with a nice guy. He went to kiss me goodnight and I got a mouthful of hair. It was disgusting. I told him not to kiss me again until he got rid of the moustache and trimmed off about a foot of that wild mane. The following Monday he came up to me in school to show me "Exhibit A" as he called it. He had shaved off his moustache and his hair was neatly shaped and several inches shorter. He looked terrific. I could barely believe it.

I'll bet if the girls in this country would boycott guys with dirty, tangled hair, filthy jeans, raunchy sweat shirts and bare feet, we could get this whole country cleaned up again. Will you print the suggestion? Thank you. — Ohio Teen

Dear Teen: Beautiful. But, what about the girls with long, dirty hair, bare feet and raunchy sweat shirts — and no bras, yet — How about someone boycotting them?

Dear Ann Landers: Several working girls have this same problem, so when you help me you will be helping others.

I share an apartment with a girl I'll call Marge. We got along fine until she began to date this loafer. I should tell you that most of the furniture in this place is mine — and it's very good stuff. Marge and this unemployed lout take over the living room every night, laughing and talking, playing music, and rolling around on my good couch. I can't get to sleep until he leaves and this has cut into my rest considerably.

The grocery bill is higher now, of course, and since this guy came into the picture no snack is safe, no soft drink, or hard drink, or loose cigaret.

I don't want to be petty or cheap, and I do like Marge a lot, but this boyfriend of hers is too much. What can I do? — Ontario Dead End

Dear Ontario: Since I do not know some important facts — such as who moved in with whom — I can't be of much help. This I CAN tell you, however: The arrangement is not working and someone has got to move out. Next time, set up better rules for roommates. Get it in writing — and make a more astute selection.

Dear Ann Landers: Please give me a third party's view in regard to borrowing tools. As a person who is sick of having to go ask neighbors for MY lawnmower, shovel, rake, garden hose, flashlight, wheelbarrow, lawn sprinkler, hedge shears, pliers, garage ladder — just name it and they've borrowed it — I need your advice. I might also add that most of the borrowed tools somehow get rusted, broken, worn out, and "misplaced." I've even had people deny that they had borrowed the tools and that was the end of it.

Is it mean, unneighborly or selfish to say, "No — I am sorry, I do not lend out my equipment." What do you say, Ann? — Paducah Headache

Dear P. Head: In light of the fact that you've had some bad experiences with your neighbors, I believe you would be justified in saying NO, particularly to those with whom you've had the bad experiences.

Default Is Gained Against Gas Tank

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Mary Pickford, after 47 years, has won by default a battle against a gas tank that offended her when she reigned as Hollywood's movie queen.

In 1924, the Los Angeles Gas & Electric Co. erected a 224-foot high holding tank behind the now gone United Artists Studio on North Formosa Avenue.

Miss Pickford, an owner as well as star of UA, was outraged because the tank marred a studio scene that was supposed to be a French provincial street.

She demanded that the utility company remove the tank, but it refused.

Now, the utility company's successor, Southern California Gas Co., has dismantled the tower.

Money Plot Uncovered At a Base

FT. STEWART, Ga. (AP) — The commanding general of this sprawling Army flight training center said Friday Army investigators have uncovered a plot in which he and other key staff members were to have been held hostage for the base's November payroll.

Brig. Gen. Eugene M. Lynch told a hastily called news conference that the investigation linked S. Sgt. Robert E. Ward with the alleged plot.

Ward, 32, was charged with assault to commit murder after a gun battle with police in Punta Gorda, Fla., Monday. Charlotte County sheriff's deputies said they had sought the sergeant for questioning in connection with an investigation into alleged fraud at Ft. Stewart.

Officers said they arrived at the motel where Ward was staying and he opened the door of his room, yelled "I'll kill you all," and he opened fire with a 9mm automatic. Two officers were wounded. One remained in fair condition Friday; the other was treated and released.

Ward was wounded five times in the shootout. He was reported in satisfactory condition at a Florida hospital. Bond on the assault charge was set at $10,000.

For the last year, Ward has been the noncommissioned officer in charge of physical security and provost marshal investigations at Ft. Stewart.

Lynch said a number of servicemen at Ft. Stewart have been under investigation for the last year. He said the investigation has revealed larceny, fraud and the falsification of finance documents in addition to the alleged conspiracy to take the base payroll.

The general said no formal charges have been placed against Ward or other servicemen in that investigation.

Message-Carrying Balloon Recovered

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A Thanksgiving message dispatched by an Omaha, Neb., second-grader via toy balloon was found Friday in a rear yard at the South Hampton Hauling Co.

The message from 7-year-old Penny Shehan took less than two days to cover the 300-mile distance between Omaha and St. Louis.

Her balloon was one of 90 released from the grounds of St. Therese's School in Omaha Wednesday.

"I am thankful for candy and food and our family and school and myself, love, Penny Shehan, 6118 Florence Blvd., Omaha, Neb.," the message said.

There was a post script asking the finder to notify her that the message had been received.

The South Hampton office staff sent a reply to Penny, saying her message was soiled but legible and wishing her many more happy Thanksgivings.

Mind Your Money

Fund Raisers Face High Costs

By PETER WEAVER

This is the time of year when philanthropic and charitable organizations make their big pitch. It's the time when we're supposed to be thinking: "It's more blessed to give then receive."

We're expected to give away more than $10 billion this year to assuage, if not cure, the physical and financial ills of the less fortunate.

When you give $2 here, $5 there — have you ever wondered where the money really goes? We think we're giving to various causes but, in fact, we're giving to organizations. Most of them are honest but they vary widely in their effectiveness in getting money into the hands of the needy.

A number of organizations mail out "gifts" with appeals for money. We're supposed to feel obligated to give if we keep the trinket inside the envelope. This play does dig out contributions but at a terrific price.

Disabled American Veterans, for example, mails out 30 to 40 million "Idento-Tags" (mini auto tags) some years to raise funds. According to government registered figures, DAV's appeal last year brought $12.2 million but $7.4 million of it had to be spent covering fund-raising costs. This means 60 cents out of every donated dollar goes into campaign expenses.

The Epilepsy Foundation uses the mail-order gift approach (all those shiny pennies) on a smaller scale. Even so, 47 cents out of every donated dollar is eaten up in fund-raising costs.

Some of the most effective fund raising can be found in local United Giver and Community Fund campaigns. The use of voluntary fund raisers keeps costs well below 10 cents out of each contributed dollar.

Some chairtable institutions try to personalize their appeals by linking your gift to a specific "adopted" child overseas. This is most appealing but it can raise administration costs tremendously.

Foster Parents, for example, has to spend a third of each donated dollar to cover fund-raising, administration and case-work costs. A good deal of it goes into mailing and translating all those letters between donors and their adopted children abroad.

On the other hand, organizations such as CARE and the American Friends Service Committee deliver money and good directly to unspecified relief recipients at a much lower cost.

How do you dig out meaningful information on any given chairty? It isn't easy. You can call local United Giver or Community Fund headquarters and ask if they know the organization in question. If they don't, they may be able to indicate a government or civic agency that screens charities.

New York City residents can get excellent information from Contributors Information Bureau. Dallas has a County Campaign Screening Committee and Los Angeles has a local government bureau that screens charities.

One of the best sources for detailed information on national charities is the National Information Bureau; 305 East 45th.; New York, N. Y. 10017. For a $15 membership fee (tax deductible) you can get razor-sharp, critical reports on hundreds of charitable and philanthropic institutions. The fee may seem high but it's possible to have $15 or more in one year by not pouring your money down the drain into inefficient or illegitimate charities.

If you're interested in charities that work primarily abroad, you can get a free booklet, "25 Years of Partnership," by writing: Voluntary Agencies Committee; Agency for International Development; Washington, D. C. 20523. The booklet lists and describes 83 charitable institutions that have registered with the government.

Remeber, giving is easy. Doing it well is difficult. Take the time to investigate before you give.

Exempt Few Students From Dormitory Rules

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — "Responsible" students at Haskell Indian Junior College will be exempt from dormitory hours and bed checks as a result of a petition from the students.

Responsible students are defined as those who "maintain a minimum of a 1.75 grade-point average on a 4.0 system."

Supt. Wallace Galluzzi approved the change after 225 of the 927 students signed a petition.

How Can A Christian Be Sure It's The TRUE Church?

Christians should not have to ask themselves such a question. For Christ surely did not intend to hide His Church.

But there is confusion and uncertainty. Sincere people using what they consider sound reasoning come to different answers.

We believe that Christ marked His Church in such a way that it is clearly set apart.

Christ's true Church must be One. It must be Holy. It must be Catholic. It must be Apostolic.

It must be one in the sense that there cannot be two or three or more—and all His true Church. It must also be one in the unity of its doctrines and beliefs. It must be holy by virtue of authority divinely conferred, and by the presence of Christ Himself in the sacraments it administers. It must be Catholic in the sense of its universal mission to all peoples, of all generations, in all nations and places. It must be apostolic because Christ gave the charter for His Church to the Apostles and their successors and commissioned them to preach His gospel for all time.

These marks do apply to the Catholic Church and only in the Catholic Church can all be found. Catholics reject the idea that the true Church is an invisible body of the faithful. For even though there is an invisible bond of spiritual fellowship among all Christians, as evidenced by today's ecumenical movement, Catholics believe Christ's Church is visible—and necessarily so.

Finding the true Church is the most important thing in anyone's life. Why don't you investigate. Just fill in the coupon now. No charge. Read and study in the privacy of your home.

Soprano Junks Opera For 'Memorial Dump'

By TERRY RYAN
Associated Press Writer

The coloratura soprano voice of Caroline Stratton ranged through arias in the practice rooms of the New England Conservatory of Music two years ago.

She now is belting hard rock numbers with the Fort Mudge Memorial Dump.

"I didn't enjoy what they were doing with music," she explained, in referring to her Conservatory days. "They were putting too much emphasis on details instead of the music. I can get into rock so much more."

The metamorphasis of Caroline Stratton, classic to rock, is not unique. Serious music students in increasing numbers are turning their backs on Bach for something more in keeping with their era.

"There is considerable interest in the phenomenon," said Dr. Enrique Arias, dean of the Chicago Conservatory College. "Some of our people are most interested in rock. The person who is truly interested in rock wants to understand music."

Some of rock's major superstars looked at classical music before traveling the other way. Frank Zappa of the Mothers of Invention, Grace Slick of the Jefferson Airplane and Elton John had college-level classic music training.

While many desert the conservatories for rock, some are using rock to further their formal music training.

"There are a lot of students here who are living dual existences," said Howard Hersh, director of the new musical ensemble at the San Francisco Conservatory. "They study here and work in rock groups on the outside."

For instance, Jerry Van Kollenburg studies composition and theory at the Chicago Conservatory. He is also lead guitarist with the New Colony Six.

"There are a lot of people who get into both bags," said Van Kollenberg. "Rock is more enjoyable for me. It has more to do with my age bracket and my life.

"Besides, I need it," said Van Kollenberg, who makes more than $100 with the band on a weekend. "I am putting myself through school with it."

Many music students interested in rock have not abandoned the classical approach, but are trying to synthesize classical music and rock as George Gershwin and others fused classic and jazz.

Rodney Schaub went from a rock band to the Berkeley School of music in Boston. He is now back into rock, writing an electric orchestra piece that would require a full symphony to perform. "Strict classical music just bores young people," said Schaub. "I just write music. I found the conservatories simply could not give me what I needed."

Victim Of Arthritis

One Pettis County resident who could not sit at a Thanksgiving dinner table was William H. Beck, 44, Route 2. He has been confined to his bed for over a year due to partial arthritic paralysis. Here Beck helps himself to a bowl of fruit cocktail, the way he eats every meal — lying in bed. A fund drive is being planned in Sedalia to buy him a Circ-o-Lectric bed that would allow him to sit up without assistance.

Plan Fund-Raising Drive For Victim of Arthritis

By P. C. THOMAS
Democrat-Capital Staff Writer

William H. Beck, Route 2, will celebrate his 44th birthday Monday. He started working at the age of 13 when he was a seventh grader at Horace Mann School and "kept on working as long as I could" — for 30 years.

Now Beck is confined to his bed, a victim of acute arthritis. The condition has gradually worsened over a 20-year period.

Here is Beck's problem: Except for about 20 minutes a day of walking for exercise (with assistance), he is totally bedridden. He is forced to eat lying in a horizontal position.

"I tell you, it gets pretty monotonous," Beck said. "My mother and brother help me walk for 20 or 25 minutes each day. Can't lie on my right side because of my neck condition. Therefore I have to alternate between lying on my back and on my left side," he said.

Can anything be done about it? Beck's answer is, "I've got to learn to live with it." At one time his doctor thought of operating on his hips so Beck could sit up. "But that would have made me totally incapable of standing up. It would have also weakened my kidneys and neck."

Therefore, in choosing a lesser evil, Beck thought it would be better to spend the rest of his life in bed and face it with courage with the help of his family and friends.

One such friend is Dick Phillips, Warsaw, of the Dickie Phillips Combo which appears at Sedalia's Old Missouri Homestead on Saturdays. Phillips told The Democrat-Capital that he plans to sponsor a benefit music and dance show to raise at least $1,500 for a Circ-o-Lectric bed, which would enable Beck to change positions with less difficulty.

The Circ-o-Lectric bed would allow Beck, by activating a switch himself, to change to sitting and standing positions while still in bed.

Phillips said that he plans to hold the benefit show in Sedalia in a couple of weeks. His band and three or four other bands, including country and western, rock n' roll and contemporary groups, will provide music for the benefit dance, he said.

"We hope to sell at least 700 tickets. I urge residents of Pettis County, especially members of various service clubs, VFW and American Legion, to co-operate in selling the tickets," Phillips said.

Beck, a 1948 graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, is a member of VFW and American Legion.

Phillips pointed out that money collected in excess of the cost of the Circ-o-Lectric bed will be donated to the Pettis County Children's Therapy Center.

Those interested in helping in the fund-raising project may call Beck's mother, Mrs. George Fackler, 826-4313.

Utah Sheepherder Might Go To Town

PRICE, Utah (AP) — After 56 years of lonely hours and hard work in all kinds of weather, sheepherding is losing its appeal for Fred Rispaud.

"I might try town this winter," he says. "This is the only work I've ever had, but I'm getting a little old. . . ."

Rispaud, who herds sheep near the central Utah town of Price—population 6,200—is one of a growing number of veteran sheepherders in the West who are retiring.

It's hard to find young men who are willing to put up with the isolation and demanding work for only $300 a month, says Marcellus Palmer, executive secretary of the Utah Wool Growers Association.

Finding men to tend the flocks is the major problem facing wool growers and is one of the main reasons the industry is declining by about four per cent a year, Palmer says.

Many ranchers have begun keeping their flocks in controlled areas, supervising them from pickup trucks, Palmer says.

Rispaud makes his round on horseback and by foot.

He and his two brothers came over from France as young boys to make their fortunes.

"We thought the whole country was full of gold when we came over in 1914. We thought we could just fill up our pockets and go home."

But it didn't work out that way. He's never been back. And his two brothers died in America.

Ever since, Fred has watched over flocks of sheep, winter and summer. Trips to town have been rare—sometimes for a trip to a hospital and an operation.

"The food was good and the nurses were nice. But I couldn't sleep. It was too noisy," he says.

Sheep men have turned to imported labor from France, Spain, and, more recently, Peru. But there still are problems with immigration quotas, opposition from labor organizations, and with finding men familiar with the sheep business.

"A man with a herd on winter desert range is responsible for an $80,000 or $90,000 investment. So many things can happen. If a man knows the dangers—sickness, weather, predators—he can try to prevent problems," Palmer says.

Rispaud doesn't have to do it all alone. He has three horses and his dog, Blackie, to help him mind 1,200 sheep.

His camp is comfortable. A saddle hangs from one tree to keep moisture out. Chaps hang from another. The wood pile is just outside his door.

Inside, there's a place for everything. A camp lantern gives light after sundown. His boss brings groceries, a few magazines every two or three days, and checks up on him.

Summertime means lots of visitors.

Some just come to see what it's like at a sheep camp; what he's like. He talks mostly of the land and his work.

Now, Rispaud is starting to think of spending winters in town, collecting Social Security.

Hughes Has Sold Piece of Empire

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Howard Hughes, a year after leaving Las Vegas, has sold the first piece of the multimillion-dollar empire he began erecting in Nevada in 1966.

A Hughes Tool Co. spokesman said Thursday that a 10-acre parking lot next to Caesars Palace on the Strip was sold to a local liquor distributor, Stephen Wynn. The price was not disclosed.

The spokesman denied speculation that the sale marked the start of a disbanding of Hughes' $300-million investments in casinos, hotels and mines.

"This property is simply a parking lot," the spokesman said, adding that the Hughes Tool Co. had "no present use for the property."

The spokesman made the announcement of the sale Thanksgiving, one year and a day after Hughes secretly left the city.

Candidate Finds Skis Are Handy

BURLINGTON, Vt. (AP) — The Democratic candidate for the U.S. Senate in Vermont hopes to win next January's special election in a snowslide.

Randolph T. Major Jr. had started a walking tour from one end of Vermont to the other last week, but a foot of snow from the Tanksgiving Day storm got in his way.

So the hearty, 39-year-old father of four donned a pair of cross-country skis.

Major began walking from the Canadian border last week and reached Burlington Monday. He spent three days campaigning there, then drove to his Westminster West home in southern Vermont for Thanksgiving.

He returned to Burlington Friday, put on the long, narrow skis and took a short trek across town to the University of Vermont.

Friday was a bright, blue day. Temperatures were in the high 20s, and Major's spirits were as good as the weather.

"The response to us has been really heartening," he said. "In fact, it's fantastic."

He said his tour would prove it is possible for people without a great deal of money to have an impact and get elected to national office.

Major, a real-estate broker, seeks election to the five years remaining in the term held by Sen. Winston L. Prouty, a Republican, until his death Sept. 10.

Major's Republican opponent is Robert T. Stafford, who left his seat in the House to be appointed to an interim term after Prouty's death.

Major's clothes, skis, walking boots and campaign literature are carried in a camper driven by a University of Vermont student.

The camper travels with him, except when he sets out across country covered with a foot of snow. Then the camper sticks to the highways.

Bell Ringer

Mrs. Pearl Whitfield, 75, Route 3, is one of several volunteers at the Salvation Army's "Tree of Lights" stand on Ohio Street. She worked a two-hour shift Friday morning collecting donations. The Salvation Army said about 1,500 people would benefit from the fund-raising project this year if the $4,000 goal is realized. An appeal for more volunteers from civic groups in the city was made since not enough bell ringers are now available either in the downtown area or the shopping centers. (Democrat-Capital Photo)

Record Tourist Total

MADRID (AP) — A record 24,146,366 tourists visited Spain in the first 10 months of 1971, more than the 24,105,312 in all of 1970, the Ministry of Information and Tourism reported.

Cheese Is Suspected By Agency

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Food and Drug Administration says it is examining samples of a French cheese suspected of causing stomach ailments, and a New York importer is recalling 200 cases of the cheese.

The FDA said Friday that Anco Cheese Imports Inc. issued a recall order after being notified by the agency that "the cheese was implicated in three outbreaks of gastrointestinal illness."

The recall applies to eight-ounce packages of Le Roitelet brand, French-produced Camembert cheese, the FDA said. The packages are stamped on the bottom with the number 3169.

The packages had been shipped to 15 consignees in New York; seven in Connecticut; six in New Jersey; three in Massachusetts, and one each in Southfield, Mich.; Denver; Atlanta; Los Angeles; New Orleans; Seattle; Cheverly, Md.; Wayne, Pa., and Washington.

The cheese has been sold mainly through specialty shops.

The labels say, "Camembert Soft Ripened Cheese Le Roitelet, Manufactured by S.A.F.R., 44 R. Louis Blanc, Paris, France . . . Fromage Camembert Cheese. . . ."

The FDA recommended that consumers not eat cheese from the batch and said the packages should be returned to the stores where purchased.

Electric Die Press Crushes Man

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A Kansas City, Kan., man was crushed to death Friday when caught in an electric die press machine he was repairing.

Police said John P. Schwab, 53, an electrician, was caught in the press while he and a fellow employe, James Jackson, 49, were working on an electrical connection in the machine.

Jackson told police Schwab was inside the big paper-shaping and cutting machine and had shouted to Jackson to turn it on. Jackson said when he heard no other instructions he turned off the machine to investigate and found Schwab crushed.

Women Join Force

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP) — The South African police have recruited their first two women officers.

Ford Says Workers Will Be Laid Off

DEARBORN, Mich. (AP) — Ford Motor Co. has announced that 3,200 hourly rated employes will be laid off all of next week at its assembly plant here.

Officials Friday blamed dwindling sales of the company's sporty compact cars, the Ford Mustang and Mercury Cougar.

The Dearborn assembly plant is the only one producing the two cars.

Fertility Figures Compiled by Bureau

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Census Bureau says it has compiled figures on the fertility rates of various ethnic groups for the first time and found black and Mexican-American women have more children than women in other groups.

The bureau said Friday that figures from a sample survey conducted in November 1969 on women 35 to 44 showed:

Mexican American women already had an average of 4.4 children each; black women 3.6 children each; women of Russian and Italian extraction 2.4 each; and most other groups were at the national average 2.9 children each.

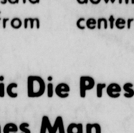

The report also said that women living in low-income neighborhoods were more fertile than those living in other parts of metropolitan areas and that women in the Northeast and West were the least fertile.

Ruins Fenced Off

Yesterday's Paper Is Alive and Well

The old saying "as dead as yesterday's newspaper" may not be around much longer, it seems.

Sedalians have already contributed their old newspapers in local collection efforts, preliminary to recycling of the paper to make more newsprint and for other paper uses.

Now Newsprint Facts reports on some other intriguing uses to which old newspapers are being put in today's ecologically-minded times.

For instance a California mechanical engineer has developed a way to make bricks from old papers—at the rate of about 72 pages a brick. While unlikely to revolutionize the brick industry overnight, inventor Robert Matteson thinks the newsprint bricks are a big improvement over the mud variety used in many backward nations.

If bricks aren't your bag, try insulation. A Maryland company is currently converting old copies of the Baltimore Sun, Washington Post and Salisbury (Md.) Times into fireproof home insulation. The company president says the insulation is superior to other types in general use, and he expects to increase his consumption of old papers beyond the 5,000 tons a year he currently buys.

Not every use for old newspapers is particularly new. The McGraw Edison Co., of West Bend, Wis., is in its 45th year of making sewer pipes from old, repulped newspapers. No wisecracks, please.

While such industries are still too new to predict their futures, it is of some comfort to hard-working reporters and editors to know that their work is enjoying some degree of immortality, even if it has to be in the form of a brick.

A Conservative View

Birds of Feather Don't Always Flock

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON — The mail brings a reproachful note from General Thomas A. Lane, a warmly respected colleague on the conservative right. He encloses a clipping of a recent column in which I opposed the prayer amendment in the House, and he writes: "I think you were wrong on this issue."

Kilpatrick

Perhaps so. Most of my conservative brethren, at Human Events, National Review, and in the Congress itself, strongly supported the amendment. Thousands of thoughtful Americans, deeply concerned at the decline of religion as a force in society, have urged that voluntary prayers be restored in public schools. The House rollcall of Nov. 8 found all but half a dozen conservatives voting "aye" and every liberal without exception voting "no."

Yet there was at least some disagreement in conservative ranks. Satterfield of Virginia, Passman of Louisiana, Griffin of Mississippi, Cabell of Texas, Steiger of Wisconsin — all of them possessed of pretty fair conservative credentials — voted their convictions against the resolution. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, who is nobody's flaming liberal, put presidential politics to the side and cast an especially courageous vote in opposition. In my own view, at least, these gentlemen were right.

This was not the only issue in recent months on which conservatives have disagreed. There was the matter of Federal subsidy for the supersonic transport plane. There is the continuing question of China. We are not of one mind on the Subversive Activities Control Board, preventive detention, campaign financing, and revenue sharing with the States.

The question fairly arises: How can conservatives, starting from the same general body of political philosophy, come to opposite conclusions on particular issues? The answer lies not in any fundamental disagreements, but rather in a healthy independence in putting principles to work.

On the prayer amendment, for example, one would find no quarrel among conservatives upon the bedrock of belief. The concept of divine creation, and the acknowledgement of divine power, are fundamental to conservative thought. Neither would one encounter disagreement on the importance of the church as a stabilizing moral force in society. We are united in believing that Congress should make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof.

So far, so good. Our disagreement arises on the application of these principles to the particular resolution before the House on Nov. 8. Was it a wise and necessary change in the Constitution? Would it have strengthened the whole concept of religious faith to sanction prayer in public schools? Would the amendment, if ratified, foster political and religious dissension? Here we went off in different directions.

It was the same story, to get away from metaphysics, in the matter of the SST. Conservatives would agree, as a general proposition, that it is no proper function of the Federal government to finance development of an airplane intended for commercial use. But James Burnham of National Review, for one, believed strongly that the SST was a legitimate exception — that other considerations, having to do with continuing American technological superiority, were of overriding importance. We divided on the question.

This is no bad thing. It is part of the nature of conservatives not to be regimented, not to be bound. We are not subjects of King Caucus and were not meant to be. On most issues, we do indeed come out at the same point, but it would be a dull life if it happened every time.

Case Against Darvon Backed By Experts

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — The makers of the anti-pain pill Darvon have challenged our charges that their prize pill is no better than aspirin for stopping pain and, worse, that it is being taken by addicts, sometimes with lethal results.

We expected the pill's producer, Eli Lilly & Co., to howl. After all, the company rang up $83 million last year in Darvon sales. But we didn't expect the respected firm to tell outright lies, one of them now admitted by a shamefaced spokesman.

In its answer to our column, Lilly claimed flatly that "no injectable form of Darvon is marketed." The company knew this was untrue. Robert Newell, Lilly's press chief, now concedes an injectable form is marketed overseas. He also concedes that domestic Darvon can be dissolved and injected.

Here are additional facts that Lilly omitted from its statement and would like to hide from the public in order to keep those sales at the $83 million mark:

The conservative Journal of the American Medical Association reported on Aug. 10, 1970: "Propoxyphene (Darvon) is no more effective than aspirin or codeine and may even be inferior to these analgesics (pain killers)."

Yet Darvon costs 50 times more than aspirin and many times more than codeine.

The AMA's cautious Council on Drugs reported in its 1971 Drug Evaluations: "Effectiveness of (Darvon) in a dose of 32 mg. is questionable, and in a dose of 65 mg., it is no more, and usually less, effective than the same dose of codeine or usual dose of aspirin ... Abuse of (Darvon) and development of morphine-type drug dependencies have been reported."

Yet millions of Americans use Darvon, and thousands of doctors prescribe it. Its wide usage, evidently, is based more on ballyhoo than on medical merit.

The National Academy of Sciences-National Research Council, whose official reports confirm the AMA's findings, also warn: "Poisoning produced by (Darvon) is essentially typical of narcotics overdose ... Its general pharmacological properties are those of the narcotics."

Yet Darvon has somehow avoided a federal listing as a narcotic. This can be attributed, in part, to the power of the drug lobby in Washington. President Nixon, whose favorite sugar daddy is Warner-Lambert Pharmaceutical's grand old Elmer Bobst, has declared his opposition to more drug regulation. And the reluctant regulators at the Food and Drug Administration take their signals from the White House.

The respected Medical Letter also reports that Darvon is "capable of producing dependences." Even two years ago, states the Medical Letter, Lilly had "on file 57 cases of dependence as well as 17 cases of 'questionable dependence.'"

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., has also developed evidence supporting our charges against Darvon. For example, Dr. William Martin, chief of the National Institute of Mental Health at the Addiction Research Center in Lexington, Ky., told the senator that Darvon "produces a morphine-like euphoria" and warned that it "should not be prescribed in place of aspirin."

Dr. John Adriani, an AMA Drug Council chairman, called Darvon "markedly overrated." And Dr. Leo Hollister, associate staff chief at the Veterans Hospital in Palo Alto, Calif., told Senator Nelson of his efforts to restrict the use of Darvon because it is no better than aspirin and "probably costs 40 or 50 times as much."

The senator found that the Defense Department had spent $4,360,784 on Darvon. The same amount of aspirin would have cost only $172,380, more than $4 million less.

In our earlier column on Darvon, we quoted from a new federally-sponsored report. Our source had asked us to withhold the name of the report and its sponsoring agency. We have now been released from this restriction.

The study was sponsored by the Health, Education, and Welfare Department and was directed by medical writer-scientist Dr. R. F. Maronde. As yet unpublished, it deals with patients at Los Angeles County-University of Southern California Medical Center. It alleges that Darvon and other widely prescribed drugs have a "grave potential for abuse and have been observed to be employed most frequently by drug abuse patients."

Some patients are wangling overprescriptions from their doctors, or from several doctors at the same time. The excess Darvon, thereafter, sometimes makes its way into the black market.

Writes Maronde: "In the Los Angeles area, and perhaps elsewhere, (Darvon) is now being used by heroin addicts and other drug abusers who remove the material from the capsules, put it in solution and inject it intravenously for its psychopharmocological effects."

Conclusion: we won't retract our charges against Darvon.

Today's Thoughts

Brethren, I do not consider that I have made it on my own; but one thing I do, forgetting what lies behind and straining forward to what lies ahead. I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus. — Philippians 3:13, 14.

The rung of a ladder was never meant to rest upon, but only to hold a man's foot long enough to enable him to put the other somewhat higher. — Thomas Huxley, English biologist.

For that person must not suppose that a double-minded man, unstable in all his ways, will receive anything from the Lord. — James 1:8.

The individual is but an atom; he is born, he acts, he dies; but principles are eternal. — William Jenning Bryan, political leader.

The Ball Game

Old Santa had gone on one of his trips
To talk to the children and get Christmas gift tips.
Mrs. Santa had found her pantry quite bare
So shopping she went and she wasn't there.
So there in the big house all by themselves
Were Santa's delightful, mischievous elves.
There was no use to work with the Santas away
And with all of the games with which they could play,
One small elf was reading a book
he had found
And then he began to look all around.
'Tws a book on baseball — now how about that —
He picked up a ball, a glove and a bat.
He knew what they were — pictured right on that page.
And the mask he had always thought was a cage.
The game, he was certain — he now well knew
For hadn't he just read the book all through,
They should have been putting toys on the shelves
But with the Santas not there he said to the elves:
"Let's go out and play this game they call ball."
So out they went, the little elves
one and all,
He marked off a diamond right there in the snow,
He stood in the center and started to throw,
The small batter hit the ball pretty hard—
It went over the fence and way out of the yard;
But between first and second he tripped on his beard,
The ball hit a snowdrift and just disappeared;
The catcher was having a time over there
The glove froze to his hand and the mask to his hair, Somewhere in the snow they had lost their bat
And the cold wind blew off the first baseman's hat
So after it o'er the slick snow did he race
Then his feet flew up, he fell flat on his face,
Well, they found the bat, the ball couldn't be found,
The diamond was trampled down to the ground,
They couldn't play ball without a ball they knew
So now they didn't know what to do
Till someone suggested a snowball and so
They made a hard ball out of the snow,
The man at the bat hit it with all his heart
But the snowball simply fell all apart,
Their small fingers tingled and so did their toes
And each little elf had a real bright red nose,
They went in the house and turned up the heat
Trying to warm their hands and their feet,
They couldn't see why kids liked playing ball
To them it hadn't been much fun at all,
Then one by one they would sniffle and sneeze
And over the room you could hear someone wheeze,
When Mrs. Santa came home they all were in bed
With a cold in the chest and a cold in the head
They were worried because there was work to do
To get the toys ready for Christmas they knew,
But kind Mrs. Santa said they needed a rest
And she got a big bottle from the medicine chest,
She gave each a spoonful to make them well
And promised when Santa came not to tell,
Then when they all were again well at last
They worked extra long and worked extra fast,
So everything really turned out alright
For the toys were all ready for Christmas Eve night.

Jackson Serious

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON — Here is the present Democratic lineup for '72. Jackson, McGovern and Yorty have announced their candidacy. Any day now it may be official that Chisholm, Humphrey, Kennedy, Lindsay, McCarthy and Muskie will be using up Democratic dollars in the battle for the win in Miami.

It is a safe guess that the man Nixon fears the most is Sen. Henry Jackson, who announced last week. "Scoop" buttons and baby-kissing are already in evidence. The senator did not go west as a young man. He was born there, in the state of Washington.

As the senator becomes familiar on the television screen, his personality expands. He talks about safety in the streets and the true meaning of justice in law and order. "I am neither a hawk nor a dove," he declared, "I just don't want my country ever to become a pigeon."

Advent, an ecclesiastical division of the Christian year embracing the four weeks before Christmas, begins today, Advent Sunday in the churches. This is the time when Christians prepare for the coming of Christ on Christmas Day. The spirit is manifested everywhere — in the decorations, the shopping, and even in thoughtfulness of others, and once again hope and joy fill the hearts of men.

Put a Freeze on the Buying of Politicians

WASHINGTON — Once again Congress is attempting to pass legislation which would infringe on the rights of people. The Senate passed a bill last week which would permit each taxpayer to donate $1 of his taxes to finance the 1972 presidential campaign. The House has several bills limiting the amount of money politicians can spend on their campaigns.

Buchwald

If any of these bills become law, it means that the right of large corporations and labor unions to buy politicians would be abrogated, and the vested interests in this country would be hard put to finance the campaigns of congressmen, senators and the President.

Terence L. Bloodstone, president of the Washington Order of Loyal Lobbyists, angrily denounced the new plans to finance politicians as a threat to the American political way of life.

"The salvation of this democracy," he told me at a $500-a-plate political testimonial dinner, 'is big business' and big labor's financing of political campaigns. For years we have made it possible for every politician in this country to be elected. There isn't one congressman, senator or governor who doesn't owe a debt to us. Now Congress wants to take that away."

"It does seem unfair," I admitted.

Bloodstone stabbed his fork into his lobster thermidor.

"We've been buying and selling politicians for years. They trust us, they believe in us, they'll go to bat for us."

"Many of them are even in bed with you," I said, trying to be helpful.

He ignored this remark. "Look around at this dinner. Every table of 10 people represents $5,000. Who bought these tables? Corporations, bankers, manufacturers and public-minded millionaires. We don't ask anything for ourselves. We just want to best man elected to the best job. Do you think people who contribute one lousy dollar from their taxes will have any idea who the best man is?"

"I should say not," I replied. "You have to contribute a lot of money to know what is good for the country."

Bloodstone started tearing his duck a l'orange apart.

"Do you know what is going to happen if these political fund-raising schemes become law? The politicians aren't going to be responsible to ANYBODY. They're going to figure it's the taxpayer's money so they don't have to answer for their actions."

"It's true," I said. "At least now a politician knows who gave him the money and can react accordingly."

"The Democrats are sore," Bloodstone said, "because they can't get anyone to come to their dinners. But I say if a political party can't sell out a $500-a-plate dinner, it shouldn't be in politics. Just because they don't have an Agnew or a Martha Mitchell is no reason to sabotage all of the campaign fund-raising methods of this country."

Bloodstone was now gulping down his foie gras.

I said, "It seems a pity that after all the seed work the lobbyists have done to get politicians in their pocket, that a group of senators or congressmen would destroy it with some self-serving legislation."

"Don't think the fight is over," Bloodstone said. "The Senate bill has to go to the House and then it has to go to the President. Do you think any Republican President would sign a law that would help the Democrats finance their campaign?"

"I should hope not," I said.

The waiter brought our cherries jubilee.

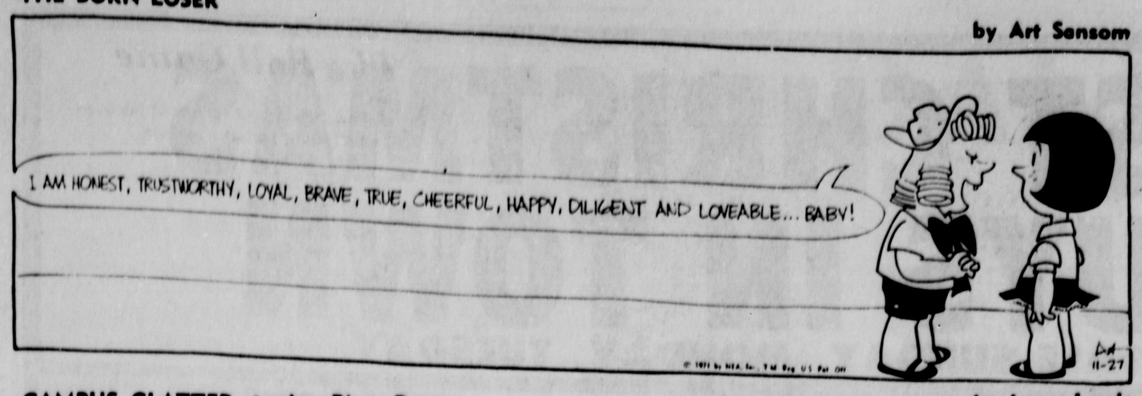

Bloodstone belched. "Besides, we have to think of the economy. What's going to happen to all the hotel banquet rooms if they do away with political fund-raising dinners?"

"What a blow to Conrad Hilton," I said.

Experts don't need to use the code word ARCH. They automatically Analyze the lead; Review the bidding; Count their winners and losers and ask themselves: How can I make this hand?

North's two-club call was Stayman to see if South could show a four-card major. When South bid two diamonds to deny this, North made the simple call of three no-trump.

South put his king of spades on East's jack. He Analyzed the lead as fourth best from a suit headed by ace-10. He Counted his winners and saw that he could make a lot of tricks if he could finesse successfully in either minor suit.

Then he asked himself, "How can I make this hand if both finesses are wrong?"

He found a satisfactory answer. He could score one spade, four hearts, three tricks in one minor suit and one in the other for a total of nine.

Which finesse should he take?

There was an easy answer to that one. He wanted to keep East out of the lead since a lead from West could not possibly hurt him. South cashed the king and queen of hearts; led a heart to dummy's jack. Cashed the ace on general principles and led the jack of diamonds for a finesse.

West took his king and made his best play of a club. South refused this finesse and cashed out three diamonds for his contract.

Church Is Focal Point In October

By WILLY VOIGT JR.

RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — Every October, Rio's Penha Roman Catholic church, perched atop a 200-foot bluff on the city's north side, becomes an important religious and social center for thousands of working-class Brazilians.

People flock to the church on Sundays to ask for help or to give thanks for favors from the neighborhood patroness, Our Lady of Penha. Penha means "bluff" in Portuguese, Brazil's national language.

The whole thing started in 1635, when Brazil was a Portuguese colony. The legend goes that one October afternoon, a wealthy rancher named Capt. Cardoso was riding to his nearby home on horseback, when he came across a poisonous snake. The captain prayed to Our Lady of Penha for help. Immediately, a lizard appeared and engaged the snake in mortal combat. The thankful captain built a small hermitage on top of the bluff.

News of the miracle spread, and religious folk from miles around streamed to the little chapel on the hill. The present church was built at the turn of this century. It became a tradition for even the president of the republic to go despite the fact that in those days the round trip from what is now downtown Rio took a whole day.

As Penha developed into a middle to lower-income residential section of the city, the Sundays took on more of a county fair atmosphere. Amusement parks, complete with Ferris wheels, were set up at the base of the hill to add to the festivities.

An indispensable part of the Penha celebration is to climb the 366 steps to the church. Another part of the tradition, maintained by the more pious, is to vow to go up the steps kneeling, fulfilling a promise to the Virgin.

Schedule Testimony Of Country Singers

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Country music stars Roy Acuff, Bill Monroe, Billy Edd Wheeler and Minnie Pearl may be among the witnesses at a Senate hearing scheduled for the Grand Ole Opry House Dec. 4.

Sen. Fred Harris, D-Okla., will conduct the hearing on his bill to create an American Folk Life Foundation. It would have authority to conceive and implement a national policy of support for American folklore by encouraging art forms that express customs, beliefs and crafts common to ethnic groups of Americans.

The hearing will be broadcast live by WSM, originating station of the Opry, before its regular Saturday night program, Harris said, and a tape will be inserted in the Congressional Record.

Package Money Plan Anticipated

BRUSSELS (AP) — Treasury Secretary John B. Connally and finance ministers from the world's richest non-Communist countries will most likely try to work out a bulky package deal during the Group of Ten meeting in Rome next week.

Informants here said the package, aimed at solving the world monetary crisis, would have to contain:

—A new set of values for the dollar and other currencies, probably including a devaluation of the dollar in terms of gold.

—An end to the 10 per cent surcharge on U.S. imports.

—Some firm promises from Japan and the European Common Market that would increase their imports of U.S. goods.

Paul Voelker, undersecretary of the U.S. Treasury for international monetary affairs, doesn't think it can be done at a single session. The meeting, starting Tuesday, lasts three days.

"There could be a lot of splendid lunches and dinners," said one European central banker, "but no results."

Others think that an agreement can be reached or, at least, that enough progress can be made to prepare one that could be wrapped up in another session, perhaps before Christmas.

But even then the experts predict only a temporary settlement of the crisis triggered by President Nixon's announcement last August of his defend-the-dollar measures.

What Western governments really need is a long-term system for collecting and holding money reserves and for changing the values of their currencies when necessary. Such a system could take months or even years to work out.

The immediate problem is to start reducing the huge U.S. balance-of-payments deficit.

Although the 10 per cent U.S. import surcharge was imposed to start doing this, the Nixon administration insists that it is only a temporary measure. It could be removed, Washington says, when the major countries agree on a more effective way of doing the same thing: reducing the value of the dollar and increasing the value of other currencies.

Such a shift in currency valuation would discourage imports into the United States, as the surcharge does, and also would make American exports more saleable in other countries.

Many countries have already allowed their money to float upward in relation to the dollar, especially West Germany and Japan. The U.S. government would like to see these currencies rise still more.

Two Teen-Age Girls Killed in Accident

QUINCY, Ill. (AP) — Two teen-age girls of Quincy were killed Friday night when their car and another collided on Illinois 96 in their hometown.

Dead are Rebecca S. Sapp, 17, driver of one of the cars, and her passenger, Joyce Swartz, 18. The driver of the second car, Winn D. Higgenbotham, 21, Lima, Ill., was taken to a Quincy hospital and reported in satisfactory condition.

Insurance Co. Has Agreed On Settlement

DENVER (AP) — St. Paul Title Insurance Corp., one of 12 defendants in a $50 million antitrust suit, has agreed to a conditional settlement, U.S. District Court records showed Friday.

A similar settlement was agreed to by Stewart Title Guaranty Co. of Galveston, Tex., earlier.

The suit, filed by customers of the title insurance companies, charges the firms conspired to fix prices, overcharge policy holders, limit competition and eliminate other title abstract companies.

St. Paul Title Insurance Corp., a Missouri company with offices in Colorado, agreed to pay $26,680 into the federal court registry until the case is decided.

Stewart Title Guaranty agreed Oct. 21 to pay $46,370 into the registry.

Each agreement is subject to a hearing before U.S. District Court Judge Hatfield Chilson to determine whether to set up a temporary settlement class and whether the temporary class should become permanent.

Both St. Paul and Stewart reached the agreements without admitting liability or the propriety of the suits as class actions.

People in the News

WASHINGTON (AP) — AFL-CIO President George Meany was listed in satisfactory condition Saturday at George Washington University Hospital although a spokesman said the labor leader would remain in an intensive care unit at least through Sunday.

Meany was admitted Thursday after suffering chest pains. A preliminary diagnosis indicated the pains resulted from "a possible spasm in the coronary arteries," Dr. Marvin Fuchs said.

Fuchs noted that the 77 year old Meany had been under considerable stress when he suffered the chest pains after returning to Washington from the AFL-CIO convention in Florida.

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP) — Secretary-General U Thant was released Saturday from a hospital here where he has been under treatment for a duodenal ulcer, a spokesman reports.

Thant, who plans to retire Dec. 31 after 10 years as secretary-general, entered Leroy Hospital Nov. 2.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis. (AP) — Al Capp, creator of the cartoon strip Li'l Abner, is expected to stand trial on morals charges in January or February, a judge says.

Judge Thomas Barland of the Eau Claire County Court commented Friday after turning over jurisdiction of the case to Circuit Court Judge Merrill Farr. Barland said the move would permit faster arraignment.

Capp was charged with sodomy, attempted adultery and indecent exposure after a 21-year-old married coed at the University of Wisconsin-Eau Claire filed a complaint. Capp has denied the charges.

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Alexei N. Kosygin has given U.S. Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans a samovar so he can learn to drink tea served hot the way the Russians like it.

Stans showed newsmen the samovar Friday—it was nickel and was adorned with a red ribbon—and told them how he came to have it.

He said tea was served during a break in his talks with Kosygin in the premier's office last Saturday and "it was served very hot."

"Chairman Kosygin gulped his down while I had trouble even sipping mine," Stans recalled. Noticing the secretary's discomfort, Kosygin said: "I learned to dring tea from a samovar. Have you ever drunk tea from a samovar? No?"

Stans said Kosygin turned to Nikolai S. Patolichev, the foreign trade minister, and said: "Get him a samovar and send me the bill."

The bill should have amounted to about 30 rubles—or $33.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Aviation Administrator John H. Shaffer says he is confident a U.S. supersonic transport airliner will be available in 1982 even though the program died in Congress earlier this year.

Shaffer, home from a round-the-world trip, said Friday that everywhere he went he was asked why the United States gave up its SST development program.

He said he replied that a U.S. SST would be available in 1982. "I believe we will get started on the program again in the first year of President Nixon's second term," Shaffer added.

Unemployment Up In Kansas City Area

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Unemployment rose .5 per cent in October over the same period last year in the six-county Kansas City area.

James A. Wiresman, area manager of the Missouri Division of Employment Security, said October unemployment was 37,100, or 5.9 per cent of the work force, compared with 33,800 or 5.4 per cent in 1970.

Wiresman said the November report probably will show a normal seasonal increase in employment with retail and wholesale businesses providing more jobs.

Piano Concert Presented

Miss Anne Fisher, piano instructor at Stephens College, Columbia, presented a piano concert Wednesday for the Helen G. Steele Music Club.

Mrs. Eugene Logan, president, called the meeting to order and welcomed the guests. Mrs. Chester Kirkpatrick announced that the next program would be the annual Christmas Tea Dec. 8 with a program entitled "Sounds of Christmas."

Mrs. Stanley Fisher, chairman for the program, introduced Mrs. Stanley Manaham, who performs professionally as Anne Fisher, and gave a resume of her musical background. She also introduced Miss Fisher's husband, Dr. Stanley Manahan, who is a professor of chemistry at the University of Missouri.

Miss Fisher began the program by playing Scarlatti's "Pastorale" and followed with his "Toccata." Her next selection was a modern "Passacaglia" by Copland. She concluded the first part of the program with Beethoven's "Sonata in A Major, Op. 101."

After an intermission, Miss Fisher played several selections by Chopin and concluded with Prokofieff's "Sonata No. 3."

For an encore she played Chopin's most famous "Waltz in C Sharp Minor." Miss Fisher was applauded back for a second encore, at which time she played Chopin's "Nocture in F Major."

Quotable Women

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Some quotable quotes from women during the week:

"I think the whole trouble with the world is that people are taught to expect—not react. After all these years of asking questions, everybody has missed the point—that there are no answers. The point is to raise the questions."—Comedy writer Marcia Jacobs, in an interview.

"Men have monthly rhythms too, although not much research has been done in this area since all the researchers are men. But it has been shown that men have pronounced four- and six-week mood cycles."—Gay Gaer Luce, a scientific writer who authored "Body Time."

"I was really inspired by the Indians' relationship to the land. They have a well thought out way of living in harmony with nature. We're all asking how to cope with nature today, and it seems to me the Indians had a few answers."—T.C. McLuhan, author of the book, "Touch the Earth."

"I'm very happy for all women and myself . . . I've been a liberated woman all my life."—Sally Reed, involved in a legal case which resulted in a Supreme Court ruling barring arbitrary discrimination against women by legislators everywhere in the nation.

"The present type of economic, political and social system in the United States makes it impossible for any type of justifiable prison system to be run in the U.S."—Kathleen Cleaver, wife of exiled Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver, at a news conference.

At Age 106

A Remarkable Woman

By BEULAH NICHOLS
(Special to the Democrat)

One hundred six years young, Saturday, Mrs. Florence Thompson would be the first to deny that she is a remarkable woman. Born Nov. 27, 1865, to Mr. and Mrs. Henry Akeman, Mrs. Thompson had many interests as a young girl. She was active in church and community affairs, was an accomplished organist and taught music for many years.

In 1889, she was courted by a Sweet Springs man, William Grant Thompson, they were married in April of that year and purchased a farm home northeast of town close to where Christian Union Church now stands.

With the five children that followed, long hours of hard work involved washing on a wash board with water carried from the well and heated on a big wood-burning kitchen stove. Mrs. Thompson said she loves to reminisce about the Saturday night baths in the big wash tub, set close to the stove for warmth.

One of her happiest recollections is that of gathering around the organ with the whole family in the evening after the chores were done to sing. "I would play and they would sing by the hour," she said. "Those were indeed the happy days." Mrs. Thompson said she managed to teach her five children to play the organ, too.

Thinking back into her childhood, Mrs. Thompson said "I was born in 1865, the year the Civil War ended. When I saw our boys going to Viet Nam I thought I couldn't live through the sorrows of another war. She continued as if thinking to herself, "I saw one of my sons off to World War I, four grandsons off to World War II, to have one, Charles Edgar never return. Now I have five great-grandsons in the present conflict. But I have learned to live each day as it comes, one does not need to borrow trouble."

Mrs. Thompson's husband lived to help her rear and educate their children and they celebrated their Golden Wedding Anniversary in 1939 before his death. Their oldest son, Charley, passed away Feb. 14 of this year. She has two daughters, Mrs. Hazel Trautman and Mrs. Francis Martin, both of Sweet Springs and another daughter, Mrs. Al Johnson, San Francisco, Calif. She lives with her son Claude, in Sweet Springs.

This remarkable little lady continues to be interested in both local and national news, though she has to depend on radio because of failing eyesight. She still loves good music, but seldom plays the organ anymore. She loves to have people "drop by" for a visit and she enjoys puttering around in her wheel chair to care for her potted plants.

Six years ago Saturday she was thrilled to receive a telegram from President Lyndon B. Johnson on her 100th birthday.

Most people who have ever met her would say that Mrs. Florence Akeman Thompson is truly a remarkable little woman.

Development Begins at Birth

By PEACE MOFFAT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Talk to an infant? Babies don't understand anything. You've got to be kidding!

But Bill Emerson isn't kidding. "If you don't educate a child from birth to 6 years you might as well forget it," he says. "A child develops 80 per cent of his measurable intelligence before he is five. And his capacity for learning can be enormously increased during that time. Then a child can go on."

Emerson says parents can benefit greatly from knowing what to expect from their babies at different ages. As vice president of publishing for The Learning Child, his business is making a practical translation of child-development information for parents. And although that information isn't necessarily new, much of it can be astounding.

"The day you bring your baby home from the hospital he can perceive all sorts of things," Emerson says. "That little fellow has 12 sets of eye muscles and he works like hell with them. By the time he is a month old he can already focus on objects up to 12 inches away."

Surprisingly, Emerson reports, babies like strong colors. "They don't even see that baby blue or pink," he observes. And he also points out it's absolutely useless to have things for babies to look at that are farther away than they can focus. A good toy for a month-old infant, he notes, would be a mobile with a variety of shapes that hangs over his crib.

To help parents in selecting play materials for various age levels, The Learning Child makes kits with a toy and an illustrated guide for parents telling them what their baby is capable of doing in a given two-month period.

Emerson says that as babies get a little older, they start pre-talking, which isn't just a lot of funny noises coming from the crib. "Learning to talk is quite a feat," he says. "And when they're lying there gurgling, what they're really doing is practicing their vowels and consonants by the hour. If you realize that," he goes on, "you know it's absolutely ridiculous to talk baby talk to a baby."

By 8 or 9 months, a baby is crawling and at this age, Emerson says, a parent can completely ruin his child's spirit of adventure. "If a mother is constantly saying 'no' to the baby, it's terrible," he declares. "What she has to do is baby-proof the house—get everything that could hurt a baby out of his way.

"At 13 or 14 months, a baby might start dropping things from his high chair," he continues. "This is a great experience for him, since he's learning about grasp and release, and when his mother goes wild over the mess, that makes a great show for him too. The mother can and should let her baby know she doesn't like it, but the baby doesn't care."

Emerson points out that at 22 months a baby will suddenly grab everything in sight and say "mine." "If a mother doesn't know what's happening, this can be a horrible experience for her," he says. "But there's nothing wrong with the baby. He's just beginning to understand his identity and to claim his territory."

Emerson, who was the last editor of Saturday Evening Post, is a Santa Claus of a man, with a bushy beard, twinkling blue eyes, a friendly southern accent and five children of his own. He was one of the founders of The Learning Child, and to prepare himself for the job, he went through a year's crash course in child development.

He says he is most horrified by the kind of mothers who ask, "How can I punish my 9-month-old baby for putting something in his mouth?" "Babies have to put things in their mouths," he exclaims. "Just be sure they have things that can't hurt them. This is how babies learn."

Scheidt-Dumsday Exchange Vows

MRS. CARL LOUIS DUMSDAY, JR.
Miss Susan Frances Scheidt

CALIFORNIA — Wedding vows were exchanged Saturday afternoon between Miss Susan Frances Scheit, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Scheidt, California, and Carl Louis Dumsday Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl L. Dumsday Sr., California.

The Rev. Jerome Bestgen and the Rev. Leonard Misey performed the ceremony at the Annunciation Catholic Church before an altar set with two arrangements of orange, yellow and bronze crysanthemums complemented with palms of wheat.

Miss Janey Medlin, organist, accompanied vocalist, Jerry King, and acolytes were Jimmy Scheidt, Andy Scheidt, Dennis Scheidt and E. R. Scheidt, all cousins of the bride.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an ivory gown of angel skin peau and English net. Seed pearls were scattered over the transparent cutaway bodice and sleeves of Alencon lace. Scalloped lace edged the hemline of the skirt and chapel train which attached at the waistline. The brides' lace trimmed chappel veil of Swiss silk illusion was secured to a band of lace. She carried a victorian style bouquet of off-white pompon mums, lily of the valley, white elegance roses and wheat lightly clustered with a gold velvet bow and velvet showers.

Miss Vicki Scheidt, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of brown satin which featured a cutaway bodice with long puffed sleeves and a wide cuff of ivory lace. The neckline had an ivory lace yoke with a stand-up collar while the back was accented with a large brown satin bow. Her victorian styled bouquet was of yellow, gold and bronze pompon mums, thistles, orange wheat and elegance roses tied with a satin bow and streamers. Her floral headpiece was a band of flowers like that of her bouquet.

Dressed identical to her were the bridesmaids Miss Carla Dumsday, sister of the groom, Miss Nancy Dorn, Miss Mary Lou Scheidt, cousin of the bride, and Miss Sandy Schedit, sister of the bride.

Candelighters were Miss Sherrill Dumsday and Dewey Dumsday, sister and brother of the groom. The girl's dress was like the attendants, in ivory.

Best man was Mike Bolin and groomsmen were Bob Gamble, Rich Domke, Jim Converse and David Scheidt, brother of the bride.

Serving the ushering duties were Dennis Althoff, Dan McGrath and Norman Rohrbach and the ring bearer was Shawn Dumsday, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Annunciation School Hall. The bride's table was covered with an ivory lace cloth and crystal candelabra flanked the wedding cake.

Servers at the bride's table were Mrs. Dick Sack, Mrs. Danny Cooper, Mrs. Gail Parks, Mrs. Fred Scheurer, Mrs. Anthony Scheidt, Mrs. Arthur Simmons and Mrs. Margaret Scheidt, all aunts of the bride.

In charge of the guest book was Mrs. David Scheidt, sister-in-law of the bride and Miss Rita Scheidt, Miss Carol Scheidt, Miss Mickie Scheidt, Miss Linda Cooper and Miss Melissa Parks, all cousins of the bride, attended the gift table.

For traveling on a honeymoon to Denver, Colo. the bride chose a two-piece burgundy suit and wore a corsage of white roses.

A rehearsal dinner was given Friday evening by Mr. and Mrs. Dumsday and following the wedding a dinner was held at the California Country Club, given by the bride's parents.

Dress-up Time Again

By HELEN HENNESSY
NEA Women's Editor

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The clean-up campaign goes further than environment and ecology. The fashion showings of the American Designers for resort and Spring 1972 make it quite clear that the designers intend to clean up the mess they feel we have made in our attempt to "do our own thing." They believe there should be no more amateur-type fashion chaos. And what's more, they feel that the consumer wants guidance.

The suit, dress and sweater and jacket dress are today's approach to the layered look. You don't have to put it all together yourself, often making fashion mistakes. It's all done for you — just like it used to be years ago.

The skirt suit is more in fashion for spring than the pantsuit. And the three-quarter coat, teamed with shirt and skirt or pants, will nudge out the full-length coat. The dress, too, will once again stand by itself.

Elegance in its literal definititon — esthetic, refined, with good taste, distinction, purity and luxury — is top man on the fashion totem pole. And so see-throughs and brazen nudity are out. But bare shoulders and backs, halter necks and cut-in shoulders return to the evening scene with all their glamor.

The small, tight armhole is now deepening. The waist-line is shaped in (and heaven help many of us who haven't worried about it for a long, long time). Shoulders are wider and all skirts flare at the hem. Clothes are less leggy, too.

Hemlines for Spring '72 range from the top of the knee to just above the ankle. No more arguments. The acceptable span is a wide one.

Collars rate fashion interest this time around from the white Kitty Foyle type to sailor collars and even the organdy fichu.

For evening, pants have virtually disappeared. This is the year of the luxurious evening gown. And, again, shades of the past, the cocktail dress is back — with a hemline about eight inches from the floor.

Fabrics are soft and clinging but have a firm, controlled feeling.

For anyone who gussied up to sally forth in the late '30s and early '40s, it will be amusing to hear that crepe de chine is the No. 1 new fabric. But it is back with a vengeance.

Prints are still big on the scene but they are scaled down and seldom psychedelic.

China is influencing United States spring fashion, too. The oriental influence was beginning to be apparent even before the President's announced visit to Peking. It was a natural result of the return to opulence in fashion.

But no one can doubt that President Nixon's coming visit to the People's Republic has brought about a new rash of Chinese influence on fashion in other areas than party time.

There are coolie coats, Mao tunics, the worker's smock for day and the Cheongsam and the embroidered Mandarin robe of the Ming princess for evening.

Fashion for Spring '72 has moved away from the feathers and fringe costume look. It is ladylike and refined for day and glamorous for evening. It is beautiful and there is something to become everyone.

It's about time it happened. For too long now a day on the street has been reminiscent of a scene from Verdi's Masked Ball — minus only the masks.

(Newspaper Enterprise Assn.)

Elegant Fashions For Spring

Dresses rather than pants will highlight the after five scene for spring as seen in the current American Designers Showings in New York. Lace-patterned cord and white woven cotton border print (left) has a rising waistline and snug bodice studded with rhinestones and a separate triangle scarf. The Patio dress (center) in green and white cotton border print is striped in vivid yellow and red with deep side slit and also from the spring collection comes the twin print dinner dress (right) in navy and white cotton voile. Deer Decision

A. C. Stone has a decision to make — What do you do with 500 deer that stand in the way of airport construction? Stone, a tropical fish farmer, started 15-years-ago with a herd of 23 Sika (Japan) and Axis (Indian) deer on his 357 acre place near Grapevine, Tex. Dallas-Fort Worth Regional Airport is taking most of Stone's land. He has had inquiries from about 200 hunters and animal lovers. Soon he must decide how to dispose of the deer.

Exquisite Buildings Dot Street in Cairo

CAIRO (AP) — Females of different ages, veiled and otherwise, pause briefly to eye, perhaps begrudgingly, the eight-century-old mosque of Al-hakim Bi-amr Allah.

Al-Hakim is known in history as an eccentric, despotic ruler. He ordered Egyptian women to quit the streets of Cairo.

He also banned, under death penalty, the making of shoes for women and forced men never to work before nightfall.

One of his peculiar whims was a strict order barring Egyptians from eating Molokhiya, a native dish of sticky green soup.

Al-Hakim lived boisterously and died in mysterious circumstances. He disappeared one night on the street where his mosque and fortress stand. Only his cloak, donkey and dagger were found.

The mosque is but one of many exquisite buildings on the winding "Saga" street, labeled by archaeologists as the oldest in Cairo.

It is called the street of Saga (no relation to the dictionary meaning of a similar English word).

Most of Cairo was rebuilt during the past two centuries, but the Saga is said to have remained untouched for more than a thousand years.

Archeologists who specialize in Islamic antiquities describe it as "an open-air museum" and recommend that it be restored rather than demolished.

By modern standards, the Saga is merely an alley, hardly a street. Arabesquely decorated mosques, complete with domes and minarets, line both sides. Several shops, lines of donkey-drawn carts and sidewalk cafe houses spur an incessant racket along the alley.

Mohamed Hafez, a seller of water-pipes, voiced disapproval of a recent government project to demolish several parts of the Saga to build popular housing units in their place.

"This street is misunderstood, undervalued," said Hafez, "the khedive (ruler) Abbas Pacha used to pass through the Saga 50 years ago. Notables used to come here to see the mosques and to see us. But no more do worthwhile people come here now."

The Antiquities Department recently announced the Saga would be restored in order to "prevent construction projects from effacing its original historic character."

The Saga was built 1,023 years ago, archeologists say. It was first named after Al-moez Lidin Allah, founder of the Fatimid Dynasty in Egypt. It was part of the old city of Cairo.

At one time the street was named after Touman-bay, a warrior whose tomb stands at one end of the alley. When the Ottoman Emperor Selim I conquered Egypt three centuries ago, Touman-bay was hanged by the north-side gate of Cairo, known as Bab Zwiela.

Begin Repair Job at State Prison

By PETER M. HALDEN
Associated Press Writer

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — The repair work is under way at Rahway State Prison, and Gov. William T. Cahill has formed a committee to meet with elected inmate representatives to discuss grievances they raised in a Thanksgiving Day revolt.

Truckloads of debris were carted from the prison Friday.

Twelve prisoners who met with Public Defender Stanley Van Ness and a team of lawyers Friday told them the guards had taken no reprisals since the inmates released their hostages and returned to their cells late Thursday night.

In Trenton, the governor announced that the prisoners would elect 15 representatives, five of whom will meet with the governor's five-man committee. It includes prison Supt. U. Samuel Vukcevich, who was one of seven hostages taken by the prisoners.

The governor later visited with Vukcevich and five guards in Rahway Memorial Hospital, saying he was "proud of them all for what they did during some trying hours." The governor singled out the superintendent for his "courageous leadership."

None of those hospitalized was seriously injured. A sixth guard was confined to Perth Amboy Hospital. Eight other guards were treated for injuries and released.

The revolt ended after prisoners presented a list of 14 demands to newsmen and released their last four hostages.

The demands included better medical care, a drug rehabilitation program, unbiased guards, better food, educational training programs, classes in history and English for black and Puerto Rican inmates, higher wages for prison work and an improved rehabilitation program.

Two members of Cahill's committee—Archibald S. Alexander Jr., chairman of the State Prison Board of Managers, and Raymond Brown, a prominent Jersey City lawyer and former NAACP official—were instrumental in arranging the hostage release.

The two others are Louis Pirone, superintendent of the Woodbridge State School, and Hector Rodriquez, head of the New Jersey Puerto Rican Convention.

Van Ness said the prisoners told him they ended their revolt because "they had run out of steam."

"They were cold and hungry," Van Ness said, adding that the inmates he talked with "felt they had made their grievances known to the public and considered that an attempt would be made to redress those grievances."

Winged Wonder of Associated Press Conquers World of Flight

By KAY BARTLETT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

AUGUSTA, Kan. (AP) — You can call me Ace, if you like.

Not too long ago, stewardesses could kick left-over macadamian nuts in my face. My sole criterion for pilots was how quickly they switched off the "No Smoking" light after takeoff; that showed they were confident they weren't going back down. Each safe landing was a simple case of cheating death once again.

And then the boss said: "Why don't you take a few flying lessons and write a story about it?"

"You've got the wrong person," I explained. "I'm an advanced white knuckle flyer."

"Good," said the boss with the strange sense of humor. "That will make a better story."

I thought positive. The instructor will always be with me, he will be able to turn off my set of controls, I won't have to make any airborne decisions.

But the final question lingered.

"I won't have to solo, will I?"

"Nope," said the boss. After all, he didn't want that on his conscience, too.

"Okay, I'll go."

And so there I was in Kansas. Can you think of anywhere flatter?

The day was perfect. Bright sunshine, blue skies, no clouds, time for my introductory flight.

I met Joyce Case, who at 5-foot-2 sits on a pillow to pilot the plane. We chat for a while and I don't mention my fear.

a jet eight miles away, all looked the same to me. It was my sky and I liked it clear.

Safely out of the pattern, the fun begins. I'm allowed to turn the airplane, to the left, to the right. It moves with ease. All the time I'm looking down at the miniature farms, the teeny railroad cutting across the Kansas plain, the plowed wheat fields, the houses, the cows, the barns, the highways. All so little, but so clear, like the railroad track you used to set up around the Christmas tree.

"Bird's eye view." Did I say that?

We take off and land three times. That's fun, for the first time in my life. Joyce kept insisting she wasn't teaching me to fly. I thought she was nuts. I was learning a lot.

So I was introduced. Now, it was off to flight school. After all, I should take at least a few lessons.

I met Keith Hershberger, blond and blue-eyed, his freckles almost disappearing, a little too old for a Boy Scout at 27, a little young for an astronaut. But he had that look, handsome, clean-cut. Competent, but cautious. Nice, but serious.

I got a plastic computer, a 10-by-11-inch study book that weighed four pounds, a workbook with more than 100 questions or problems per chapter, a tape recorder and audio visual flip cards. That was the ground part of what they call the "Cessna Integrated Flight Training System."

It's sort of like enrolling in Harvard to learn to read.

For the first hour-and-a-half, teaching me straight and level flight and medium turns. I got a 3-minus on my takeoff—the feat I thought was a snap—or about a C-minus. On medium turns, a 3-plus.

I was now less than enthusiastic. And still scared.

Back to the books. I have to finish Flight Prep 2 before I can fly the second time. That's 32 pages of information about radio communications, the international phonetic alphabet, turn coordination, climbs, base legs, downwind legs. That's not to mention the workbook—117 questions—and my tape recorder and mini-quizzes.

I also take my first real quiz.

A stunning 72. I'm told there were people who scored lower.

Gaylon Chamberlain, the chief pilot at Redwing Aviation, is now to take me on my second flight of the day—the checkout ride.

What can you check out after one hour?

"A lot of people ask that," drawls Gaylon. "But we can."

He never does say what he's looking for.

It's approaching darkness as we take off. An increased fear factor.

"Bring her up to about 3,000 feet," says Gaylon, offering suggestions on the way.

"You've got to make this here airplane do what you want it to do," he says. That's the same thing my horseback riding instructor used to say and the horse always won then, too.

"Now, I'm going to show you slow speed. That's when we slow the airplane down approaching stall speed," he casually explains as we're cruising way up there.

Gaylon sees I'm petrified.

"We won't fall out of the air if we stall," he says.

I know he's telling the truth and he knows it. But I know a thing or two about stalls, too. A stalled car stops. Dead. Therefore, so does a stalled airplane, right? And down deep I know—"Little Red" will probably land right on Chicken Little's head if we stall.

"Put on your carburetor heat and cut the RPMs to 1700," Gaylon says. (Normal cruising is 2500 RPMs.)

"Bring your nose up to cut the airspeed," he orders.

Down to 80, to 70, to 60—the stall horn that's conveniently placed next to my left ear already is starting to squeak. Down to 50 and it's blowing, and we are over a thousand feet above Kansas.

I'm ready to opt out, to beg Gaylon to quit it. It was the worst hour yet. Then he finally says I can give it full power again. And we land.

The next morning I'm back with Fearless Keith, my instructor. He gives me another chance at slow speed and this time it's easier. The sun is shining brightly, the day is clear. But I'm still not crazy about it.

That afternoon we go up again and Keith casually announces we will do our power off stall.

Power cut, nose held up. Squeak. And then just a tiny little jolt as the plane pitches downward a bit, and ever so smoothly Keith puts on the power and we're flying smoothly again and we can look down at the miniature world below.

"Would you like to try it now?" Keith asks.

I'm eager. It does work, just like everybody said it would. I do it. It's fun. I get one of my rare 3-plus grades on that.

It was a breakthrough. I trusted "Little Red" now. She would do what I told her. I then actually started studying the owner's manual to find out at what speeds she liked best to climb, to cruise, to take off.

The clock ceased to become the most important instrument on the panel in front of me.

Thoughts of going on for the solo flight started—only as an outside possibility.

Preflighting the airplane gained more importance. Before it was a huge pain in the emplanage.

But now I started getting my mind right.

Each time I walked out for the preflight, I said to myself, "This is it. Keith is not coming. I am doing it myself today."

The checks became more thorough.

Meanwhile Fearless Keith, Cautious Keith, Patient Keith, Keith who could probably fly the airplane without gas, kept teaching: power-on stalls, "S" turns, 45-degree turns, glides, slips, 720-degree steep turns, rectangular course.

Even the simulated emergency landing didn't throw me. Much!

"All right, you've lost power," Keith announced one day, pulling back on the throttle. "What are you going to do?"

"Find a field," I knew.

"You're losing altitude too fast."

"Keith, don't be so realistic," I suggested. He didn't answer.

"That field," I said. "No. Look, power lines surround it."

"Good," said Keith.

We pick another field. Keith checks the power once to make sure it's really going to come back once we get that low. We get 50 to 100 feet over the field and he kicks the power back on.

It was kind of fun.

"I notice you're starting to look out of the airplane more now," says Keith. He sees the difference, too.

The next crisis was learning to land. The Kansas crosswinds—20 miles per hour and gusting to 35 some days—further retarded the retarded.

Wednesday was a socked-in day, but by Thursday morning, the weather has cleared. Keith and I fly early in the morning and my landing has improved.

My landings aren't great—in fact I'd fire off a letter to the president of TWA if they landed me that way. But they're landings.

The weather stays beautiful.

About 4 o'clock, Keith asks me to go out and preflight "Little Red."

We had been flying "Old Purple," since Little Red was in the hospital suffering from a sticky throttle and wounds incurred when somebody left the master switch on all night.

"She's better trained at landing, anyway," Gaylon tells me.

Keith finally arrives and we do five. Or as we aces say, we "shoot" five takeoffs and landings.

They still ain't prize winners, but they're better.

"All right," says Keith. "Pull it on down the runway."

We taxi over to the parking area.

"Would you like to take it alone?"

Just like he always asked if I would like a cup of coffee.

"No," I shout.

"I think you're ready. I wouldn't let you go unless I thought you could do it." And Fearless Keith was also very definitely Cautious Keith. But I don't like the word 'think.'

"I'll do it tomorrow," I beg. "Tomorrow."

"Would you like to practice some more?" Patient Keith asked.

"Yes," I answered. I mean not really, but if that will change the subject, okay.

We go around three more times. We touch down and Keith again tells me to slow everything down.

"I'd like to point out," he says—now a little firmer—"that you have just made three takeoffs and three landings and I haven't said a word or touched a control."

"All right. Get out." I'd rather be in the hospital than thought a coward.

The minute he left the airplane, the quaking stopped.

I was in charge. Flying 1,600 pounds of airplane by myself. Mother Keith, Father Keith, and all those other Keiths were gone. I never once looked over at the empty seat.

Everything Keith told me sticks this time around. My right hand is solidly planted on the throttle. I finally quit trying to taxi the plane with the wheel and use the rudders instead.

The first takeoff goes smartly, if I say so myself. Down the runway at 50. Lift the nose. Up to 60. Lift the plane.

I'm flying an airplane. All by myself. Fear is overtaken by an enormous sense of pride.

I land smartly, if, once again, I do say so myself, finally learning not to overcorrect the overcorrections as we head down the center line of that black strip of macadam, 50 feet wide, 3,500 feet long.

By now it's become a personal challenge to myself to improve each landing. I don't care who is watching.

Completing the required three takeoffs and landings, I taxi back.

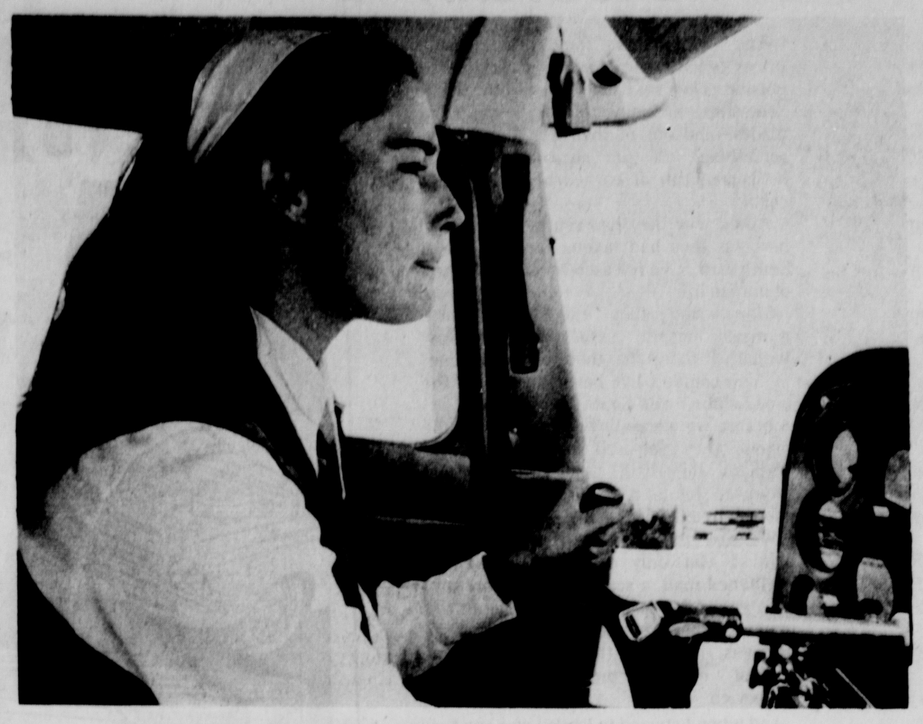

The mechanic is there first with congratulations. Then Keith and Gaylon shake my hand.

I did it. And I can prove it.

My certificate of solo says I did "alone and unassisted in a Cessna 150 take off from and safely return to Augusta Municipal Airport in Augusta, Kansas, thereby completing first solo flight and joining that elite group of persons who have successfully defied the law of gravity and qualified for this recognition. . . ."

I thought back. What else had given me this feeling of pride? I couldn't remember.

Maybe W. C. Fields said it best when talking about another subject: "There are some things better than it, there are some things worse. But there's nothing quite like it."

It Takes Concentration

The concentration required in mastering the art of flying an airplane is reflected in Kay Bartlett's face as she takes the controls during instruction high over the Kansas countryside near Augusta. (AP)

". . . And This Is An Aileron"

Learning to fly, like learning most anything else, begins with basics. Kay Bartlett takes her first close look at an aileron as instructor Keith Hershberger explains its basic function during instruction at Augusta, Kan., airport. An aileron, by the way, helps maintain level flight. (AP)

She showed me the ailerons, the rudders, the trim tab. Hmm, very interesting. But the immediate point is how well can she fly this plane. A few basic credentials about this pretty lady were in order. I learned she took her first flying lessons at the age of 9, sitting on her father's lap, soloed on her 16th birthday, the legal minimum age, and had commanded a plane as large as a DC-3 in her career. I guessed she was safe.

We taxi to the runway.

"Would you like to take it off?" she asks casually.

Not in the air yet and the master plan is disintegrating.

"Take off?" I shudder. "Okay."

Off we start down the runway. My palms are already soaked. I glue my eyes to the runway. I don't watch anything inside. All I know is that there are 18 little clocks, mostly black, on the panel and what appears to be five radios. Joyce tells me when to pull up a bit on the elevator control—that's the half-wheel looking thing right in front. Off we go.

"Very good," she waxes. "That was wonderful."

A bit of a snap, actually, smirks the white-knuckler.

It was to be much later that I figured out that sneaky Joyce was not only eyeing some of those clocks closely, but she also was applying a little right rudder pressure to neutralize the torque factor. (That's how we aces explain that the airplane will head off to the left unless the pilot treads a bit on the right rudder pedal.)

Then, almost apologetically, Joyce announces: "If you don't mind, I'll take the controls now. We're very near the pattern of McConnell Air Force Base."

Eeeeek!

Off she takes us, me looking for jets. In fact, I become an excellent spotter rapidly. I wasn't much at watching the instrument panel, but I eagle-eye the entire sky, often warning my instructor of an "approaching aircraft." My idea of an "approaching aircraft" was anything else in my sky. A plane potentially in our range, I listened to the tape recorder as I watched the screen. (I only used the flip cards when I brought my "homework" home.) First off came a little history of aviation which only left me confused as to whether the Wright brothers or Clyde Cessna was more important in the grand scheme of doing what God didn't intend us to do otherwise he would have given us you know what.

Every few minutes came the recorded voice I learned to hate: "And now, it's time for another mini-quiz."

Two questions, always multiple choice.

The big book was worse. It always got into greater details about things like the inside of the wing structure, leading edges, relative wind, stall speed burble, the difference between semi-cantilever and full-cantilever wings. . . .

Who needs that? My instructor will handle all that. I'll just make the turns and do the fun things.

But Keith was a stickler. No study; no fly.

The sun was gone before I finished. So, it was Thursday morning before we went.

We flew in "Little Red," a Cessna 150 whose full name was One One Six Zero Mike.

Keith put me right to work, preflighting the airplane. You check everything. It seemed forever before it was takeoff time.

Then it became clear that Keith wasn't going to be any fun at all. He started talking about airspeed, bring your nose up at 50, lift off at 60. Keith's worst doubts were confirmed when I couldn't find the airspeed indicator, something a diligent student would know.

"Watch your attitude, watch your airspeed, your turn coordinator shows you need more right rudder pressure, keep your right hand on the throttle. . . ."

Joyce was right. She wasn't teaching me to fly. She was entertaining me. Or hooking me into believing all this could be fun.

Keith spent one hour and 12 minutes in the air with me,

Reporter Found Crux Of Prison's Disorder

Editor's Note: Associated Press newsman Carl Zeitz was one of three reporters permitted inside Rahway State Prison to hear the grievances and demands of inmates before they ended a 24-hour rebellion Thursday night. This is his first-person account.

RAHWAY, N.J. (AP) — His eyes were penetrating as I took notes. Every time I looked up from my notepad, they were fixed on mine.

"I learned it all in here," the middleaged white convict said in a voice that reminded me of a lawyer arguing his case clearly and articulately in court.

"It all starts in the courts. They give us excessive sentences, illegal sentences. They don't give us the opportunity to remake ourselves."

And finally, he said, almost spitting out the words, "It's not just a prison, it's a failure, the men were kidnapped to jail."

He didn't say why he was in Rahway State Prison and I didn't catch his name.

The inmates crowded to the bars, shifting from one reporter, to another and then to the last of the three of us who had gone into the prison as part of an agreement to end their rebellion.

"I got 2 to 5 (years) for possession of 75 cents worth of marijuana, for having a reefer," said Miguel Soto.

"Just for that?" I asked.

"Yes," he said, "just for that."

Another inmate, Leroy Bunting, rolled up the sleeve of his olive drab prison work jacket to show what he said were tracks from taking injections of heroin.

"You get it from the police," the lean, bearded black man said. "It's just like being on the street. Anything you can get in here you can get out there."

He said prison narcotics pushers got their supply from state corrections officers.

"It's $10 and five cartons of cigarettes for a bag of heroin," he said.

And he said that anything else, from pep pills to wine, could be purchased behind the walls of Rahway.

Those to whom I talked denied that racial tension existed among the inmates themselves, but they accused guards of racism and provocations.

One after another they described beatings, arbitrary confinement in solitary—even the drowning of pet cats by guards.

Most of the inmates were black. Nearly all of them were young. Those to whom I talked were united in their hate of the prison and of its masters, the guards.

Behind the bars the stairs were barricaded with linen, wrecked furniture, clothing, towels and metal objects that had been ripped from the walls and cells. A fire blazed.

Officials anxiously listened as inmates complained of bad wages and a price-gouging commissary.

They said they received $13.50 a month for working six days a week in what one man called "a slave labor camp," a regional prison laundry.

The commissary, they said, charges prices twice those of retail stores on the outside. They said they had to buy all the necessites—including toothpaste and razor blades—and out of their $13.50 still have something left for cigarettes and an occasional can of corned beef costing 68 cents.

Asked why they had released the seven hostages they had taken, inmate Herbert Smith said, "We released them for the love of human life."

Many said they expected physical reprisals despite assurances by Gov. William T. Cahill that there would be none.

"You couldn't live here and not see the use of clubs," said Smith.

Before we were allowed to talk with the rebels, they released one of the five hostages they still held, as they had promised to do if three newsmen were allowed to talk with them.

We saw the hostage first behind the bars. I can only say I really saw a frightened man, a scared man, before me.

Later, while we were still talking to the inmates, they released their final four hostages, including the injured superintendent of the prison, U. Samuel Vukcevich.

And when I started to leave I was handed a list of the demands the inmates were making. Folded inside the list was my press card, which I had surrendered to the prisoners, who sought credentials as we entered their stronghold.

The last words I heard from one of the inmates was: "Hey man, tell 'em what you saw."

Jews Are Allowed To Leave Russia

GENEVA (AP) — Some 8,000 to 9,000 Soviet Jews were allowed to leave Russia and were helped to Israel by the Intergovernmental Committee for European Migration this year.

John F. Thomas, American director of ICEM, told newsmen Friday the year's total of Soviet Jewish emigrants compares with only about 200 annually in previous years.

Winter Social Season Closing In

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

It is that time of year when women look around the house and moan. There are so many things to do before the holidays, the winter social season, and how to find the time to plan.

"Our problem is a badly cracked wall in the room we use for entertaining," says one homemaker. "I covered the wall, which is next to a doorway, with a heavy fabric, but the big bulge shows up more than ever." Brick is too expensive, but she wondered how fake brick would look. Or is there another solution, she asks.

Many people keep fiddling with small areas trying to cover bumps, cracks and other bruises with a variety of wall coverings, but many times a replastering job is the best solution, and it might be the least expensive.

Plastic bricks are very interesting and look very much like real brick. Some have a used look, and one company touts a product as being heat resistant, fire retardant, scratch resistant, colorfast, washable and nonporous which will not absorb grease or dirt. You put the gray or black mortar on the wall with a trowel or putty knife and also spread it on the brick which is then pressed into position. Grouting is formed by the mortar left on the wall.

But even if this brick is put on a wall, you cannot escape smoothing the wall. The ridge must be leveled and filled in if anything over it is to look good.

Another woman found a cache of old paint that her husband overbought and had in their garage. Why do paint dealers let you buy too much paint? Her husband claims that in every instance he was told by a dealer that he would need the amount of paint he bought.

If dealers are given the exact dimensions of the wall, they can give you a pretty good estimate of the quantity of paint needed. But you can't say that you are going to do eight walls and your staircase, and use terms like "very big" and "very small" to describe a job. A more accurate gauge is to establish the square feet of the area to be painted.

Paint experts suggest that this guide be used: Multiply the length of the wall by the height to get the square foot area of the wall. Add the areas of all walls to be painted. You need not make deductions for windows or doors.

When you give this figure to the paint dealer he can divide the number of square feet to be painted by the number of square feet in the gallon of the particular kind of paint you choose. It's a formula that may also be used in estimating the amount of covering needed for floors and ceilings.

One word of caution—it is usually better to buy a little extra paint. If you run out, it might be difficult to match it exactly. Then too, you might decide to paint a few accessories in a room to match the walls.

Another homemaker dreads the thought of entertaining because the living room in her new home looks so small now that she has furniture in it. It has been painted so she doesn't know how to make it look larger than it is.

Many decorators are using mirrors to make rooms look larger. Be sure the mirrors are right for the room. The mirrors look particularly good in rooms with lattice and lots of plants, but they also show up well in rooms with dark walls.

One decorator doesn't use mirrors that face doorway areas. It can be annoying to see yourself each time you walk into a room, he points out. He likes to see a sofa against a mirror to get a back-to-back sofa effect.

Mirror tiles are very popular and these are being installed by do-it-yourselfers. If a full-size mirror is to be used in a room, it is better to have it professionally installed.

And, if you want a worry-free household during the holidays, be sure you are not facing the season with a balky septic tank system. If the tank needs cleaning, now is the time to do it. With the added activity of the holidays on the dishwasher, disposal unit and washing machine, small septic tanks may cause a back-up. Many tanks were installed before new appliances were put into the house, and some are not large enough to be efficient.

1-Point Margin

Navy Falls To Cadets

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Sophomore Kingsley Fink passed three yards for a fourth period touchdown that gave Army a 24-23 victory over Navy Saturday after the Cadets had blown a 16-point first period lead in the rainswept 72nd service football classic.

Even after the winning TD pass to Ed Francis, who caught the ball with his feet inches inside the back line of the end zone, Army had to twice stop the aroused Middies inside the Cadets' 10-yard line.

Army's final score resulted from an exchange of punts early in the fourth period. The Cadets' Ron Danhoff angled a 33-yard kick that rolled dead on the Navy 7. Unable to gain, the Middies punted and Mike Gaines returned the short kick 11 yards to the Navy 30.

The Cadets then drove for the touchdown in six plays. Fink passed 15 yards to tight end Dave Sanders for a first down at the Navy 15, and Bob Hines and Greg McGuckin hammered out a first down on two running plays to the 5.

Army moved to the 3 from where Fink passed to Francis for the touchdown, sending Army ahead 22-21.

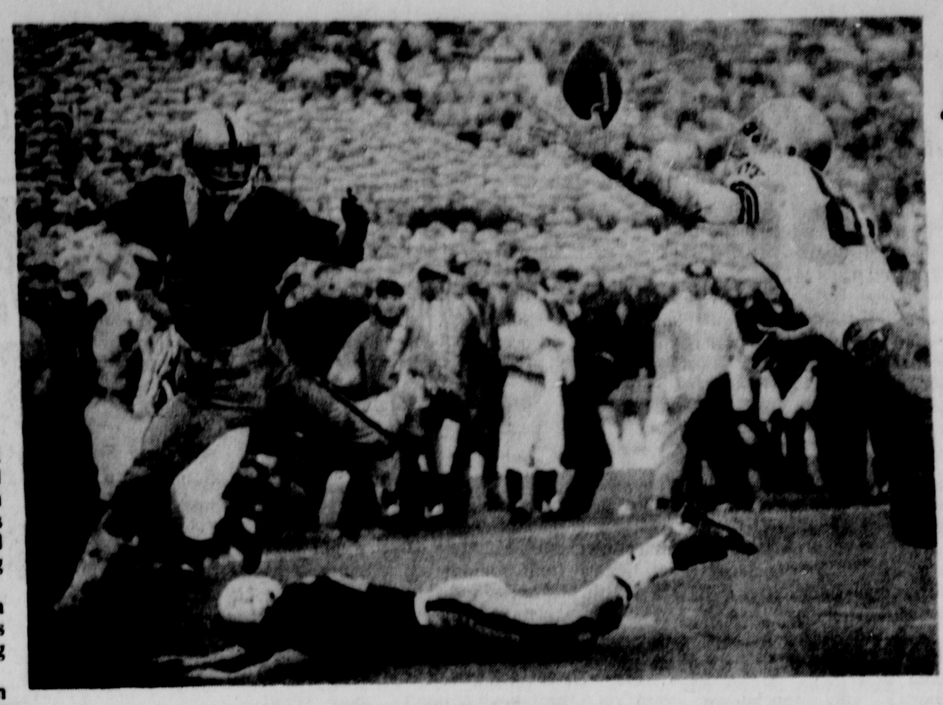

Army went for two points on the conversion with Fink hitting John Simar to make it 24-21 with 4:49 gone in the final quarter.

The final 10 minutes was all Navy offensively as the middies took the kickoff to their 30 and in 13 plays advanced to the Army 7. Army's defense held and with a fourth down and 16 situation, the Middies went for a touchdown instead of a tying field goal. Quarterback Fred Stuvek's pass, however, was intercepted by Randy Stein.

With the game apparently wrapped up, Army's McGuckin fumbled on the first play and Navy's Gary Rhodes recovered at the Army 41 with 2:16 left to play. Stuvek then passed 31 yards to Jack Forde for a first down at the Cadets' 10.

Stuvek moved to the 5 on a quarterback keeper but that was as far as the Middies could go.

Army held, took the ball on downs and then deliberately took a safety that made the final score 24-23.

Touchdown Pass

Navy's Steve Ogden (80) reaches out to catch a touchdown pass in the third quarter of play putting the Midshipmen ahead of West Point by a 20-16 count. Army came back to win the national classic, 24-23. (UPI)

Cage Tournament Action Sceheduled

Tournament action opens on two fronts tomorrow night for area high school cage teams.

The Sacred Heart Gremlins, 5-2 on the season, will meet fourth-seeded Versailles in Monday's 6:15 p.m. game at the 33rd-Annual Tipton Tournament.

Two other contests are featured on Monday's card; second-seeded Eldon tangles with Otterville in the 7:45 p.m. game, while School of the Osage and Lincoln Lab of Jefferson City meet at 9:15 p.m.

The other first-round game in the eight-team tourney will be played Tuesday at 8:30 p.m., when top-seeded and defending champion Jefferson City takes on host Tipton. The opening game Tuesday at 7 p.m. will be a consolation bracket contest between the losers of the Osage-Lincoln Lab game and the Otterville-Eldon contest.

The other area tourney, the Warsaw Invitational, also begins Monday night as first-seeded Skyline meets Lincoln at 7 p.m. in the opening clash.

Fourth-seeded Stover takes on Clinton in the 8:30 p.m. game.

Tuesday night, second-seeded Warsaw will tangle with Windsor at 7 p.m., while the final first-round contest finds third-seeded Cole Camp meeting LaMonte at 8:30 p.m. Tuesday.

Basketball action at Warsaw breaks Wednesday night, when the girls volleyball division will be held; basketball action resumes Thursday night.

Death Match Set For Tuesday Night

A death match will be featured between Ronnie Etchison and Tor Kamata Tuesday night at Convention Hall; the wrestling match will have no time limit, one wrestler must be unable to continue.

Girls tag team action is also on tap as Kay Noble and Betty Niccoli will team up against Barbara Galento and Pat Davis.

Frank Diamond and Bobby Whitlock are pitted in the special event while Noble and Galento will meet in the opener. The Viking will referee the evening's competition.

Top Drivers To Meet On Precautions

LONDON (AP) — The world's top racing drivers will meet in London next week to demand stepped-up fire precautions after allegations that Swiss ace Jo Siffert need not have died.

Siffert, 35, died in the blazing wreckage of his car five weeks ago at Britain's Brand Hatch circuit.

A pathologist told an inquest Friday that his only injury from the crash was a broken leg.

"One can certainly say that, if there had been no fire, he would not have died," he said.

As it was, no one could get near him for five minutes. Track marshals testified at the inquest that two fire extinguishers failed to work and a third was ineffective.

One of them said that, except for these failures, he was certain Siffert could have been pulled clear within 20 seconds.

The seven-man inquest jury returned a verdict of accidental death and added:

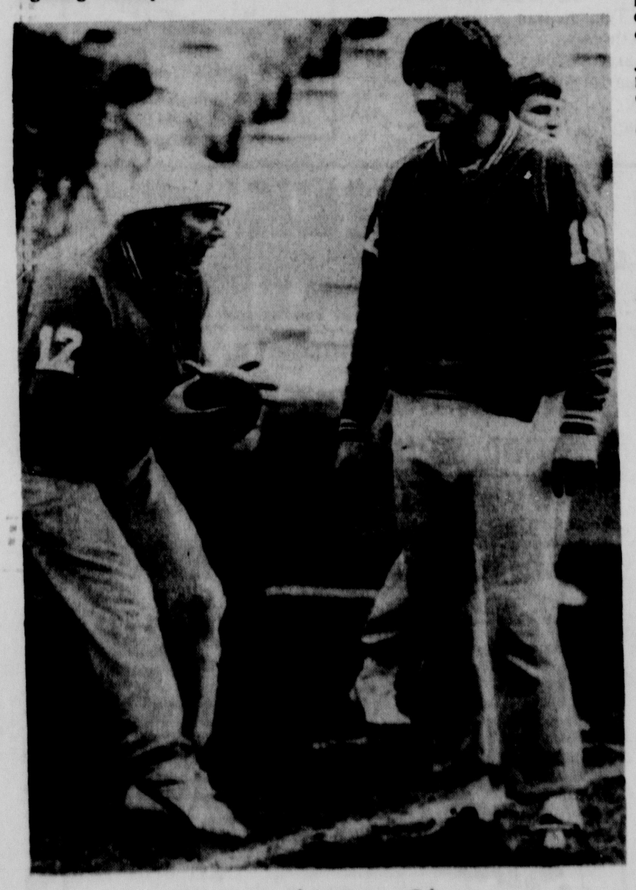

"We suggest better supervision of safety and fire precautions."

Louis Stanley, secretary of the Grand Prix Drivers Association, immediately called a meeting of world drivers to be held in London next week.

He said he wants drivers to insist that every track should have six highspeed fire tenders capable of at least 100 mph.

Emergency lights should be installed on every track, he said, to warn following drivers of fire hazards ahead.

Another suggestion he put forward is that each race should be watched from a fire-fighting helicopter.

Namath May Play

Joe Namath, 6'2" (but crouching), is dwarfed by N.Y. Jets backup quarterback Al Woodall, 6'5", during a workout Saturday for the home game against the San Francisco 49ers today. Out with a leg injury since Aug. 7, Namath was still a question mark with the weather and condition of the field still factors to be weighed by coach Weeb Ewbank. Ewbank said earlier in the season either he, the Jets physician or Namath himself could vote the star's game participation. (UPI)

'Skins Must Win

Jets-49ers Game Crucial To NFC West Leadership

The San Francisco 49ers have a chance Sunday to regain first place in the National Conference West, while the Washington Redskins must regain their momentum in the East to have a shot at the playoffs.

The 49ers, who visit the New York Jets—and may run into Joe Namath—moved into a tie with Los Angeles for the divisional lead Thursday, when the Rams fell to the Dallas Cowboys 28-21.

And with their victory, the Cowboys opened a one-game lead over the faltering 'Skins, who face Philadelphia Sunday and have won only one of five games since capturing their first five outings of the season.

Sunday's other National Football League games have Baltimore at Oakland, Atlanta at Minnesota, New Orleans against Green Bay at Milwaukee, Denver at Pittsburgh, Cleveland at Houston, New England at Buffalo, St. Louis at the New York Giants, San Diego at Cincinnati and, in Monday night's nationally televised (ABC, 9 p.m., EST) game, Chicago at Miami.

The Raiders' margin over Kansas City in the American Conference West widened to a full game as the Chiefs bowed 32-21 to Detroit in the other Thanksgiving Day clash.

The Colts, trailing front-running Miami by 1½ games in the East, have beaten Oakland in four of five meetings, including 27-17 in the 1970 AFC championship. They'll be sending their No. 1 conference defense against the Raiders' offense, which is rated No. 3.

The Vikings' hold on first in the NFC Central Division was trimmed to a game by Detroit. The Falcons, one-half game back of Los Angeles and San Francisco, can keep the three-way race alive, but they'll have to do it against the stingiest club in the league.

The Vikes have given up only 82 points, the only team to yield less than 100. It's the first visit to Minnesota for former Vikings coach Norm Van Brocklin, who now coaches Atlanta.

The Saints, all but eliminated from the NFC West race, can lift their record within a game of the .500 mark—but to do so they'll have to stop Packer rookie John Brockington, the conference's No. 1 ground gainer with 806 yards.

The Steelers, with Ron Shanklin sharing the AFC pass reception lead, haven't lost at home this year. The Broncos hope to give new head coach Jerry Smith his first victory. They lost 28-10 to the Chiefs in his debut.

The Browns, who share the AFC Central lead with Pittsburgh, broke a four-game losing streak last weekend. Now they hope to duplicate their season opener, when they stunned the Oilers 31-0.

Time is running out for the winless Bills, out to reverse their 38-33 loss to the Patriots two weeks ago. Neither the Cardinals nor Giants are going anywhere this season, but St. Louis has the added incentive of trying to climb out of the NFC East cellar.

Despite a dismal 3-7 record, the Bengals still have a shot at catching the Steelers and Browns, whom they trail by only two games. It figures to be an aerial show, with Cincinnati's Virgil Carter and the Chargers' John Hadl unlimbering their arms.

The Dolphins, with AFC passing leader Bob Griese and No. 1 runner Larry Csonka, can open a two-game lead over Baltimore and deal the Bears a virtual death blow with a victory. Chicago trails first-place Minnesota by two games with four to go.

Tarkio Grabs Title In 1A Mo. Football

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP) — Tarkio exploded in the third period with 22 points and beat back Springfield Greenwood, 35-22, Saturday for the Missouri Class 1A football crown.

The Indians of Coach Dave Palmeiro turned a fumble and an intercepted pass into two touchdowns in a span of 49 seconds early in the third period to erase a 7-6 halftime deficit.

On defense, the Indians limited Springfield to minus 5 yards rushing in the second half.

Bobby Lade of Tarkio rang up three touchdowns on runs of 2, 3 and 12 yards while teammate Dave Laur, who led all ball carriers with 136 yards in 24 carries, scored twice on one-yard runs.

Springfield's Eric Shryer scored on a run of seven yards and a 36-yard romp following a fumble recovery.

Laub Holds On to Win Brunswick

CHICAGO, Ill. (AP) — Don Johnson made one of his patented runs at the lead position Friday, but the charge fell one game short as Larry Laub of San Francisco held on to first place in the $85,000 Brunswick World Open Bowling Tournament.

Johnson, a 16-time titlist from Akron, Ohio, went into the final eight-game block in the field of 24. When he took his first seven games, while spilling 1,798 pins, he moved up 16 notches. A lopsided victory against the tournament leader would have vaulted him into the top spot.

Laub, however, came away from their position-round game—the event's 56th—with a 224-212 triumph and goes into Saturday's televised finals top-seeded. He will await the outcome of three other matches before he rolls for the $12,000 first place prize, second richest on the 33-week tour of the Professional Bowlers Association.

Johnson, who has won five times this year and is second to Johnny Petraglia of Brooklyn on the money earnings list, held on for second place, even though he wound up trailing Laub by 144 pins. Petraglia, who shows a record $80,490, compared to Johnson's $67,799, has also captured five crowns in 1971.

Third place went to Mike McGrath, five-time titlist from El Cerrito, Calif. McGrath earned his berth in the championship flight when he downed Gary Dickinson of Ft. Worth, Tex., in their windup battle, 230-202. Petraglia, who was sixth going into the last match, moved up one spot and into the finals when he defeated Dave Davis of Miami, Fla., 247-203.

Trade Meeting Opens Monday

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Baseball's winter meetings—the annual marketplace for trades—open here Monday with a number of big name players available—if the price is right.

Almost all 24 major league clubs are looking for help in one area or another and most general managers have indicated a willingness to part with players once termed untouchable in order to get what they want.

The New York Yankees, for example, are after a third baseman who can hit, someone like Ron Santo of the Chicago Cubs, whose name heads those available. Santo and Manager Leo Durocher didn't get along last year and when Leo was rehired last week, it all but assured a trade involving the third baseman.

The Yankees would be willing to part with a front line pitcher such as Mel Stottlemyre or Fritz Peterson if the right deal comes along But to get Santo, they'll probably have to outbid their crosstown neighbors, the New York Mets.

The Mets need hitting and they've never had the stability at third base that a Santo could provide. Like the Yankees, the Mets are offering pitchers with Nolan Ryan the main bait.

Cleveland, with new manager Ken Aspromonte anxious to start fresh, could be the most active team at the meetings. The Indians are rumored ready to unload ace left-hander Sam McDowell, who had contract problems last summer. But it will take a handsome package to get the fire-balling ace.

The Los Angeles Dodgers have always coveted McDowell and in fact came close to completing a deal for him last year at these meetings. They'll be in on the bidding again as will the world champion Pittsburgh Pirates, who'd also like another pitcher.

Three aging sluggers who may also be available are Atlanta's Orlando Cepeda, Philadelphia's Deron Johnson and Frank Howard of the new Texas Rangers. Kansas City has talked about all three but the conversations quickly ended when the Royals were asked for Dick Drago, ace of their pitching staff.

Baltimore's AL champions, who had four 20-game winners last year, have expressed an interest in a fifth—Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox. With Bobby Grich, the International League's batting champ, graduating to the majors, an infielder like Mark Belanger or Dave Johnson might be available.

New World Record

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Herve Filion established a new world's record for victories in a single season Friday night at Yonkers Raceway, when the native of Quebec, Canada, scored with Kathy's Lassie in the ninth race.

A crowd of 20,012 was on hand, and Filion didn't let them down, as he needed one victory to tie his own mark of 486 wins in a season and two to set a new standard. He notched his first win of the night with Ranch Boy in the fifth race and then came back with Kathy's Lassie in the final race.

Defending Champ Falls in 2A Contest

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Monett's 143-pound senior fullback, Mike Arnold, scored four touchdowns on runs of 44, 63, 1 and 5 yards Saturday as Monett snatched the Class 2A crown from defending champion South Shelby, 37-8.

In all, Arnold gained 255 yards on the ground.

South Shelby's lone touchdown came in the second quarter when quarterback G. W. Dimmett connected with Curt Lishty on a 47-yard pass play.

An estimated 3,500 fans watched the game at Southwest Missouri State College's Briggs Stadium.

Soccer Powers Blank Opponents

EDWARDSVILLE, Ill. (AP)--Defending national champion St. Louis University and Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville blanked their opponents Saturday in the final round of the NCAA Midwest soccer playoffs.

St. Louis defeated Ohio University 4-0 and Southern Illinois beat Akron 2-0.

The victors advance to the NCAA national championship playoff at Miami Dec. 28-30.

St. Louis ran its season record to 15-0, including a 2-1 victory over SIU-Edwardsville two weeks ago, and extended its undefeated streak to 42 games. SIU-Edwardsville goes into the Miami playoffs with a 10-1-1 record.

Mike Seerey scored twice for St. Louis and Jim Draude and Jim Bokern added single goals in the victory over Ohio.

John Carenza scored both SIU goals.

Alabama Tops Auburn In Impressive Show

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Third-ranked Alabama, paced by the clutch running of Johnny Musso and a blitzing defense that shackled Heisman Trophy winner Pat Sullivan, crushed previously undefeated Auburn 31-7 Saturday, giving the Orange Bowl a dream match of unbeaten powers.

The Crimson Tide, rolling to its 11th straight victory, will meet top-ranked Nebraska in the Orange Bowl New Year's Night in a battle that should decide the national championship.

Alabama solved the Sullivan mystique for the first time, keeping the strong-armed Auburn quarterback on the sidelines with a time-consuming offense that enabled the Tide to control the ball more than 40 minutes.

Meanwhile, Alabama's defense forced two interceptions off Sullivan that led to touchdowns and batted down three other passes at the line of scrimmage.

Musso, called by Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant the greatest running back he has ever had, scored touchdowns on runs of 12 and 6 yards and punched out 155 yards in 32 carries.

Junior quarterback Terry Davis gave the Tide a 14-0 first period lead with touchdown runs of 6 and 11 yards. Alabama's other score came on a 41-yard field goal by Bill Davis in the final period.

Sullivan, named the Heisman winner Thursday night, had sparked Auburn to comeback victories the past two seasons over Alabama and, as a freshman, overcame a 27-0 Tide lead to lift the Auburn frosh team to victory.

The defeat ended Auburn's 11-game winning streak including nine this year as the Tigers approach their Sugar Bowl confrontation with second-ranked Oklahoma which lost to Nebraska 35-31 Thursday. The victory also gave Alabama the Southeastern Conference championship.

Auburn's only touchdown came on a 31-yard halfback option pass from Harry Unger to Terry Beasley with 13:08 left in the opening half. It came on the first play after Johnny Simmons recovered an Ellis Beck fumble.

The catch by Beasley was the first of his college career from anyone other than Sullivan.

Alabama quickly established the tempo of the game at the start with a safety blitz that held Auburn to only nine yards on their first series following the opening kickoff.

The Tide then got their first of three tunovers leading to touchdowns. Auburn punter David Beverly fumbled a low snap from Bill McManus and failed to get his punt off, giving Alabama possession at the Auburn 20.

Terry Davis scampered 10 yards on a third-down option to the eight and scored from the 6 two plays later, giving Alabama a 7-0 lead after only four minutes had elapsed.

Despite its almost total control of the ball, Alabama led only 14-7 going into the final period.

The Crimson Tide drove from their 22 to the Auburn 24 early in the final period, from where Bill Davis kicked his 13th field goal of the year, tying a conference record.

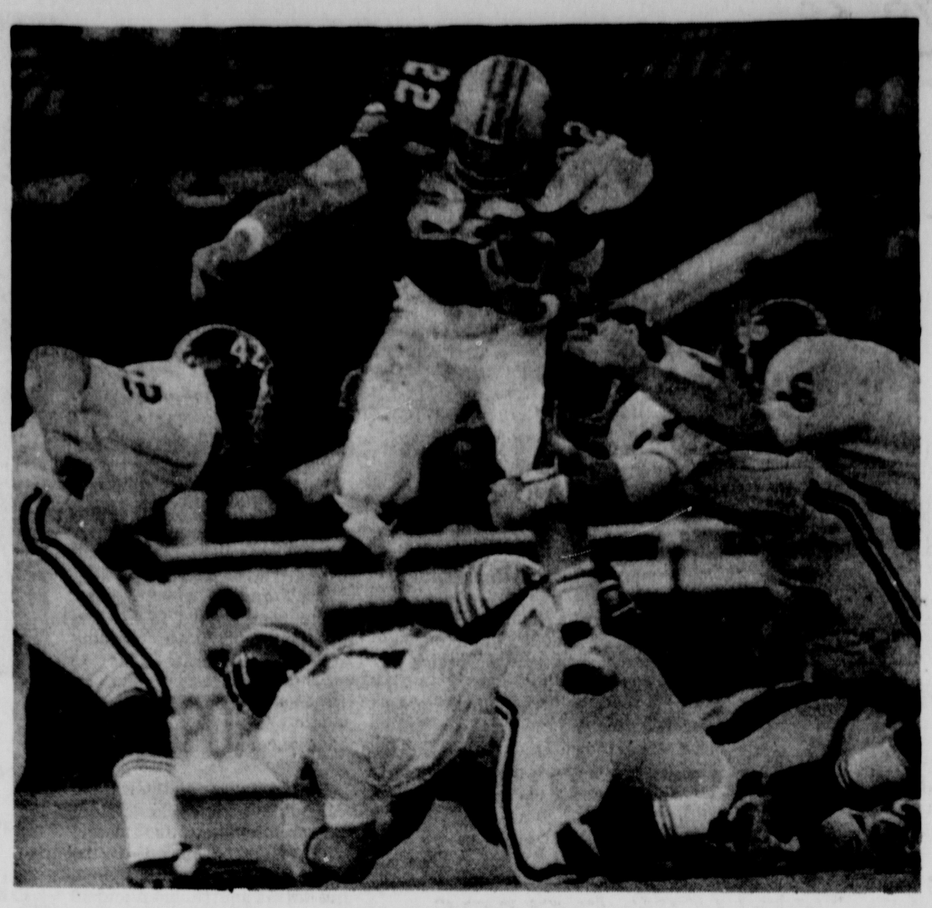

In that drive, Musso reeled off runs of 18, 12 and 6 yards, all in clutch situations, helping Alabama overcome a 15-yard clipping penalty.

The field goal came with 13:03 remaining, and 18 seconds later, Musso scored on a 12-yard run following a 21-yard interception return by Chuck Strickland.

Several minutes later Jeff Rouzie intercepted another Sullivan pass and raced 33 yards to the Auburn 6. Musso scored from there on the first play.

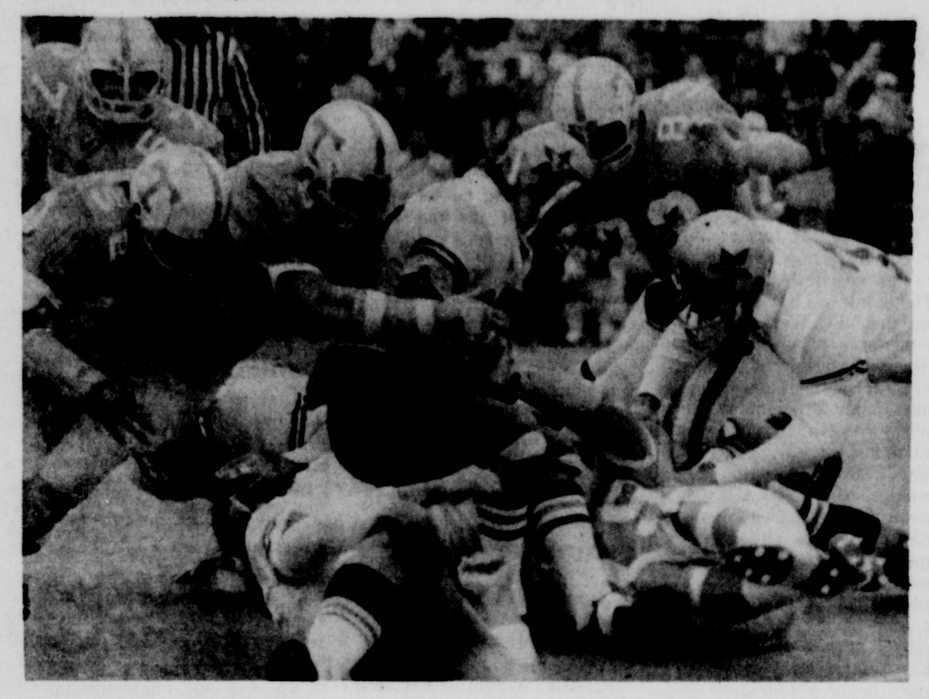

Sullivan completed 14 of 27 passes for 121 yards, but failed to break the NCAA touchdown responsibility record he tied at 71 two weeks ago aginst Georgia.

Pratt, Kan. Captures Juco Bowl

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (AP) — Rick Hartman's 98-yard runback of a 56-yard field goal attempt sparked the Pratt, Kan., Beavers to a 13-12 victory over Normandale State of Bloomington, Minn., Saturday in the first annual Mid-America Junior College Football Bowl game.

Hartman's dash came midway through the fourth period and tied the score 12-12. Chuck Furnas kicked the winning point.

Normandale dominated the game the first three quarters and took a 12-0 lead into the final period.

Then Pratt came alive with Furnas, a substitute quarterback, supplying the fire. His 39-yard touchdown pass to flanker Richard Theratt capped a 70-yard drive with 11:19 left. A conversion kick failed and the score was 12-6.

Normandale, entering the game with a 10-0 record and ranked No. 4 in the national juco poll, had a fourth and four when it tried the 56-yard field goal. Brian Kocurek's kick, helped by a 25-mile-an-hour wind, was caught by Hartman at the two.

Hartman cut for the sideline and a block by Brison Manor at the 50 opened the gate for his touchdown sprint.

A well-chilled crowd of about 2,500 saw the Minnesota team take command in the second quarter. Quarterback Bob Bangston pitched a seven-yard touchdown pass to Greg Morris with 13:16 left in the half. Kocurek, who had kicked 31 of 33 conversions this season, missed this time.

Normandale scored again after Mike Koenig recovered a Pratt fumble at the Minnesota 45. The Lions moved 55 yards in five plays, with Mark Tieben getting 39 on the biggest. Morris burst through the middle for the last four yards.

Morris tried to run for a two-point conversion but was cut down.

Hartman, a 170-pound defensive back from Oxford, Kan., was named the game's most valuable player.

Pratt had an 8-2 record and 10th-place ranking in the nation before the game.

NAIA Bowl Scheduled For Dec. 11

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 16th annual NAIA Champion Bowl football game will be played on Legion Field in Birmingham, Ala., Dec. 11 between Livingston University of Alabama and Arkansas Tech of Russellville, Ark.

A. O. Duer, executive secretary of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics, made the announcement Saturday night on receiving an official invitation from George Seibels, mayor of Birmingham, to bring the NAIA national championship game to that site.

Arkansas Tech moved into the title game Saturday by virtue of a 24-0 victory over Northern State College of South Dakota in a semifinal game in Russellville.

Livingston had earned a berth Friday by defeating West Liberty State College of West Virginia in Steubenville, Ohio, 25-2.

Arkansas Tech is ranked No. 1 in the NAIA and Livingston No. 2.

An NAIA spokesman said a record crowd might see the 1971 contest because of the top rankings of the two teams. The attendance record of 15,000 was set in 1968 at the Champion Bowl in Montgomery, Ala., when Troy State of Alabama outscored Texas A & I 43-35.

Bruins Rank No. 1 In Preseason Poll

By KEN RAPPORT . . . .
Associated Press Sports Writer

UCLA lost four starters, but the Bruins still managed to gain the No. 1 rating in the Associated Press' preseason college basketball poll.

The Bruins' drew 11 first-place votes and 650 points from a panel of 36 sports writers and broadcasters.

The sophomore-studded Bruins, defending national champions and winners of seven NCAA crowns in the past eight years, outdistanced a field of the nation's best.

North Carolina, which won the NIT last year, pulled in seven first place votes and a total of 521 points to place as the No. 2 team.

Southern California which figures to give UCLA plenty of headaches this year, was voted No. 3 by virtue of six first place ballots and 494 points.

Marquette, a Midwest independent with power to spare, placed fourth with three No. 1 votes and 487 points and defending Big Ten champion Ohio State gathered six first place votes and 413 points for No. 5.

Maryland, with a sophomore-laden team headed by star center Tom McMillen, was the only other club to get a first place vote. The terrapins grabbed three for No. 1, helping to push their point total to 297 for sixth place.

Houston wound up No. 7, followed by Long Beach, Cal., State, Louisville and Kentucky in the Nos. 8, 9 and 10 spots.

The rest of the Top Twenty teams included: No. 11. Jacksonville; No. 12 South Carolina; No. 13 Michigan; No. 14 Kansas; No. 15 Penn; No. 16 New Mexico State; No. 17 St. John's N.Y.; No. 18 Villanova; No. 19 Brigham Young and No. 20 Oklahoma.

Quarterback Leads Team To Victory

RUSSELLVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Quarterback Phil Fisher completed nine of 16 passes for 192 yards and threw two touchdown tosses to lead Arkansas Tech to a 24-0 victory over Northern State of South Dakota in the NAIA Division 1 playoffs here Saturday.

Both of Fisher's TD strikes were to split end Rick Thone in the first quarter.

Fisher drilled an 18-yarder to Thone with 10:27 left in the first quarter to give Tech an early lead. Craig Williams booted the extra point.

With 7:28 remaining in the first period, Fisher capped a 65-yard drive with a 43-yard scoring strike to Thone. Williams' kick put Tech ahead 14-0 at the end of the first quarter.

Tech's other scores came on a three-yard touchdown run by Larry Brown in the fourth quarter and a 26-yard field goal by Williams with 1:58 left in the first half.

Second AAU X-Country To Shorter

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP) — Veteran Frank Shorter won his second straight AAU national cross-country title Saturday, coasting to a 200-yard victory over the hilly University of California at San Diego course.

Shorter, running for the Florida Track Club, took the lead at the four-mile mark and completed the 10,000 meters or 6.2 mile in 29 minutes, 19 seconds, a slower time than he posted here last year. Steve Stageberg of the Georgia TC finished second in 29:40.

The field of 376 didn't include NCAA champion Steve Prefontaine, who had withdrawn two days earlier. Another big name, world record miler Jim Ryun, entered the race but dropped out after about two miles.

Ryun was in the middle of the closely bunched pack when he left the race because of nausea.

Other finishers included John Lawson, Pacific Coast Club, 17th.

The Florida Track Club won the team championship with 17 points. West Valley of Northern California was second with 60, and Oregon was third with 78.

Blass finished last season with a 15-8 record and a 2.85 earned run average.

Third baseman Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals will be honored as St. Louis baseball man of the year. He will receive the J.G. Taylor Spink Award.

Devaney Talks About A Playoff 'Super Bowl'

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Bob Devaney, coach of No. 1-ranked Nebraska, believes a "national playoff would be a helluva spectacle — a college Super Bowl."

But, he doesn't believe it'll ever come about.

"If you truly want to decide who's No. 1," he said, "then a championship playoff is the answer."

Devaney was still bubbling Saturday over the Cornhuskers' 35-31 Thanksgiving Day victory over second-ranked Oklahoma when he visited Miami to make arrangements for a Jan. 1 Orange Bowl date against Alabama.

"Don't forget, fellas," he cautioned, tongue partway in cheek, "we've got a regular season game remaining against Hawaii."

The NCAA permits teams playing at Hawaii not count the game against its limit of 11 regular season matches. "If we beat Hawaii, we'll be 12-0 coming into the Orange Bowl. Nope, I don't believe any team has ever gone 13-0 in a season."

Devaney favors a 16-team playoff with games to be played in place of — and at the same sites — as the current post-season bowls. "I would think the Orange Bowl or Rose Bowl would be the logicial place for the finals each year," he said.

The coach admitted, "It's just dreaming to talk of playoffs since so many coaches would vote against it. Especially folks in the Southeatern Conference, where they have five or six teams brining home that bowl loot every year."

Devaney was asked if there was any team he would rather meet than Coach Bear Bryant's Crimson Tide in the Orange Bowl event.

"Being perfectly honest, I would like to play Tufts or Bates," he said, choking back a grin, "one of those Eastern schools dripping with culture, But, these Orange Bowl officials don't go much for culture. They want to match the best two teams they can hire."

Devaney followed his crack about Eastern teams by saying, "now that doesn't include Cornell. That fellow Ed Marinaro is too tough to mess with if you're picking your own bowl opponents."

Devaney indicated he might be seriously interested in following Missouri's Dan Devine and UCLA's Tommy Prothro into pro football "if I was a little younger."

"At 39, I hesitate to apply," he laughed, pulling a Jack Benny by slicing 17 years from his age of 56. "Of course, you never shut your door to opportunities."

Devaney said "I probably made some mistakes in my talks with the pros in the past." The Cornhusker coach said he was contacted by at least one NFL club last year, but "nothing in 1971."

Seven Run In 'Sixty' Marathon

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Seven old men, tired but supremely proud, rested Saturday after conquering a 290-mile run that started in Hollywood and ended in this glittering gambling center.

The run was called the second annual Life Begins at Sixty Super Marathon. Its seven participants, the youngest 60, the oldest 73, ran it in relays in 44 hours and six minutes.

The team members, all from California, started off in a group at 3:05 p.m. Wednesday from the studios of a Hollywood television station and crossed the finish line at a Las Vegas Strip hotel as a group on Friday.

En route down Interstate 15, one runner kept running while the others rested in a larger camper truck that drove alongside. The runners clad in gold or red track shorts, took half-hour turns on the straightaways and 15-minute stints in the mountains.

The seven oldsters made the same run last year. This year's finishing time was an hour and 54 minutes off last year's time.

Fred Grace, 73, of Los Angeles, was the grup's elder statesman, followed by Noel Jackson, 72, of San Diego, Maurice Montgomery, 65, of Sherman Oaks, Walter Stark of San Francisco and Walter Fredericks of Pico Riviera, both 64; William Selvin, 61, of Orange, and John Montoya, Colton, 60.

Grace, who began long distance running at 65, said he wants to run the 290 miles solo some day.

Baylor's Coach Resigns

HOUSTON (AP) — Baylor Athletic Director Jack Patterson announced Saturday that head football coach Bill Beall's contract has been terminated by mutual agreement with the Baylor board of trustees.

Beall, whose teams had won only three games in three seasons was in the third year of a five-year contract.

Patterson, who heads a four-man committee to seek Beall's replacement, said he had not talked with any coaches.

"But we've got information on six or seven that we might be interested in," Patterson said, "and coach (Johnny) Majors is definitely one of them."

It was rumored earlier this week, that Majors, who has guided Iowa State to its most successful season in 11 years, would succeed Beall.

SFCC Loses To Meramec

Bulletin

FLAT RIVER, Mo. — State Fair Community College lost its second game in as many nights Saturday, falling to host Mineral Area College in the Mineral Area Classic Tournament, 92-79.

Larry Jenkins led the winners with a 31-point total while SFCC's top contributors were Jimmy Lassiter with 25 and Clarence Hampton who netted 24.

The loss left the Roadrunners with a 3-3 record. The locals travel to Moberly Tuesday night seeking their fourth victory.

FLAT RIVER, Mo. — Meramec Community College of St. Louis, made up a decided height disadvantage and converted on 17 of 28 freethrows to hand State Fair Community College a 79-68 setback in the Friday night segment of the Mineral Area Classic, here.

Meramec, whose tallest starter is 6'4" Glenn Parks, put their slow-down offense to work and dropped State Fair Community College's season mark to 3-2.

State Fair was ahead by five points two times in the opening period of play, but could not break the game open.

Although the Warriors had a shorter team, they faired well in the rebound department. For the game, State Fair saw Meramec pull down 37 caroms while the Roadrunners managed one less, 36.

Rebounding, coupled with Larry Locke's 25 points and Glenn Parks 21 point performance gave the Warriors about all they needed.

Free throws played a big part in the game also, as Meramec tossed in 11 charity tosses in the second half. State Fair netted only 12 of 17 attempts for the entire contest.

The Roadrunners got into foul trouble with 14:43 left in the contest, when 6'7" Clarence Hampton was charged with his fourth personal. Just less than three minutes earlier, forward Miles Yates had picked up his fourth foul.

When Hampton was replaced by reserve center Tony Weber, the score was knotted at 43-all. Hampton returned later, but fouled out.

The Roadrunners had been using their press since the early minutes of the second half, but with little success.

Likewise, their fast break turned out to be one of State Fair's biggest enemies as turnovers cost the Roadrunners needed baskets. SFCC had 14 turnovers in the game.

In the Meramec stretch drive the Warriors hit well from the free throw line; during a one minute span between the 6:21 and 5:24 marks of the final half, Meramec tossed in six charity shots while in the one-and-one situation.

Jimmy Lassiter, State Fair's talented 6'3" forward, led the Roadrunners with 20 points — all from the field. Lassiter played with an injured rib, but took part in the entire game.

"We should have been ahead by 10 at the intermission, but we just couldn't get our offense going," Roadrunner's coach Bill Barton commented. "We did a terrible job of blocking out underneath, allowing Meramec to get too many rebounds," he continued.

State Fair shot a torrid 61 per cent in the opening half, hitting 14 of 23 shots from the field. However, SFCC mustered only 14 of 38 in the second half. For the game the Roadrunners outshot the Warriors 46 per cent to 40 per cent.

Barton best summed up the loss when he said "You just can't win ball games when you make as many mistakes as we did."

SFCC was scheduled to play host Mineral Area College in Saturday's 9 p.m. game.

Mineral Area posted a decisive win over John A. Logan Community College, Carterville, Ill., in Friday's nightcap, 98-65.

Scoring

Meramec (79) — Locke 25, Parks 21, Knolte 19, Williams 9, Fingerhut 3, Evans 2.

SFCC (68) — Lassiter 20, M. Yates 18, B. Yates 12, Hampton 8, Arand 4, Kratteli 2, Diekmann 2, Weber 2.

Rockhurst Earns Class IV-A Title

INDEPENDENCE, Mo. (AP) — Rockhurst struck for three long touchdowns and Chris Cummings' three-yard clincher in beating St. Louis Beaumont 20-14 Saturday for the state Class 4A high school football title.

St. Louis schools had held a stranglehold on the championship the first three years of the playoffs.

Cummings hit Fred Nachbar on a 57-yard pass play for Rockhurst's first touchdown, and Gary DiGiovanna got the second on a 61-yard burst off tackle. Then Cummings wrapped up the Hawk scoring with six minutes left in the first half.

Beaumont struck on Joel Patrick's 80-yard touchdown romp in the first quarter and Jornel Williams' five-yard smash in the third.

Rockhurst finished with an 11-0 season, its first clean slate since 1955, and Beaumont has a 9-1-1 mark.

Williams, Beaumont halfback, on successive plays from the Rockhurst 34, sprinted over right tackle to the end zone twice, but both touchdowns were nullified by penalities.

Cards Activate Two Defensemen

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Linebacker Terry Miller and defensive back Tom Longo were activated from the St. Louis Cardinals taxi squad Friday.

Defensive tackle Fred Heron and linebacker Mike McGill were placed on the inactive roster. Heron is recovering from a knee injury and McGill from a shoulder bruise.

A BARGAIN COLT

RUIDOSO DOWNS, N.M. (AP) — When Will Whitehead of Del Rio, Tex., bought Mr. Kid Charge as a yearling at an auction sale here last year he picked up a real bargain.

Mr. Kid Charge cost Whitehead $4,100 and when he won the All-American Futurity for quarter horses here on Labor Day the 2-year-old picked up $200,841.62. It was the seventh straight victory for Mr. Kid Charge.

Disbelief!

Arnold Palmer looks up to the sky in apparent disbelief Saturday after an attempted birdie putt fell short on the 16th green. Palmer began his famous charge toward the finish yesterday by shooting a two-under-par 69, two strokes off the pace in the Heritage Golf Classic at Hilton Head Island, S.C. (UPI)

Devaney Gives Tide Due Credit

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Nebraska Coach Bob Devaney, whose top-ranked Cornhuskers play Alabama in the Orange Bowl New Year's Day, said Alabama looked "very powerful" in downing Auburn 31-7 Saturday.

Devaney's team defeated second-ranked Oklahoma 35-31 two days ago, and he said, "I think the pressure on this Orange Bowl game will be very similar" to the buildup given the Thanksgiving Day game.

Alabama operates the wishbone offense "very efficiently and they got outside the ends real well against Auburn," Devaney said.

Asked to compare Alabama and Oklahoma, both of whom use the wishbone, Devaney answered "they're very similar, but I think the Alabama offensive line is a little bigger than Oklahoma."

"Alabama is a real well balanced team," he added.

Devaney, who said he watched the game on television, explained there were no Nebraska scouts at the contest. Instead, he said, he and Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant have agreed to exchange films of the teams' final games.

He termed Alabama halfback Johnny Musso "an outstanding runner."

Irwin Leads In Heritage

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Hale Irwin scrambled back into the third round lead in the $110,000 Heritage Golf Classic Saturday, taking a 68, but Jack Nicklaus and Arnold Palmer were lurking close behind.

Irwin, still seeking his first victory in four years on the pro tour, had a 54 hole total of 209, four under par on the demanding 6,655 yard Harbour Town Golf Links.

The 26-year-old former football star at Colorado held a one stroke lead over big Bob Lunn and second round leader Mac McLendon, tied at 210. Lunn had a 71 and McLendon was one over par at 72.

But the biggest threats could come from two of the game's giants, Nicklaus and Palmer. Nicklaus had to work hard for a 71 and 211 while Palmer had a 69 for 212, just three strokes off the pace.

They were the only five players under par after 54 holes.

Frank Beard was next at 214, one over par. Lee Trevino, the leading money winner and already named the PGA player of the year, took a 72 and appeared to be out of it at 221, eight over par on the tight, testing, tree-lined layout.

"Chipping was my long suit today," said Irwin, who missed the green seven times but saved par on each occasion with his longest putt from four feet.

Irwin, a 6-foot, 170-pounder, hit a wedge over a tree to within two feet for a birdie on the second hole, laced an iron to four feet on the next and ran in a 25 foot putt on the 12th for his three birdies.

He didn't have a bogey but had to one-putt the last three greens for pars.

Lunn, a big guy playing his way out of a mild slump, had a share of the lead until he bogeyed the 458 yard, par four final hole. He missed the green to the left, chipped to five feet and missed the putt.

McLendon also shared the lead at one stage, but took consecutive bogeys on the eighth and ninth.

Nicklaus was obviously upset after his round.

He had 16 pars, birdied the 15th from 15 feet and took a bogey on the tough eighth, where his tee shot hit a tree and the ball dropped down into a palm frond. He had no shot.

Hornets Lose Out On 3A Title Try

FULTON, Mo. (AP) — Richmond drove 67 yards in the last 48 seconds and defeated Fulton 29-25 for the state Class 3A high school football title Saturday but the Fulton coach filed a protest over a penalty that set up the winning touchdown.

Fulton had just broken a 22-22 deadlock with Rich Pittman's 22-yard field goal and apparently had the championship, salted away on a 25-22 score, with only 48 seconds left.

Starting from his own 33, quarterback Blaine Henningsen of Richmond threw two passes—to Dennis Collins and George Robinson—and reached the Fulton 47. Then Henningsen carried the ball to the 25.

Henningsen lost four yards. Then he passed eight yards to Rick Hendricks.

Fulton was called for roughing the passer. The officials gave Richmond both the gain on the play and the 15 yards for the penalty, placing the ball on the nine.

Bob Fisher, Fulton coach, protested that the penalty should have been marked from the line of scrimmage.

Puppet Shows a Boost

LUCKNOW, India (AP) — Puppet shows are being staged to give India a more literate, stronger democracy.

A spellbound village audience squats in the dirt watching lively modern folk tales on a portable stage.

The plaster hero, a moustachioed peasant farmer like the village men, saves his starving family by planting a new high-yield variety of rice—which he learned about in a night-time literacy class.

Puppet women—in shawls and long skirts like the women in the audience—learn to escape disease with inoculations, instead of prayers to the red goddess of smallpox.

When the show is over, literacy workers answer eager questions and organize a reading and writing course for the audience.

The puppeteers are from Literacy House, a small private center in Lucknow leading the campaign to reduce India's staggering number of illiterates.

The world's largest democracy has 386 million citizens without education—over 70 per cent of its population.

For 18 years the modest brick campus of Literacy House—designed by a British architect to resemble an Indian village—has been bursting with new techniques to make literacy the basic weapon against the country's poverty, hunger, disease and overpopulation.

Literacy House workers grow angry at the traditional notion that literacy consists of merely reading an election ballot and producing a signature.

Every word they teach is in the language of birth control, or improved farm production, or nutrition and health.

This is the concept of "functional literacy." It was developed by the center's 91-year-old founder, Mrs. Welthy Fisher, an American missionary and educator who gave up an opera career in 1924 to marry the Methodist Bishop of Calcutta and Burma.

At the urging of Mohandas Gandhi she focused on improving the life of the Indian villages—where 80 per cent of the population lives.

She insisted literacy workers should not be mere "teachers" in the villages, but family planning counselors and agricultural advisers.

"We can't teach a person in a vacuum," says Literacy House's Indian director, E. C. Shaw. "While we are teaching, we need to solve two fundamental problems—food and population."

The basic texts in a literacy course present vitally important information—how a village without irrigation can obtain a tube-well from the state government, why one birth-control method is better than another.

Adult education is an overwhelming task—in the face of a 53 million increase in the number of Indian illiterates in the last 10 years.

Literacy House is not under the illusion that it can single-handedly convert Indians into an educated citizenry. In fact, it has made literate only 165,000 adults since 1953.

Even the illiteracy of its home town—Lucknow city, with a population of 655,673—is too big a problem for one small institution with "meager resources," admits Shaw.

"Our job is primarily to produce techniques and material to be used by government and other agencies," he explains.

Most of Literacy House's budget—$227,000 last year, from American and Canadian contributors, and the U.S. Agency for International Development—is devoted to testing pilot programs, training teachers, and publishing special texts for the newly literate.

The open-air theatre for training puppeteers is part of the search for new ways to promote literacy courses in the villages.

The puppets are effective "mass communication" in a country with one television station, which has only a 30-mile broadcasting radius. Some of the plays in the large repertoire were developed by American puppeteer Bill Baird, who has served as adviser to Literacy House.

Literacy House restricts its efforts to the Hindi language—spoken by less than half of all Indians—and hopes that soon others will be able to apply Literacy House techniques to all 13 of India's national languages.

Claims Legal Services Lawyers Seeking Reforms

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's top poverty lawyer says lawyers in the federal legal services program are engaged in meaningful reform and are not radicals seeking institutions to attack, as some critics suggest.

Fred Speaker, director of the legal services program in the Office of Economic Opportunity, said also a proposal before Congress to make the program an independent corporation should strengthen it.

But, in an interview, Speaker said he doubts such a move would make federal legal services immune from partisan politics, although that is his hope.

Questions and answers:

Q: Do you think making legal services an independent agency will make it stronger?

A: Yes, I do.

Q: Will it take it out of the political arena? Many people say that's why they want it to be an independent agency.

A: No, it's not going to take it out of the political arena. In many ways, I think, that's an ideal hope. As long as you have something that is totally federally funded, you're going to be in the political arena. And I think rightfully so.

I think it's not consistent with our concepts of checks and balances, responsibility, all that, not consistent with the representative system of government that you would expect somebody to fund a program without having some political surveillance in the standpoint of using political to mean governmental. You would expect Congress, if they are going to appropriate millions of dollars for this thing, to ask questions about whether it is being run right.

Q: What about political in the sense of political?

A: Political in the sense of partisan political is totally alien to what this program ought to be. But you are either going to have that or you're not, depending on the partisans who wish to make an issue of this thing. Partisans will make an issue through the appropriation process just as much as they do now.

Q: But what about when a governor says he doesn't want a program and he fights it all the way and the poverty lawyers in the program are spinning their wheels for six or seven months?

A: I don't think the new corporation is going to be immune from complaints by governors or mayors or political figures, local people who are dissatisfied with the legal services program.

There again, as long as it is not partisan, if I can distinguished between partisan and political, it seems to me that governmental people have a right and duty to complain when they see something is wrong. I get concerned when somebody is going o make a partisan issue.

Q: Why will legal services be stronger or better as an independent agency?

A: Just because it is independent. Just the idea of independency and separateness makes it a stronger entity. In addition to that, the ability of that independent agency to make its own case, by itself, for more money or for any legislative changes it thinks it needs. It will stand or fall on its own.

Q: For a long time, legal services has been fortunate it has been in OEO. The biggest complaints against OEO have been directed at legal services and VISTA volunteers. Now the sharpshooters will have a single target.

A: My answer to you is that it has a chance of being stronger; it also is in more jeopardy. It will not be able to embrace some of the other aspects of OEO which are more popular and get more support. It becomes a very crucial test. Once independent and once they can look at it, it better be good. It is potentially stronger; it is also potentially easier to be knocked off. But my own feeling is, as a person, if I think I'm right, I'd rather stand or fall on my own ability.

Q: What do you think legal services should be?

A: I think a legal services program should be the perfection of what it is now, a program devoted to vindicating the rights of the poor and, and I underscore the "and," of attacking the causes of poverty that have become institutionalized, attacking the causes of poverty that can be attacked through the legal processes.

I'm not trying to be cute. I think there are two different approaches. And they're not always clearly recognized.

One, we have myriad legal abuses of poor people and, to the extent possible and practical, we have to have lawyers available to meet those individual attacks on poor people. But it would continue to be a process of 2,000 lawyers or 8,000 lawyers sticking their thumbs in all these dikes if we don't try to shore up the dike itself. And that's that second phase of trying to get the institutions in better shape.

Q: Through class-action type suits?

A: Yes, I guess that's a short hand way to refer to it. But let me tell you about class action for a second. What I am really talking about is law reform. I'm talking about changes in the institutions that burden the poor. Class action has become kind of popular, or maybe unpopular, way of talking about this.

You see class actions most prevalent in corporate law practice, in challenges to corporate decisions or in monopoly situations. You see class actions coming up in the environmental field, in consumer protection stuff that is totally unrelated to the legal services program. It is a way to establish a point of law that can be really entirely individual. I studied class action in law school. They've had them for a long time.

Q: Don't most critics say that poverty lawyers file class action suits in an effort to destroy an institution, that they go out looking for a case to serve their cause?

A: One of the reasons it is used is that class action sounds Marxist. It sounds like it's something class against class. But that's really not what it is. It's a device. It's one of many that a legal services lawyer can use to attack a situation that's wrong. The one benefit it has is that a class action involves a number of people. Te case doesn't get mooted out when one guy has his grievance satisfied, that does not end the case.

So there is a greater potential for longevity that will get you the reform of the law. By that answer, I don't want to assume or to agree with the assumption of many critics against the program that there are bunch of young, hippie, long-haired radical lawyers that are going around on their own looking for institutions to attack.

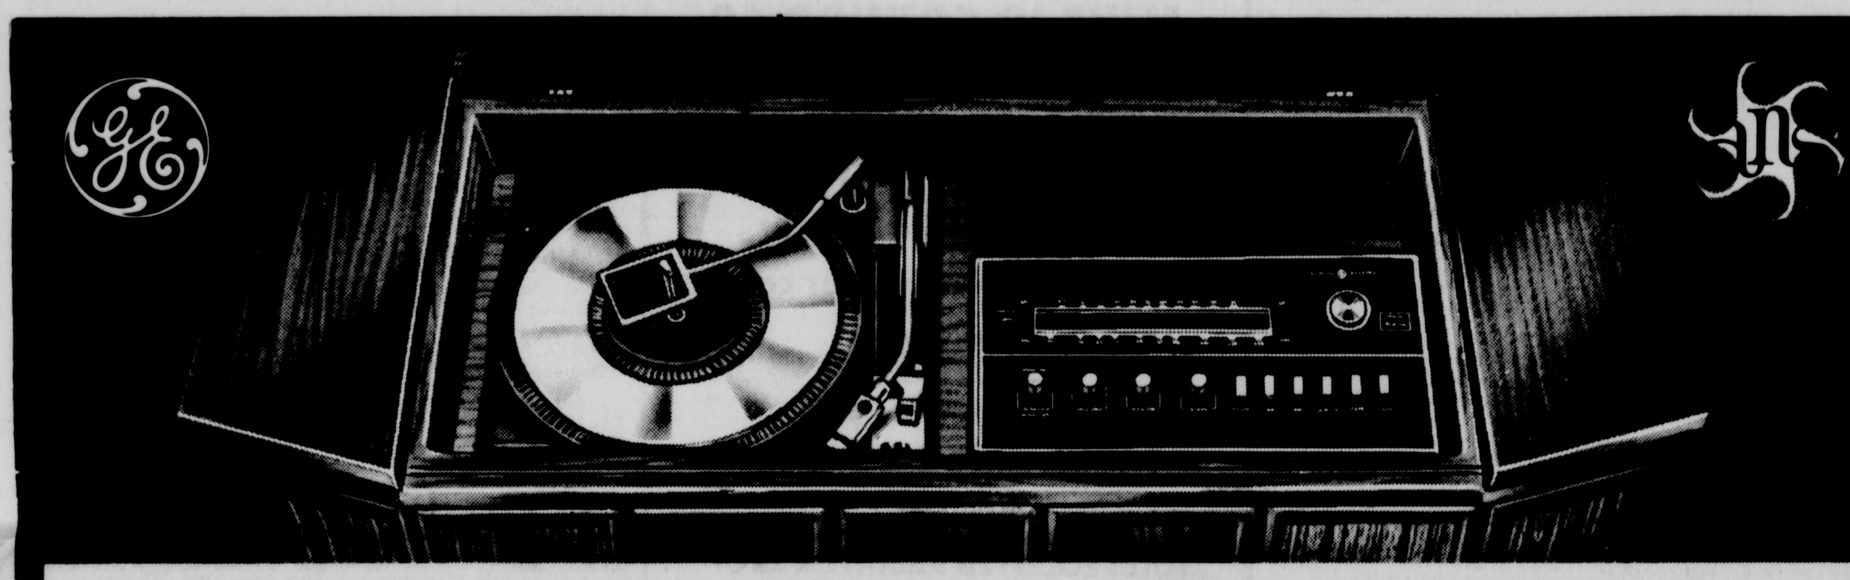

Q: Isn't this one of the basic charges against the legal services program?

A: It is. In my experience here, it has not been the case. I'm sure there are exceptions to that but these guys are engaged in law reform activity, exclusive law reform activity, are responding to what they perceive to be the need of the community that represent.

Things You Need To Know If You Plan Retirement

This Christmas, Try A Different Slant To Your Gift-Giving

By James Arness: "I'm Just a Lazy Guy Who Struck It Rich!"

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR ARTHUR GODFREY, radio & TV personality*

I've heard several reasons given as to why you quit radio. What is the story?—L. L. Baker, Bloomington, Ind.

● There comes a time after 27 years with the same program. And the network isn't what it used to be. There's no control over the affiliates. Some of them play me at 1 a.m., or 5 a.m. or 6 a.m. What's happened to network radio is that the affiliated stations found out they could make a buck without the networks. They hate anything that requires attentive listening. The network says, 'We're sorry, but there isn't much we can do.' So I say, the hell with it all. There are about 250 stations on the CBS network and the preponderant majority just plays rock and roll music or keeps repeating the news day and night. They don't want anything of significance. When I took off on my ecology campaign about five years ago, some 55 stations threatened to drop my show. They told the network that they wanted more music and entertainment. One of the things you have to watch out for is that some station owners have interests in strip-mining and timberlands. They don't want programs that generate public pressure against them.

FOR SEN. EDMUND MUSKIE

There has been talk about the term of office for President being extended to six years. What is your feeling about this idea?—D. Downs, Durham, N.C.

● In this time of complex issues and huge bureaucracies, our Government is already too slow in responding to our problems and needs. I oppose lengthening of the Presidential term to six years because I feel it would seriously undermine the control that voters exercise over the actions of the Executive Branch.

FOR PATTY DUKE, actress*

When did you start acting, and what was your first big break?—Mrs. R. F. Long, Niagara Falls, N.Y.

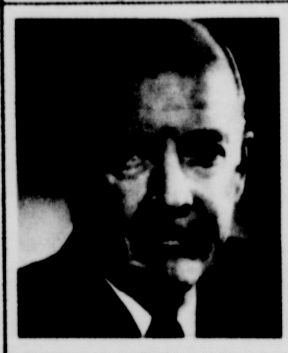

● I started when I was seven. Besides attending small professional schools, I went from office to office for bookings. Didn't get a job for two years. My father was a cab driver, my mother a cashier in a restaurant. My first big break was when I was 14 and did "Miracle Worker," playing Miss Helen Keller.

FOR HOPE LANGE, actress*

I vaguely remember that you had once been named "official dog-walker" for Fala, President Roosevelt's dog. Is there anything to this?—Mrs. M. Thomsin, New York, N. Y.

● When I was a child, my parents owned a restaurant on Washington Square in Greenwich Village, Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, who lived in the neighborhood, regularly walked Fala by the restaurant. The dog, smelling the food, would stop by the door. Mrs. Roosevelt struck up an acquaintance with my mother, and when we learned that the First Lady was looking for a dog walker, I volunteered.

FOR HOWARD PYLE, Director of the National Safety Council*

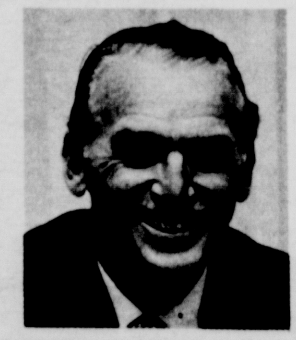

How dangerous do your records show hunting to be?—Robert Schwehr, Sanborn, N.D.

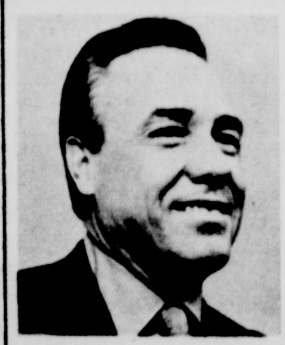

● Our estimates are that 600 to 800 deaths annually are attributed to hunting accidents, and that for every fatal accident there are eight nonfatal ones.

FOR DOUGLAS FAIRBANKS, JR., actor*

Many young actors say the star system has collapsed and that they are happy it did. How do you feel about that?—H. M. Mason Jr., San Antonio, Texas.

● I don't know if the star system has totally collapsed. Taylor and Burton still atttract attention wherever they go. And I'm not so sure today's young actors are so against the idea of a star system. What many of them object to is the fact that they are not stars, so they have to tell the world they never wanted to be stars.

FOR EARL SCRUGGS, musician*

We were surprised when you broke off your relationship with Lester Flatt. What was the cause of the blow-up?—Henry Ross, Lansing, Mich.

● The press made our parting sound a lot less friendly than it really was. Lester wanted to return to the original way we had done material in 1948, while I was more interested in modern things. Learning a new tune has always been exciting for me. And then I'd been on the road for almost 20 years. I wanted to be with my children.

FOR JOHNNY UNITAS, pro football star*

The attorney general of Massachusetts claims it is illegal for a pro football team to include exhibition game tickets in a season ticket package, thus forcing the purchaser to buy tickets he might not want. If this is upheld all over, how could the owners make up for the loss in revenue?—William M. Connolly, North Haven, Conn.

● The owners could simply schedule all the games as official games, and we'd play a 20-game season.

FOR FLORENCE HENDERSON, actress*

Do you find it more difficult to work with child actors, as you do with six in the Brady Bunch, than adult actors?—F. Boone, Springfield, Mo.

● It depends on the youngsters. I have worked with children before—for example, in "The Sound of Music"—and some of them can be very difficult. The six youngsters I work with now are professional and very delightful. We all feel like a true family—when they step out of line, I discipline them as I would my own four. Anyway, large families are my way of life; I come from a family of ten.

FOR HARRY REASONER, newscaster*

There is much talk about objectivity and bias on the part of newscasters these days. What are your thoughts on this problem?—R. L. Johnson, Bloomington, Ind.

● We have to draw the delicate line between what is legitimate news analysis and what is editorial comment. Both broadcasting and print journalists must deal with these things each day, and the honest ones know in their hearts that there are no instant answers. On TV, the heat is on hotter because you're right there on camera, before millions of viewers, and you have little time to reflect. So you just rely on your reporter's instinct and your own sense of fairness, both of which, hopefully, are developed by experience. With these safeguards, I think it is all right for a commentator—or even local station management—to take a stance, provided it is clearly presented as opinion.

Things You Should Know When

Predicts one authority: "By 1980, the average 65- year-old will have the health

Not long ago, a friend of mine, in his early 50's, was talking about the things he was going to do when he retired as office manager of a local business firm.

"First," he said, "Alice and I are going to take a nice slow freighter cruise, maybe go all the way around the world. Then we'll sell the house here and move south, plant a real garden, swim all year round."

"Pretty expensive plans, aren't they?" I asked.

"Well, I'm not rich," my friend said, "but I figure between my pension, and Social Security and what I'll get for the house, we should be able to afford it."

I certainly wish him well with his dream, but I'm afraid my friend may be in for a rude awakening. After years of constant activity, is he going to be able to just sit in a deck chair for most of a year? Will the price he gets for his home be enough to pay for a new one? How much has inflation nicked into his savings and pension money? My friend—ordinarily an astute businessman—hasn't thought about any of those things.

Yet the most important key to successful retirement, authorities say, is the foresight to prepare for it well ahead of time. Indeed, according to surveys by Duke University's Center for the Study of Aging, the happiest retirees are those who begin making careful plans five, 10 or even 20 years ahead of time.

A generation or two ago retirement was chiefly a concern of the privileged few. But today millions of Americans trade work for leisure in their later years, either because they are forced into it by their companies or else because they want to. According to Census Bureau estimates, by the late 1970's there will be more than 23,000,000 of us over age 65. Millions more are stopping work at earlier ages. The Bureau of National Affairs in Washington reports that half of all major businesses and a third of all smaller firms now permit employees to retire at reduced pensions at 55. Moreover, the medical advances that are extending life expectancy mean that the average retired person will have about 15 extra years of leisure.

How can you prepare now to make these years enjoyable and rewarding? Here, from experts, are some valuable suggestions for sensible long-range planning:

Your Home. One of the major blessings of retirement is the freedom to live where you choose. But the error that many retired persons live to regret is making a bad decision. For example, one couple who had spent 35 years in snowy Minnesota couldn't wait to sell their home and move to sunny Southern California. Unfortunately, after eight months there, they found that the combination of dry air and frequent spells of smog were giving them respiratory troubles. Another couple, who had lived in a small Illinois town close to their four children and 13 grandchildren, were lured by the promise of peace and quiet to buy a house in a "golden age" community a thousand miles away. Within three months they were desperate for the familiar sounds of children's laughter, and missed terribly the casual visits of their family and old friends.

To avoid such disappointments, experts advise that you think long and hard before you make major changes in your pattern of living. "When you live for years in a community you put down deep roots," says retirement planning expert Henry Jones. When you move, you become a stranger in your new community. "If you move without being prepared, you may find yourself unbearably unhappy."

Just as a businessman tests his new ideas, you should test your ideas for retirement living. "Select a few places where you think you might want to live," say advisers with the American Association of Retired Persons, "and do a research job on them." Read about them, study maps, get literature from the local Chambers of Commerce and other organizations that will tell you all about the community. Even pay a visit, if possible. Also, consider your present home town as a retirement possibility. You may decide that the advantages of familiar surroundings, friendly faces and mortgage-free living outweigh the attractions of year-round golf or deep-sea fishing.

Your Finances. No one can be expected to project a dollars-and-cents budget for his future retirement years. But anyone can make an educated estimate of his living costs and his anticipated income—and, more important, he can do a number of specific things now that can help him live more comfortably later on.

To begin with, don't underestimate what it will cost you to live as a retired person. Too many people assume that with the children grown, the house paid for and one's personal desires pitched to a lower key, expenses will be smaller. Perhaps. But medical bills may rise, investments may sour, moves to new living quarters may be expensive. Above all, while your income will be more or less fixed, inflation is likely to keep the cost of living rising. The trend toward earlier retirement, plus a longer life expectancy, makes traditional "retirement budget" tables unrealistic. Today financial experts say, a retired couple needs at least $600 a month to maintain a "moderate" living standard.

"When you live for years in a community," says one expert, "you put down deep roots. If you move without being prepared, you may find yourself unbearably unhappy."

To plan ahead, you should make an inventory of the sources of your retirement income—and then do what you can to maximize them. For example, check with your Social Security district office to get an estimate of your monthly benefits upon your retirement. Talk to your life-insurance man about how you can best use the cash values your policies have built up. If you have an annuity that guarantees you fixed payments for life, explore the ad-and vigor he had at 45 or 50." What other factors might you have failed to take into account?

visability of converting it to a new variable annuity which puts the same sum into a mutual fund and pays changing monthly amounts that reflect the changing value of the investment.

Your Activities. Many people who look ahead to retirement assume they will enjoy filling their time with travel, relaxation, sports, reading—"just lazin' in the ol' hammock," as one man put it. But the fact is that most of us quickly get bored with lazing about. Travel is expensive, some sports are physically too demanding and the 2,000 extra free hours a year soon loom up as an awful lot of empty time.

"As a result, there is a clinical syndrome we call 'retirement shock'," says Dr. Edward L. Bortz of Philadelphia's Lankenau Hospital. It can consist of anything from vague aches and pains to depression and despair. It comes from the sudden sense of uselessness that occurs when a busy and demanding life turns into a seemingly empty one. To avoid this experts recommend that you plan ahead for the activities that will fill your retirement years. For example:

- An avid fisherman took a preretirement hobby class in fly tying. Today, in his early 70's, he combines pleasure with business by crafting his own flies, testing them in the local streams and selling them by mail order.
- An accountant with a large company devoted three evenings a week—in the five years before his retirement—to building up a small business handling tax returns. After retirement, he expanded to a three-day-a-week bookkeeping service for neighborhood store owners.
- A middle-aged couple became involved in the affairs of a neighborhood day-care center for children. After retirement, they were made members of its board of directors—and soon were involved in a host of other community activities that kept them busy and interested.

It is not exactly news that there are countless opportunities for retired persons to work, to serve and to keep active. What is not so well-known is that, thanks to medical advances, age is no longer a barrier to ambition. Predicts Augustus Kinzel, president of the Jonas Salk Institute for Biological Studies: "By 1980, the average 65-year-old will have the vigor he had at 45 or 50."

Your Family. "Retirement poses great emotional adjustment problems for wives and children of retirees," says Dr. Jack Weinberg, director of the Illinois State Psychiatric Institute. A wife suddenly finds a man around the house and under her feet all day, either moping about, ordering her about as if she were his office staff or interfering in her own activities. Children find a retired parent either fiercely—and often foolishly—determined not to "bother" them or suddenly overly dependent on them.

Here again planning ahead can avert trouble. The man (or woman) who prepares himself for post retirement activities is less likely to be excessively dependent on his wife and children. Or spouses can jointly develop new interests during preretirement years to be shared later. I know one couple who, in their 50's, began a serious study of chess. Now retired, they engage each other in fierce "tournaments." Another woman, in the year before her husband was due to retire, gradually set up one room of their house as an office. When her husband left his job, he naturally gravitated to his home office and soon embarked on a writing project that now fills his days.

Your Self. Perhaps the major goal of planning for retirement is to prepare your own mind and spirit for the changes that will occur. In a work-oriented society it is easy to fall into the trap of believing that from being "somebody" you have suddenly become "nobody."

Some men are experimenting with "gradual retirement"—taking two months instead of two weeks for vacations and using them to expand their personal horizons. Some companies are giving older executives and senior workers from six to 12-month "sabbaticals" to enable them to experiment with retirement living. Many companies have "preretirement programs" for employees which cover various aspects of retirement and offer individual counseling service. Extensive advice on retirement planning is available from the American Association of Retired Persons, whose membership is open to anyone past 52. Then, La-Z-Boy® came into our life, with Sofette (our new reclining sofa). The Sofette proved to us that two could relax as easily as one.

At last, we could be together, separately. Each with our own set of controls for relaxing or reclining with individual foot rests. We could even use our Sofette as a comfortable guest bed. Or, get together and just rock.

La-Z-Boy gave us Sofette and a wide choice of beautifully carefree colors and fabrics. There were many styles to choose from, too. Our Sofette matches perfectly with our decor.

The Presidential Long Shots: What Makes Them Run?

Harris, Jackson, Chisholm, Mills, McCloskey. Do the names mean anything to you? They're all being mentioned as possible Presidents of the United States. But how much do we really know about them? And why are they running, even though the odds makers say they haven't a chance?

Running for President of the United States is a brutally punishing task, even for the candidate who has a lot going for him. It requires an endless, grinding toil, constant, exhausting travel and enormous sums of money. It takes away a man's leisure time for months—often years. And it can virtually destroy his family life.

These are formidable sacrifices even for a man with such political strength that he can feel the prize of the oval office within his grasp—a man such as Democratic front-runner Sen. Edmund S. Muskie of Maine.

Yet as election year approaches, the field inevitably becomes studded with lesser candidates as well, men who make the same great investment of health and wealth despite immense odds against them.

What makes these "dark horse" candidates run?

For one thing, Presidential politicking can exert a siren call, an ego-pleasing summons which draws some men like a moth to a flame, even when they know their chances are nil. Republican Harold Stassen simply became addicted to it.

Others do it with the calculation of personal ambition, hoping to gain prominence and thus win some lesser award: the Vice Presidential nomination, for instance.

Occasionally, a man is driven into the race by impassioned personal views on a burning issue—such as the Vietnam War.

All of these elements and more seem to be present when one surveys some of the dark horses now on the Presidential track: Senators Fred Harris and Henry Jackson, Reps. Shirley Chisholm and Wilbur Mills for the Democrats, Rep. Paul McCloskey for the Republicans.

Sen. Fred R. Harris

Close observers regard Sen. Fred R. Harris of Oklahoma as a "true believer" but also find him a very ambitious man.

His beliefs have moved him to espouse, passionately, the cause of the "little people" and the poor, most particularly blacks and other minorities (his striking wife LaDonna is a Comanche Indian). But as he pursued this course on the national political scene, serving as chairman of the Democratic Committee and a member of the Kerner Commission on urban rioting, it all but ruined him with the generally conservative voters back home in Oklahoma.

Slim as his Presidential hopes are, he's the only man in America who might have a better chance of winning the White House than being reelected to the Senate—so he had little to lose by running.

It's well-known that the 40-year-old Harris badly wanted to be the Democratic nominee for Vice President in 1968 but lost out to Senator Muskie.

Some think the Senator secretly hopes he can attract enough notice to snag that second place on the ticket this second time around.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson

Washington Sen. Henry M. Jackson stands as an inspiration to other dark horses.

When he began making Presidential noises last winter, few took him seriously. He still hardly scratches in the national poll ratings, yet has become regarded as a rising star because he's the only man in the field with much nationwide appeal for conservative Democrats.

Although generally liberal on domestic issues, Jackson is an unabashed "hawk" on the Vietnam War and a hardliner over all in foreign affairs. He would have the U.S. support Israel against all pressures, and issues dire warnings that trusting the Russians amounts to dealing with burglars.

At the least, the 59-year-old Jackson wants to keep the party platform—and the promises of its nominee—from turning away from these views entirely.

Older hands remember that back in 1960, "Scoop" Jackson spent a lonely afternoon waiting for a call offering the Vice Presidential nomination. The call—from Jack Kennedy—went to Lyndon Johnson instead. But "Scoop" may hope his phone will yet ring next year. After all, it's only 12 years later.

Rep. Shirley Chisholm

Rep. Shirley Chisholm, the tough-minded black congresswoman from Brooklyn, virtually admits she has no illusions of winning the Democratic Presidential nomination. But as a member of two minority groups—blacks and women—she feels that she has a unique chance to build a coalition from these constituencies and exert influence on what has always before been "a white male decision."

"The most I hope to accomplish is to be able to go to that convention and not have them [white politicians] make the sole decision of who is going to be on that ticket," she says.

What does she seek?

"We would be very much interested in who would be chosen for Vice President. We might want a statement on the rights of black people, the rights of women" included in the party platform.

To document her strength, Mrs. Chisholm expects to enter Presidential primary elections in Florida, North Carolina, Wisconsin and California.

Rep. Wilbur D. Mills

For many years, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas behaved as if being the chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee was all any man could ever ask. He reveled in that post.

But lately the stolid 62-year-old Congressman acts as if he has been nibbled by that old, familiar insect—the Presidential bug.

"If I could get the nomination, I could beat Nixon," Democrat Mills has said. "I'd sweep the South and the border states, I'd get the business community and a lot of Republican voters. Labor wouldn't turn me down, and the blacks would take me over Nixon."

Perhaps. But some close observers think Mills is suddenly barnstorming about the country (after years of living a secluded life in Washington) largely because he enjoys it.

"He's greeted like a visiting potentate and finds it very flattering," says one Mills-watching reporter. "So long as it continues to build his ego, I think he'll keep it up. He likes the idea that he could at least swing some weight in the final choice at the convention."

Rep. Paul McCloskey

In 1968, Sen. Eugene McCarthy wrote the book for dark-horse candidates by driving incumbent President Lyndon Baines Johnson out of politics.

California Congressman Paul N. McCloskey, Jr. wants to do the same thing to Richard Nixon in 1972—and for the same reason: opposition to the war.

Most people thought McCarthy had no chance at all then. But McCloskey, a 43-year-old decorated Marine veteran of the Korean War, appears to have even less of one now.

The people in general and McCloskey's fellow Republicans in particular, seem inclined to go along with Nixon's gradual pace of Vietnam withdrawal. And so the Congressman's slender campaign effort flickers like a dying candle.

Still, he plows doggedly ahead, hoping that he can somehow draw enough votes in the New Hampshire primary election next March to make Nixon look bad.

"I know that even if I win some primaries, I'm not going to win the nomination. "But I've tapped a lot of dissatisfaction with Nixon and Agnew and all their policies on the war, race and priorities."

"I'm Just a Lazy Guy Who Struck It Rich"

By James Arness

Especially for Family Weekly

"One night, back in Minnesota, the station manager came in and asked me to do a political interview with the local councilman. I didn't even know the name of our local councilman. An hour later, this guy walks in and introduces himself as my councilman, Hubert Humphrey. 'Don't worry about a thing, son. I'll handle everything,' he told me."

"Gunsmoke" has been on the air for 16 years. Of course, it was the turning point in my career. But in my personal life, I don't think it has changed me a lot. I never liked to work hard, and I still don't.

Basically, I'm a lazy goof-off. Even as a kid I felt restless. I just took off every once in a while from my home on the outskirts of Minneapolis to ride the rails, do odd jobs, explore.

It was the draft in World War II that saved me from being thrown out of college in my first year. I just couldn't hack it. But I returned to college after I got back from the war because there didn't seem anything else to do. I figured I might as well take advantage of the G.I. Bill of Rights.

I was hit in the leg at Anzio, in 1944. The first couple of hours I didn't know if I'd ever get up again. Then this medic came along, examined me and said, "Congratulations, buddy, you've got a million-dollar wound!" That's the kind that's bad enough to put you out of action but not bad enough to affect your well-being—or so I thought. After three months in an army hospital in Italy and a year in a variety of hospitals in the States, I got my discharge and came home as I'd left—a private. And, as it turned out, with a bum leg. And the older I get, the more this leg of mine acts up. If it doesn't get better, I may have to create a new character—a combination of Matt Dillon and Chester, my limping side-kick when Dennis Weaver was on the show.

When I decided to enroll at Wisconsin's Beloit College, I had no more taste for book learning than before. When someone suggested that because I had a good voice I ought to take a course in radio announcing, I figured that sounded easy, so why not?

But then I kind of got to liking it. And when I heard of an opening to replace the regular disc jockey at a local radio station during his summer vacation, I got the job. Instead of taking it easy, I worked every day from three to midnight.

Every hour on the hour I had to read the news fresh off the teletype. One night the manager came in and asked me to do a political interview with the local councilman. I was never much interested in politics. I'm still not. At the time I didn't even know the name of our local councilman. "Don't worry, he'll introduce himself and bring a prepared script," the manager assured me. An hour later this guy walks in and introduces himself as my councilman, Hubert Humphrey. "Don't worry about a thing, son. I'll handle everything," he told me as he handed me a list of questions. "When I've finished my answer, I'll point at you again, and you read the next question." We had a hell of an interview.

I might have remained a disc jockey if it hadn't been for a friend of mine who had just gotten out of the Navy and had visions of becoming a great actor. "I met this guy from Hollywood who has a real in," he told me. "He can get us all the work we want." "What does he do?" I asked. "He's an extra," my buddy explained. Luckily we were very naïve.

We got to California with a hundred bucks between us. Of course, we couldn't get a job in any studio. I wasn't too disappointed because by then I felt that my life was radio. But my feelings weren't shared by the networks. I got nothing but discouragement. So the friend of my buddy suggested I use up the rest of my G.I. Bill to enroll in the Bliss Hayden Theatrical School on Robertson Boulevard. Eventually this led to my first job.

My big break came in 1955 when I became Matt Dillon on "Gunsmoke." This changed my mode of living, but not to the extent of the stories I keep hearing about myself. Like the one about my being the second wealthiest man in town—after Bob Hope. All I can say to that is it just ain't true—no way!

Sure, I make good money. But I spend lots of it, too—which brings me into conflict with my business manager. He's a great guy, except that spending a dollar really hurts him. He cringes whenever I buy anything.

What are my hobbies? Well, mostly I like to go into the wilderness—Canada, parts of northern California, and Baja California in Mexico. I love hunting and riding—also skiing. But that's becoming a problem because my leg is bothering me more and more. It's not so bad when I keep it straight, but now I've gotten arthritis in my knee. There isn't much the doctors can do about it. I've tried the spa deal at Baden-Baden, tasted a couple of glasses of that water. It was pretty good stuff, but it didn't do much for me.

"Gunsmoke" will be on the air for one more year under my present contract. After that, I'd prefer to do three or four two-hour "Gunsmoke" specials a year. It gets to be too much of a problem to turn out 26 good one-hour shows a year. Besides, this way I could live like I want—six months work, six months off at Mammoth, Mexico, or at the house I rented in Oahu, Hawaii. Great surf there. And I wouldn't miss Hollywood a bit. I've never been part of that scene anyway.

I've been divorced eight years. Rumors crop up periodically that I've secretly married again. I don't know how they get started. A month or so ago a journalist wrote how lonely I was, and how much I wanted to get married again if only I could find the right woman—a woman who likes the outdoors and wilderness. Before his article was published, he told me I'd probably be hearing from a lot of women, and he wanted 50 percent of the action! After the story came out, I called him and told him he could have 100 percent of it. I heard from lots of women, all right—all of them wanting to climb the Rockies with me!

Actually, I don't mind being on my own. In fact, I'm right fond of privacy. That's why I bought this house in Brentwood. The place is so isolated that I don't even know my neighbors, and they don't know me. What more do I need? I have three great kids (Craig, 23, Jenny, 21, and Rolf, 19). I like my work, enjoy traveling and have hobbies that keep me occupied and interested. In other words, I have a full life. □

Ronald Reagan's Daughter, Maureen "Hollywood Is Prejudiced Against Me"

"My father used to act out 'The Shooting of Dan McGrew' for me. He died so beautifully that he scared me to death. One time, when I was four, and he lay on the floor gasping for air, I kept beating on his chest, crying, 'Wake up! Wake up!'"

You're blonde, blue-eyed, good looking, have a better than average singing voice, your mother is an Academy Award-winning actress, your father an ex-movie star and now Governor of California. Should be easy to get a job in show business, right?

"Wrong!" says Maureen Reagan, daughter of Gov. Ronald Reagan and his former wife, actress Jane Wyman. "Because Ronald Reagan is my father it is much more difficult to get a job! There exists a basic prejudice against him that I've never been able to overcome. Anyone who doesn't agree with his political views—which means most people in the film industry—automatically dislikes me as well. This town is far more against him than for him."

Typical, she said, was the reaction of a casting director a year ago who wouldn't even consider her for a role because the director disagreed with her father's handling of a tax issue. "I've lost out on a lot of jobs for that reason."

She did manage to appear on a few television programs, mostly interview shows like Mike Douglas, Merv Griffin, Art Linkletter, Philbin's People and so forth. She also had a singing engagement at Caesar's Palace in Las Vegas. But she didn't earn enough to make a living, she readily admitted when I visited her in her second-story, walk-up apartment in an inexpensive apartment house on Beverly Glen Boulevard in West Los Angeles. The place was pleasantly but inexpensively furnished. Maureen told me she was doing her own cooking, sewing and cleaning.

That Maureen had difficulties earning a living was confirmed to me by her part-time publicist when I asked him how she got along financially. "Probably with unemployment insurance," he told me. "I imagine her parents help out from time to time...." He hesitated a moment. "Aside from that, I loaned her $1,500 last month." I did not ask whether she paid him for his public relations work.

Maureen—who did a walk-on in one film starring her mother, when she was five—stressed that it was only a couple of years ago that she decided to concentrate on acting again. She felt, however, that she had more going for her than most young women who attempt to get into show business. "There's a lot to be said for heredity," she insisted. "I have two talented people for parents. I think I have inherited some of their talent."

Most of what Maureen remembers of her early childhood concerns acting—primarily her father's. "He loved acting out 'The Shooting of Dan McGrew, for me. He died so beautifully! Usually he scared me to death! One day, when I was four, he hit the floor and gasped for air so convincingly that I beat on his chest and cried, 'Wake up! Wake up! Please wake up!' "

Another time, about a year later, she asked her mother to tell him when he came home that she'd gone away, forever and ever. Then when she heard him coming into the house after work, she hid in the living-room closet. "Obviously mother had winked at him, so he knew what it was all about. But he put on such a marvelous act about how disappointed he was I couldn't stand it and jumped out of the closet screaming 'I am here! I am here!' "

Maureen was seven when her parents were divorced. For the next four years she was shuttled from school to school. When she was 15, she was sent back East. "I guess mother wanted to broaden my horizons," she explained. First Marymount High School in Tarrytown, N. Y., then Marymount College in Arlington, Va. "I quit before the end of the first year. I just felt I ought to go out and make a living."

So she got a job as a secretary in nearby Washington D.C., simultaneously launching her career in show business. She sang with small bands throughout the Washington area and appeared in little theatre productions. By 1962, she was in constant demand in top supper clubs and stuck to it until her marriage to a Washington attorney in 1964. When the marriage ended in divorce in 1967, she returned to California but instead of trying show business again right away, spent an increasing amount of time in politics, mostly doing publicity for the Young Republican's organization. It proved satisfying ideologically and helped bring in some badly needed money. "Actually I have been in politics since 1960, but I really got going in 1967 when I started traveling outside the State to make speeches," she recalled. Except for a brief period when she did public relations for an airline, she devoted all her time to politics. But, she admitted, little of her time was spent in Sacramento where her father presides as Governor.

Maureen claims she is not bitter about her situation, although she considers the attitude of many producers, directors and casting directors unfair. "All I want is a chance to show what I can do," she told me, "and that is act! Particularly in movies." All she needs, says Maureen, is one lucky break, one good part to demonstrate her abilities.

Since she is unable to make a living with her chosen profession, she is still supplementing her income with public-relations work for political campaigns. "It helps make ends meet," she told me. "Besides, it beats unemployment!" □

QUIZ / By John E. Gibson

What Makes A Good Marriage?

True or False: Some people stay married to each other to have someone to fight with (see number 7).

The delicate art of getting along with one's helpmeet is one which concerns most of America's husbands and wives—many of whom find that it's difficult to keep the home fires burning without getting one's fingers singed now and then. This quiz takes a quick look at some of the considerations involved.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. You'll get along better with your spouse by being frank and honest about what you feel, than if you're diplomatic and just say what you think he or she wants to hear.

2. Jealousy is bad for any relationship.

3. A wife is more responsive to what a husband doesn't say than to what he does say.

4. A man should think twice before he criticizes another woman in front of his wife.

5. A good physical relationship determines more than any other single factor how well a husband and wife are going to get along together.

6. The longer you're married to someone, the more inclined you are to overlook his faults.

7. Some people stay married to each other to have someone to fight with.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychological studies show that in the long run it makes for a better relationship if you call the shots as you see them, rather than trying to gain approval by trying to "butter the other person up."

2. False. Dr. Paul Popenoe, Director of the American Institute of Family Relations, finds that jealousy has too often been maligned as a villain. "In the proper sense," he says in summing up his findings, "jealousy is actually a constructive and desirable feeling. Used correctly, it is a powerful force in the making of a successful marriage. Jealousy, in its constructive sense, indicates an intense appreciation of something that is precious and legitimately possessed, and a determination to defend that precious thing and its possession."

3. True. Studies at Oxford University's Institute of Experimental Psychology show that this is definitely the case. A woman may appear to be listening intently to what her husband or lover is saying to her, but actually she is paying far more attention to the look in his eyes, subtle changes in facial expression, his tone of voice. As research has shown, women are more responsive to nonverbal cues than verbal ones.

4. True. She's likely to resent it. For, as one leading authority on marital relationships has observed, women tend to personalize things, and when the husband makes disparaging remarks about other women, the wife is very apt to jump to the conclusion that the criticism was actually meant for her. (And the husband will never know what made his spouse angry.)

5. False—according to the findings of a leading marriage relations institute. It's pointed out that "innumerable marriages start on nothing more than the physical attraction two people feel for each other. And it should be borne in mind that during the course of a lifetime not more than one percent of the time—or one hour out of a hundred—will be devoted to actual love-making. What will husband and wife do with the other 99 percent of the time?"

6. False. At the University of Connecticut a study was made of 80 married couples who had been married for varying lengths of time, ranging from two to 21 years. Results of the investigation: "It was found that the longer couples were married, the less favorable personality qualities they saw in their mates. This was true for the couples who found their marriages satisfying as well as for those who were dissatisfied."

7. True. A psychiatric study of long-standing discordant marriages, characterized by frequent bickering, nagging and verbal infighting, has shown that in many cases this fills a psychological need of both parties. Each serves the other as a target for the expression of strong feelings of frustration and hostility. Though such marriages may give the appearance of being headed for immediate crack-up, they often endure. As one couple observed, "It's harder to fight with a stranger." □

Now! MOTALOY gives your car's rings and valves a replating job while you drive!

HERE'S HOW MOTALOY WORKS!

WINNER OF THE GOLD MEDAL OF THE INTERNATIONAL INVENTORS FAIR

Here's all you do and you do it only once! Just drop 4 Motaloy Tabs into your gas tank and this single treatment does all this . . .

JUST DROP 4 Motaloy tabs into your gas tank . . . and you've started your engine rebuilding job! Each tab is a scientifically compounded alloy of 9 metals and elements. As you drive, tiny Motaloy particles are released into the fuel. These Motaloy molecules are carried through the fuel line into the combustion chamber . . . where the intense heat of ignition activates them to soften, then remove carbon deposits. Then, Motaloy starts metal-plating pitted and worn surfaces of cylinder walls, piston rings, valve seats, and stems.

A SINGLE MOTALOY TREATMENT DOES ALL THIS FOR YOUR ENGINE!

The more you drive, the more protection Motaloy deposits in the form of a fine, anti-friction metal plating that rebuilds, smooths, and protects vital surfaces! As Motaloy continues to plate and re-plate, engine compression is increased without a ring and valve job! Gas mileage improves, your engine eats less oil! And over fifteen years of use by over a million motorists — some of them with cars that have clocked over 100,000 miles after a single Motaloy treatment — prove that Motaloy can keep your engine running younger and peppier . . . for years longer!

PROTECTS NEW ENGINES... REJUVENATES OLD ONES!

Getting a new car? Start it off with a Motaloy treatment — 6 dollars of protection that can mean invaluable extra engine life for your car. Can actually help maintain full factory compression for the life of your car . . . so you'll get better performance for years longer . . . and a better trade-in or resale price whenever you decide to sell! And Motaloy's track record on cars that have rolled up 50,000 . . . 70,000 . . . even 90,000 miles shows fantastic results in improved compression, lower gas and oil consumption, better pickup, smoother running — just as if the engine were years younger! Give your car's engine a new . . . and longer . . . lease on life with amazing Motaloy! Remember — a single Motaloy treatment lasts for the-life of your car! And Motaloy cannot harm even the finest engine in any way!

USERS REPORT OVER 100,000 MILES OF BETTER ENGINE PERFORMANCE!

"About 1960 I put some Motaloy tabs in my gas tank, and I have driven this Mercedes-Benz 135,000 miles since!"
L.A.M., Sioux City, Iowa

"About 5 years ago I put Motaloy-tablets in my Cadillac. I drove this car 125,000 miles and it never used any oil between changes — 1,500-2,000 miles!"
V.V.G., Cincinnati, Ohio

"My Chevrolet had 49,000 miles on it. It had noisy valves and other troubles. Motaloy corrected all this. It is running better than new."
L.F.M., Walterboro, S.C.

"After using Motaloy in my Chevrolet my compression increased an average of 31½ pounds per cylinder, which to me is conclusive proof that Motaloy will do everything that is claimed for it."
W.P.C., Elkview, West Va.

"My Dodge used one quart of oil every 225 miles. After using Motaloy I drove 1,245 miles and did not have to add any oil."
G.W., Cincinnati, Ohio

"Since adding Motaloy I have driven more than 1,500 miles, and I must say that I am amazed about the wonderful results. My gas consumption improved 40%, and my oil consumption is practically nil."
W.G.K., Fort Atkinson, Wash.

TESTS BY TRINITY TESTING LABS PROVE MOTALOY RESULTS!

Radioactive Isotope Tracer Tests Confirm Motaloy's Plating-Action!

. . . The activation of the Motaloy and the subsequent tracing operations of the activated Motaloy was conducted by an independent research laboratory especially licensed by the Atomic Energy Commission to supervise the industrial application of radioactive isotopes.

Approximate Amounts of Activated Motaloy Deposited on the Surfaces (after approx. 60 hours of operation)

Piston Rings	Light
Piston	Light
Cylinder Walls	Light
Intake Valve Face	Very Heavy
Exhaust Valve Face	Heavy
Intake Valve Seat	Heavy
Exhaust Valve Seat	Medium

The above tracing of the radioactive Motaloy is positive proof of the actual transfer of the Motaloy particles from the gasoline tank on to the surfaces of the above surveyed parts of the engine.

TRY MOTALOY AT OUR RISK!

A complete Motaloy package (4 tabs) is only $6.00. Try Motaloy in your car for 30 days, to give its plating action a fair chance. If at the end of that time your car's engine isn't running smoother . . . if you aren't using less oil . . . if your gas mileage hasn't started to improve (as it will continue to do until you've reached full factory compression) . . . if you don't agree that Motaloy has given your engine a new lease on life — just return the empty Motaloy package, and we'll send you back every penny of your purchase price! If you do find Motaloy does give your car the equivalent of a ring and valve job for $6.00, tell your friends about it. They'll thank you for spreading the good word!

*Gold Medal, Naples, Bronze Medal, Brussels, 1964

Complete Motaloy Package (4 Tabs) Only $6.00

NEW JN INSTA-JET PROPANE

FLAME GUN

WITH TUNE-A-FLAME INSTANT ACTION

PRE-SEASON SALE!

NOW ONLY $9.99

Limited Time Only! Order Now!

OFFER WILL NOT BE REPEATED THIS SEASON.

Lightweight, Easy-Handling

An engineering marvel! $9.99 JN Insta-Jet Propane Flame Gun is loaded from handle to barrel with important years-ahead features. Features to be found in expensive kerosene guns and burners that sell for as much as $39.95. Like Tune-A-Flame that lets you dial precisely the right size flame for the job you want to do. And the extra-long feeder tube that lets you reach pesky out-of-the-way places without straining or bending. Plus the easy-to-hold machine-gun grip and amazingly lightweight design. (Less than three pounds complete, including the propane cylinder.) So light, almost anyone can use the JN Insta-Jet, with only one hand, and never get tired!

The Four Seasons Flame Gun

You'll use the JN Insta-Jet right through winter, spring, summer and fall. And it will do your heart good! Because it takes the work right out of dozens of clean-up chores around your house. In winter, the adjustable instant-action flame clears away ice and snow faster than you'd believe possible. Whips right through even the heaviest drifts. Cleans walks and driveways. Routs clogged gutters of ice and old leaves. Thaws frozen pipes. No straining, no stooping, no bending. And you can say a final farewell to shoveling!

In summer, your JN Insta-Jet Flame Gun burns out weeds so fast, it's downright amazing! Destroys insect nests at a safe distance. Edges walks, paths, lawns and flower beds. Burns out unsightly grass between bricks or flagstones on the patio. Removes old paint from hard-to-reach places. All without exertion. And without staining your clothes.

Outperforms The Others!

This remarkable gun produces a clean, hot flame for up to 14 hours on a single standard cylinder of propane gas easily obtainable at most hardware, paint and department stores. Compare efficiency. Kerosene-burning rods (costing as much as $29.95 and more) work only twenty minutes to one hour before requiring refilling. What's more, the JN Insta-Jet propane flame is nearly twice as hot as kerosene. And the Insta-Jet is clean . . . can be used indoors or outdoors. Kerosene rods are messy . . . their flame leaves an ugly black residue on both the gun and the cleaned area.

Yes, compare. It's no contest! This JN Insta-Jet wins on virtually every count! So use your head instead of straining your heart. Send for this money-saving, work-saving flame gun today—without risking a single penny!

UNCONDITIONAL FREE Replacement Guarantee!

We guarantee the JN Insta-Jet Propane Flame Gun absolutely. If you should damage it, return it to our factory together with $1.00 to cover the cost of shipping and handling. We will return it in perfect condition or send you a brand new JN Insta-Jet Propane Flame Gun as a replacement.

COOKBOOK/By Melanie DeProft

Here are some desserts you can dare to make several days in advance. The accent is on walnuts.

Do-Ahead Desserts

A buttery walnut-honey topping imparts an attractive and flavorful glaze to this spicy honey cake.

BROILER WALNUT HONEY CAKE

¾ cup walnut pieces, chopped medium fine
2½ cups sifted all-purpose flour
1½ teaspoons baking soda
1 teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon ground cinnamon
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
¾ cup butter
½ cup sugar
1 egg
¾ cup honey
1 cup hot water

1. Sift flour, baking soda, salt, and spices together. Set aside.

2. Cream butter, adding sugar gradually until well mixed. Add egg and beat until light and fluffy.

3. Stir in in order until thoroughly mixed the sifted dry ingredients, honey, and walnuts.

4. Quickly and thoroughly stir in the hot water. Turn into a greased (bottom only) 9x9x2-in. baking pan.

5. Bake at 325° F. 35 to 40 min., or just until cake tests done.

6. Meanwhile, blend 3 tablespoons butter, melted, ⅓ cup honey, ¾ cup medium chopped walnuts; set aside and keep warm until cake is removed from oven.

7. Immediately spoon over hot cake, spreading evenly. Set under broiler with top about 8 in. from heat just until bubbly and lightly browned. (Watch carefully to avoid scorching.)

8. Serve warm or cold accompanied by a bowl of thawed frozen whipped dessert topping.

One 9-inch square cake

APRICOT BUTTER BARS

1 cup sifted all-purpose flour
¼ cup sugar
½ cup butter
⅓ cup sifted all-purpose flour
½ teaspoon baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
2 eggs
1 teaspoon vanilla extract
1 cup firmly packed brown sugar
1 cup dried apricots, snipped
½ to ¾ cup walnuts, medium chopped

1. Mix 1 cup flour and the sugar in a bowl. Cut in the butter with a pastry blender or two knives until the particles formed are the size of small peas. Turn into a 9x9x2-in. baking pan and press firmly into an even layer over bottom of pan.

2. Bake at 350°F. 25 min.

3. Meanwhile, blend remaining ⅓ cup flour, the baking powder, and salt. Set aside.

4. Beat eggs with extract. Add the brown sugar gradually, beating until thick. Stir in the flour mixture, apricots, and nuts.

5. Remove pan from oven; turn the apricot mixture onto the layer in pan and spread evenly.

This Christmas, Try a Different Approach

How do you make a gift seem even more wonderful than it is? Give one with a related accessory! It's fun, imaginative and more personal. To spark your own ideas, here are some examples of "paired" gifts:

1. An electric pencil sharpener, with a dozen (unsharpened) pencils.
2. Christmas cookies or fruitcake, with your "secret" recipe.
3. For a beginner in knitting or crocheting, instructions and yarn for a matching set of something—mittens and hat or scarf, belt and ascot—with you having completed the harder half.
4. Tickets or a pass to your local movie house—enclosed in a change purse.
5. A date book or reminder pad—with a couple of invitations filled in by you.

For kids, a macrame kit and a time-telling toy

For Children

What to give the children? Give gifts of learning in the form of a macramé or candlemaking kit from Skil-Craft. You might pair the macramé kit with a finished example of the art or a gift certificate for lessons with a teacher. To the candlemaking kit, add candle holders or a snuffer. The kit on macramé, the art of creative knotting, includes a best-selling 80-page full-color instruction book, six skeins of yarn, "T" pins, beads and buckles, knotting board and crochet hook. The candlemaker kit, heralding another revived craft, contains wax, complete accoutrements for making seven molded forms and an illustrated 24-page instruction booklet. It's completely safe for children under supervision. Both kits are about $10 each.

For the younger child, give a gift that helps teach him the time. A unique clock from Bulova (about $11) features a bi-colored face with a double set of numerals to indicate how many minutes it is "to" or "after" the hour. It's packaged along with an entertaining instruction record. To this gift, you might add an egg timer or a drawing of a sun dial.

Or how about giving a giant Tinkertoy, 17 times the size of the regular model, with larger-size rods and spools, that are easier for young fingers to handle. Whether a child wants to build a crane with a nine-foot boom or a swing for the dolls, it's engineered to be indestructible for indoor or outdoor use. About $30. Match this gift with a decoratively written promise by parents to join in a fun-filled "construction" day early in the new year.

For Mother

What would Mom like to receive? If you've heard her mention she might like to start sewing her own clothes or is already the architect of whole wardrobes, give her the Singer Sewing Book, an authoritative up-to-date guide detailing the basic principles—and the newest advances—in sewing construction, including a section on decorating and sewing for the home. About $8.00. You might pair this gift with several yards of fabric plus a pattern or an electric scissors. Hamilton Beach makes a two-speed model in lemon yellow with a handy viewing light. It has stainless steel blades, is powered by a 12-watt motor. About $10.

Is she practical, but likes a bit of extravagance? Give her an Elgin velvet jewel case with her very own velvet-covered travel alarm that fits neatly in-

to Your Gift-Giving

6. A book or magazine subscription, with reading glasses case, perhaps made by you.

7. A pretty party apron, with a similarly-cut plastic cover to be whisked off when guests arrive.

8. An extra flashlight, with a half dozen extra batteries. Or anything transistorized, with lots of extra batteries.

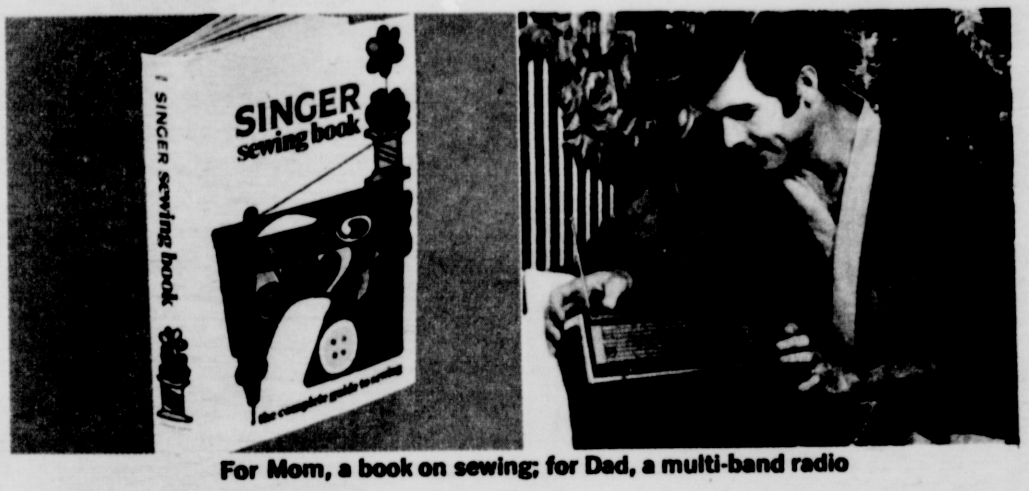

9. A woodworking tool, of better quality than the recipient would give himself, with an attachable sign, "Property of _____. Hands off!"

10. A new address book, with an offer to help with some of the recopying.

11. An all-purpose vase, with flowers or leaves already in it.

12. A bottle of champagne, with 2 or 4 champagne glasses.

Got the idea? Now, here are some more:

For Mom, a book on sewing; for Dad, a multi-band radio side. It's perfect for that next vacation trip. Comes in black, red, or blue in size 7¼" x 4¾" x 1½". About $18.00. Include a piece of costume jewelry with this gift; or, if an imminent trip is planned, add some foreign currency or, from the country to be visited, a printed walking tour and post cards, prestamped and addressed.

For Dad

Is Dad the tough one on your Christmas list? Give him a gift of communication with a multi-band FM-AM radio that has seven-band reception, including foreign-country shortwave stations. It has easy-to-operate slide controls for volume, squelch, tone and has a world time-zone map with a calculation wheel on the back of the cabinet. From General Electric, in a black and silver color combination, its dimensions are 13½" W, 8½" H, 4½" D. About $110. Instead of adding to this gift, provide a clue to it by wrapping the box with an inexpensive world map.

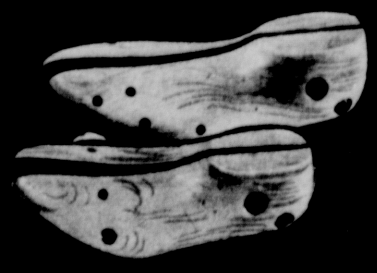

If Dad's hair (worn a little longer these days) is hard to manage, give him a gift of good grooming with Remington's Hot Comb dryer/styler. It is unique because it's able to spray on water, conditioner or control liquids while it combs, styles and dries. The appliance, which can also emit the hot-air action alone, delivers forcefully and effectively by blowing air down the teeth of the comb and into the hair. It comes in a leather-textured travel case, packaged with a brush, both wide and narrow-toothed combs and hair conditioner. Under $22.

For Everyone

Gifts the whole family will enjoy might include bringing the outdoors inside through planting in contemporary see-through flower pots that come in exciting crystal clear or exquisite transparent-colored Plexite in amber, lapis blue, sea green, smoke, lemon yellow and lime green. Besides being a decorative accent when placed in any room of the house, these flower pots are shatter and scratch resistant, remain clear, have a glossy luster, are weather resistant if used outdoors. The 5" pot and saucer is carried in department stores and florists. About $4 for the set. To this gift you might add a bag of fertile soil and packet of seeds or perhaps a special plant bulb.

Whatever way you choose to give presents this Christmas, FAMILY WEEKLY wishes you a happy, healthy one. □

Dear Family Weekly...

I liked your article saluting the newspaper boys of America. What I didn't like was that you forgot to mention the paper girls.

I am Carla Muncy. I am in the 7th grade, I am 12½ years old, and I am a newspaper girl. I deliver the Bluefield Daily Telegraph every morning and the Sunset News-Observer every night. All together I have 80 customers.

I believe that my friend Louise Goldstonn (Bluefield Daily Telegraph), my sister Kim (Sunset News-Observer) and I work just as hard or harder than my brother and the rest of the paper boys in our town.

I wish you would say something nice about us girls, too.

Thank you,
Carla Muncy
Athens, W. Virginia

You're right, Carla. Our apologies—and admiration—to you, Louise, Kim and all the other newspaper girls who wrote in to say they felt neglected.—The Editors

A Reader's Remembrance

The Day I Met Carl Sandburg

"You pick out a pair of pajamas for me," he said. I flushed madly as the manager asked whether I wanted silk or cotton. I pointed to a pair of blue-silk pajamas and said, "Give him a pair of those"

It was 1925, and Carl Sandburg was coming to visit Mary Hardin-Baylor College in Texas. As president of the school's entertainment group I was to meet Mr. Sandburg's train and take him immediately to a luncheon, where 40 guests—some of them my professors—were anxiously awaiting his arrival. The train pulled in, and, as I came forward, Mr. Sandburg greeted me with, "I want to go to a jewelry store."

Knowing our limited time, I suggested we shop after the luncheon. He pushed back the lock of steel gray hair that dropped often over one eye. "I want to go to the jewelry store now," he said.

By the time we got to the luncheon, we were 40 minutes late, and Mr. Sandburg was the proud owner of a new pair of cufflinks. He offered no apology to the guests. I now thought my responsibilities were finished, but when the dinner was over, Mr. Sandburg said, "I would like someone to show me the campus at four o'clock." Of course my services were immediately volunteered.

We walked around the tree-shaded campus, where he especially enjoyed the Texas mesquites. As we neared the campus boundry, I suggested he rest before dressing for dinner.

"How far is it to town?" he inquired.

"A mile," I said.

"We will go there."

Students in women's colleges in the South in the 20's did not summarily take off for town without permission—and certainly not with a man. I tried to protest, but it was no use.

As we paced off the blocks, Mr. Sandburg asked the name of almost every tree, shrub and flower. In his eyes I was woefully ignorant because I knew none of them.

"Where is the tree that Sam Bass shot his initials in?" he asked.

I told him I had never heard of such a tree. Mr. Sandburg continued to argue, so I promised to introduce him to Mr. Hunter, the local druggist and county historian.

On the way to the drugstore he stopped and announced too all passers-by: "I lost my pajamas. Take me to get some new ones."

As a sheltered young lady of that period, I was not supposed to know what men wore for sleeping. I felt a blush rushing to the top of my head. I took him to a haberdashery, where he immediately made for a five-foot stack of Mexican sombreros. He began trying them on, admiring himself fore and aft in the mirror.

By now the clock on the Bell County Courthouse had struck six, and I knew we weren't going to make dinner. But this made no impression on him. He said, "You pick out a pair of pajamas for me"—and went right on trying on sombreros.

I flushed madly as the manager asked if I wanted silk or cotton. I pointed to a pair of blue-silk pajamas and said, "Give him a pair of those."

After Mr. Hunter had assured the poet that Sam Bass had never shot up a Belton tree, we started back to the campus. But at this point, Mr. Sandburg spotted the historic Philip Nolan Creek bridge, which he had to investigate forthwith.

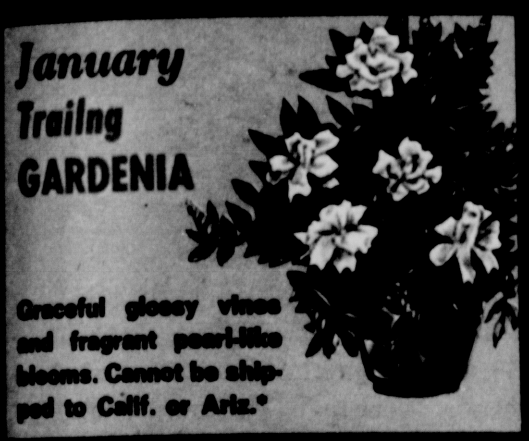

While the Dallas to San Antonio traffic swished over the bridge, Mr. Sandburg waxed poetic. With arms outstretched, hair falling across one eye, he stood on the bridge and extolled the beauties of nature. People in the cars craned to see what was happening.

When we were headed once again toward the campus, he stopped and intoned, "I refuse to return the way we came. I must see new things."

The alternate route was an unpaved, rocky street. He was still curious about the vegetation as we came to a home with magnificent trees. When I could not name the species, he demanded that I go in and ask the owners. To this day I remember my discomfiture at having to question those strangers.

Back on campus, not long before recital time, he requested tea and toast brought to his room. The typical recital, including guitar accompaniment, went off without mishap. Someone got him on a train, but not me. I was too tired.

Eight years later, I met Mr. Sandburg again. We were house guests of newspaper friends in Arlington, Va. When I told him how he had embarrassed me, he laughed. "By the way, young lady," he confided, "you'll be happy to know the Pullman Company found my lost pajamas." — Ailese Parten, Plainview, Texas

Jobmanship

A feature dedicated to helping you understand and improve your on-the-job relationships.

By S. R. Redford

A CLUMSY DISMISSAL CAN BACKFIRE

• Maybe you never thought of it before, but you can make trouble for yourself when you fire someone—if you don't know how to do it properly. Ex-employees who have had their egos shattered by clumsy firing techniques sometimes make off with mailing lists, files and technical data in order to get even. Some experts suggest you soften the blow by mentioning severance, bonus, vacation and retirement money which the employee will receive. If he's a cost-cutting victim, make that clear to him and save him the anguish of thinking he has been incompetent. Late in the afternoon and out-of-range of eavesdroppers, your task is easier and more merciful. Even if the subordinate loses his temper and becomes abusive, keep calm. By losing your temper, you'll only be encouraging the get-even schemes you're trying to avoid.

CELEBRITY SOAPBOX/By William Wolf

"Why Hide Your Feelings?" Asks Actress Cathy Burns

"If you feel rotten, you should act like it," insists actress Cathy Burns, known for her sensitivity on screen. "There's this thing about not crying. If a child falls down and hurts his face, you can't tell him it doesn't hurt. It does. Yet I've seen people in pain so strong Superman would double up. They're convulsed, yet they won't cry. But why shouldn't they? Letting out your emotions makes things real. Some people feel they should carry on regardless. I don't. If you feel terrible, you should act accordingly, including throwing things at the children or cat. Then it's real. You are expressing yourself, and maybe you'll then look at why you feel rotten.

"Also, there's something else I've learned. I've always been very quiet and looked like something lost on a beach. Whenever I had to make somebody respect me, I would get cold, hostile and up-tight. But I've learned that when you feel threatened, you should become outgoing and deliberately try to be friendly."

Cathy was seen most recently in "Red Sky at Morning."

In sum, Moneysworth is your own personal consumer crusader, trusted stockbroker, and chancellor of the exchequer—all in one. It is a bonanza of uncanny financial intelligence.

Although launched only a year ago, already Moneysworth has become the most widely read newsletter in the world (with a circulation of 350,000 and a readership estimated at one million).

Every week, Moneysworth is inundated with enthusiastic, unsolicited testimonials like the following (which are completely authentic):

•"When you wrote up Bausch & Lomb's stock, I bought 100 shares at 44 and soon thereafter sold out for 139½. When you came out with James Dole, I bought 500 shares at 7½ and nine days later sold out for double. Net profit: $12,996. Let me assure you that I shall be a Moneysworth subscriber for life."—Lawrence Gray; Ypsilanti, Mich.

•"Thanks to the advice in your article 'Inaccurate Billing by the Phone Company,' my firm—the Bayard Pump & Tank Company—received a $1,593 refund."—Armand DiRienzo; Bristol, Pa.

•"Moneysworth is to be commended for the reliability of its merchandise evaluations. I just bought a Canonet 35mm rangefinder camera—which you recommended as 'First Rate'—and have gotten some beautiful shots with it. Also thanks to your buying advice, I saved over 30% on its cost."—Robert D. Goodrich; Tucson, Ariz.

•"Your article 'How to Fight a Traffic Ticket' saved me a $200 lawyer's fee and a ticket. I did exactly as you suggested—taking pictures of the scene and double-checking the statute book—and came out the winner in court. Many, many thanks."—W.R. Wendel; Hicksville, N.Y.

•"I had never heard of KMS Industries before you wrote up its stock. I bought 400 shares at 8¼ and sold them about 30 days later at 16½. Profit: $3,400."—Carl H. Maser, Jr.; Burlington, N.C.

•"Thanks to your article 'How to Buy a New Car for $125 Above Dealer's Cost,' I have just purchased a Malibu Sport Coupe at a saving that I estimate at $350."—Ron Bromert; Anita, Iowa.

•"Your article 'How to Avoid Paying an Exorbitant Doctor Bill' saved me $65. As a token of gratitude, I enclose extension of my subscription."—Carl Wagner; Yorktown Heights, N.Y.

•"I am grateful for your tip on 'Tax Savings for Teachers'—which saved me the cost of a tax accountant and got me a very high income tax refund."—Charles Bryan; Brooklyn, N.Y.

•"Your article on low-cost, unadvertised trans-Atlantic air fares enabled me to save $108 on a vacation to Ireland. In addition, once I was there, I saved $64 on a car rental, thanks to your advice."—Bernard Bullon; Bronx, N.Y.

•"I have deposited $12,500 in a Mexican bank, as you suggested, and have been receiving, every month by airmail, interest at 9%. I am grateful to Moneysworth for telling me about this high rate of interest."—Charles T. Malburn; Sarasota, Fla.

•"Due to your information on stocks, I have made over $2,200 in less than a year. Yours is one of the most intelligent, down-to-earth periodicals ever published."—Ruth Pantell; Yonkers, N.Y.

•"Upon Moneysworth's advice, I asked the phone company for an itemized bill. As a result, I discovered that for years I had been paying for a nonexistent extra line. Result: A $550 refund. My trial subscription has paid for itself 110 times over!"—George T. Petsche; Washington, D.C.

In short, Moneysworth has become an absolutely indispensable financial mentor for many of America's most astute consumers.

The staff of Moneysworth consists of several of the most keenly analytical and imaginative minds in the fields of financial and consumer journalism. At the helm, of course, is Ralph Ginzburg himself, as editor-in-chief. The managing editor of Moneysworth is Paul A. Riedel, of the Whitney Communications Corporation. Its articles editor is Dorothy Bates, formerly of Scientific American. Augmenting this team of hard-nosed, experienced editors are reporters, researchers, product-testers, and consultants throughout the United States. What in the World!

THE QUEEN'S HUSBAND
Philip What?

Prince Philip's new biographer is an Englishman named Basil Boothroyd, who lived with the Royal Family long enough to write "Prince Philip, An Informal Biography," (McCall, $8.95). Mr. Boothroyd gave us this account of a princely problem: While Philip was serving in the British Navy in World War II, he had to sign the naval log in the space provided, "Mr. _____." He crossed out the "Mr." and signed, properly, his name, Philip. When he was reprimanded (he was just a teen-ager) with "Philip what???"; his answer was "Philip of Greece; I am a prince." (Princes seldom have last names—just the place they come from.) When he wanted to surrender his Greek citizenship, (Feb. 1947) there were rumors that it was because he wanted to marry Elizabeth (then Princess). But the real reason was that he could not advance in the British Navy. He had a British uncle, Mountbatten, so when he married, the family name became Mountbatten. Although the Queen is "Mrs. Mountbatten," her children are Miss and Mr. Windsor (her family name). When their son Charles becomes King of England, his children will be Windsor-Mountbatten.

The oceans won't last forever. North American rivers pour some 611 million tons of dissolved wastes each year into the Atlantic and Pacific. The dirty rivers are already making dirty oceans. The United Nations is proposing that each country bordering the two oceans set pollution limits on its ocean-emptying rivers before it's too late.

"Marijuana and alcohol—what's the difference?" many young people ask their parents. Here are some answers: "When used in moderation, both can produce a high (feeling of well-being); if used in large doses, alcohol can produce confusion and sleep; marijuana—hallucination. Alcohol can leave the user with a severe staggering walk; the stagger isn't as noticeable with marijuana. Flashbacks (hallucinations recurring long after use) can occur with marijuana; not with alcohol. The flashbacks remind us that marijuana is a very powerful drug, but one which is usually taken in diluted form. If enough is taken, it can produce the same effects that LSD does." These facts from a kit of color transparencies available for rent from "The Case on Drugs"—Dept. FW, 3M Co., Visual Products Division, St. Paul, Minn. 55101.

BABY DEER AND ALEX
A lesson in forgiveness

To err is human; to forgive, divine. Forgiveness is also a quality of some young animals. For instance, an eight-day-old baby deer was rescued from the fangs of a vicious dog by a forest keeper outside Pfaffing, Germany. The human family nursed the little roebuck back to health, assisted by their collie dog, Alex. Now the deer is one month old, and he trusts Alex completely. Alex is, in fact, the "foster parent." And the whole species of dogs is forgiven.

WHAT WEIGHT PROBLEM?
By Richard Armour

Overweight people are less likely to commit suicide or suffer severe mental disease than thin people or those of average weight.—News item

It's really not so bad, at that,
To have a little extra fat.
The person who is overweight
Might just as well accept his fate.

Without that fat, he might live longer,
Be somewhat healthier and stronger,
But then again his nerves might jangle
And be on edge and in a tangle.

And so he lives a tranquil life,
Unworried by his work or wife.
He may be fat from feet to face,
But still he's not a mental case.

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N. Y., N. Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

Last summer I took my six-year-old son fishing. We were sitting together on the bank of the stream. After an hour or so of not having any luck, we began to get discouraged. "Looks like we just can't get these fish to bite," I said.

My son, aware that I was wearing my fishing license on the back of my hat, thought deeply for a minute. Then he said, "Daddy, maybe it'll help if you turn your hat around so the fish can see your license."

—Mr. K.S., Lansing, Mich.

Naturally, it caused quite some excitement when a horse left his post and went up to a pari-mutuel window. "I want to put $5 to win on myself," he declared.

"You what—!" gasped the man at the window.

"Never heard a horse talking before, eh?" grinned the bettor.

"It's not so much that," was the response. "I just don't think you got a chance to win." —Harold Helfer

Some people sneak through life as if they were supposed to be somewhere else. —Bill Copeland

Daughter had passed her driver's test and was taking the family car out alone for the first time. As Mother waved from the window and Dad wished her "Bon Voyage" at the curb, the young lady suddenly blurted out:

"Say, Dad, what should I do if the brakes give way?"

"Perish the thought, honey," exclaimed Dad. Then he added: "But if that should happen, just hang on to the wheel and steer into something cheap!" —F. G. Kernan

"Got a pad? You have quite a list to make out!"

WOULDN'T you like to help your child learn to read earlier and faster . . . to acquire an eagerness for reading that could be a real advantage in the school years ahead?

Now you can—for an investment so modest that any parent can afford it. Just print your child's name and address on the coupon below and mail it today. We will send you all three books shown here (retail value $7.50) — and bill you for only — $1.00, plus a small shipping charge, as your introduction to the I CAN READ BOOK Club for Boys and Girls.

Why we make this unusual offer

Frankly, this introductory price is far less than our actual cost for these famous children's books. Each is 64 pages. Each is colorfully illustrated. Each is handsomely bound in durable 6¼" x 8¾" covers.

But it's not the low price or the beauty of these books that is so important. It is the books themselves—and what membership in the I CAN READ Book Club can mean to your youngster. We want you to see how quickly your child will be reading these stories all by himself. Learning new words. Putting phrases and sentences together. Reading aloud without any help from you. All this is possible—because these are not ordinary books.

What makes these books so different

Simply this. The I CAN READ Book Club is sponsored by the Editors of My Weekly Reader, the well-known classroom paper loved by millions of boys and girls from kindergarten to 6th grade. These Editors know how to interest and teach children. They have chosen books written by the most gifted children's writers in America. Books which have a charm that youngsters 4 to 8 find irresistible. The stories are written in words children understand or can recognize. The plots are so entertaining that any child becomes eager to read each story from beginning to end —all by himself!

And then, just as eagerly, he loves to tell the story to someone else. Unlike other books for beginning readers that are read once and quickly forgotten, the I CAN READ books have a lasting quality. They are read, re-read and talked about by children because they can identify with the story and the characters.

Helps youngsters learn on their own

Membership in the I CAN READ Book Club will increase your child's desire and ability to read on his own—and may jump him years ahead in reading skills! Because the stories are set in large type and illustrated in bright colors by prizewinning artists, even little ones are attracted to the pictures and soon begin associating them with the words.

As The New York Times said of the first I CAN READ Book, "One look at the illustrations and children will grab for it. A second look at the short easy sentences . . . and the children will know they can read it themselves."

The Saturday Review writes, "The repetition of words . . . encourages beginning readers without boring them." And Rudolph Flesch, author of Why Johnny Can't Read, states: ". . . it will make an enormous contribution to primary education."

Mail coupon for your 3 books today!

Send no money; we will bill you for only $1.00, plus shipping, after the books arrive. Then, if you wish to continue your child's membership, another enchanting I CAN READ selection will be mailed each month. Not at the bookstore price of $2.50, but at the special member's price of only $1.69 plus shipping. Even then, you need not keep any month's selection unless you wish to. Just return it within 10 days and pay nothing. Cancel membership at any time. No minimum number of books to buy.

illness or an accident . . . the worries and bills . . . not just for the hospital and doctor but the household expenses and all the extra needs of the family during those difficult times.

It's to help meet these needs . . . to provide the cushion of extra cash, that N-BF Life Insurance Corporation created the Extra Cash/Plus Plan that pays you extra cash when you need it most . . . extra cash you can use any way you wish . . . tax-free extra cash that you don't have to account for to anyone.

Without extra cash to pay the extra bills, the extra expenses, you could leave the hospital without the money to meet your regular household expenses and all the extra bills . . . with debts you can't pay.

You might even come out money ahead!

But with extra cash benefits day after day, week after week, month after month paid by your Extra Cash/Plus Plan, you can have a steady flow of extra cash to meet your extra needs. You could even come out money ahead!

Your extra cash benefits begin the very first day—there's no waiting period—and benefits are paid for as long as hospitalization continues, even up to 25 months—more than two full years—for each new stay in the hospital for sickness or accident. PLUS: you get extra benefits for up to 30 days when you or a covered family member must be confined to the intensive care unit and you're paid for the first 30 days of convalescent or nursing home care following hospitalization—all at the same low premium.

Your Extra Cash/Plus Plan pays you directly in addition to everything you receive from any other insurance company—even Blue Cross and Medicare. You're paid your full extra cash benefits even if other insurance pays all your expenses.

All of your unmarried dependent children may be included under this plan between the ages of 1 month and 19 years. Both you and your wife—if neither has been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years—are eligible for coverage. There are no other qualifications!

Generous benefits at 65 and over paid in addition to Medicare

If you're over 65, or when you become 65, because Medicare will pay many of your medical and hospital expenses, your Extra Cash/Plus Plan will pay you $300 a month for the first two months you're in the hospital and then $600 a month for the next 23 months. And you get up to $300 extra benefits for up to 30 days of intensive care, and convalescent or nursing home benefits for up to 30 days following hospitalization.

No health questions, no investigations, no red tape

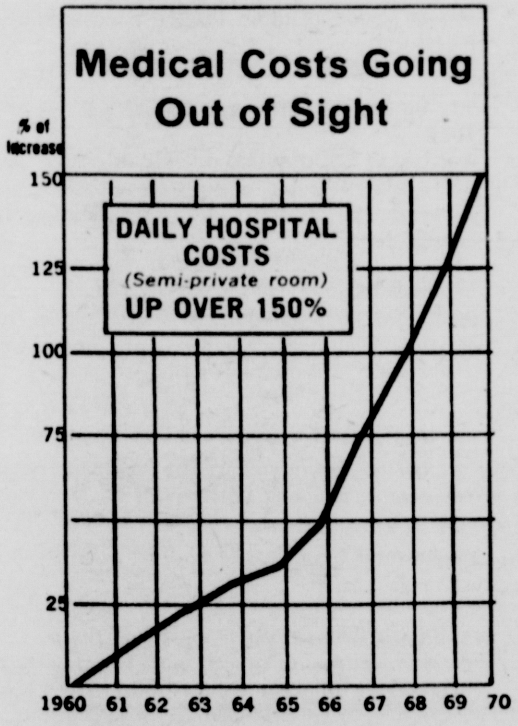

Your policy will be issued to you on your application without the usual fuss or bother of health questions, examinations, investigations and other red tape.

These few customary exclusions help keep your premiums low: conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war; mental illness or nervous disorder; confinement in a federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Even maternity is covered when both husband and wife are insured. Pre-existing conditions are covered when hospitalization begins two years or more after protection starts.

Regardless of your age or size of your family, your first full month is only $1

You get all these benefits now plus a 5% increase in your extra cash benefits each year for five years—a total increase of 25%—to keep up with the rising costs of everything you have to buy. And you get this protection for yourself and your entire family for even less than you'd think. Regardless of your age or the size of your family, your first full month's protection is only $1. You pay only these low monthly rates* according to your actual age at the time of each renewal (when both husband and wife are covered, the husband is the insured):

LOW MONTHLY RATES *

Age of Insured Policyholder*	Policyholder	Policyholder and wife
19 - 44	$4.50	$ 8.50
45 - 54	5.50	10.00
55 - 64	6.50	11.50
65 and over	8.00	14.50

For only $2.00 a month more you can cover all your children—no matter how many—who are unmarried, dependent on you and are between one month and 19 years old. And, every addition to your family is automatically covered at one month of age with no additional premium. NOTE: And once issued to you, your policy can never be cancelled or your rates changed no matter how old you grow, no matter how poor your health becomes, no matter how many claims you make unless we refuse to renew or change rates for all policies of the same classification in your entire State.

How can the rates be so low for so much protection?

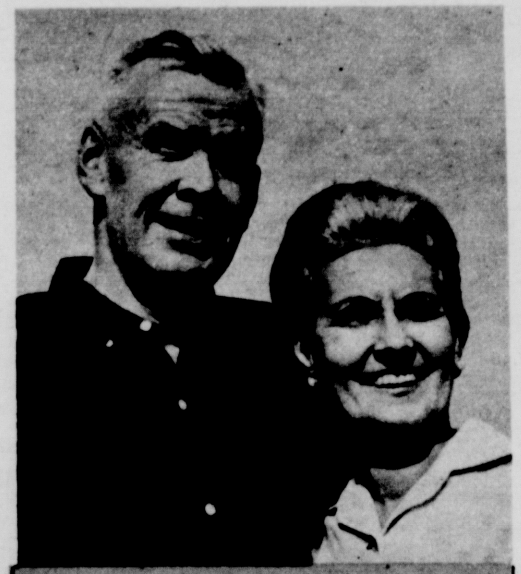

The answer is simple. The Extra Cash/Plus Plan was created by the National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation (a nation-wide leader in low cost group plans for veterans, and others) for mass enrollment of Family Weekly readers throughout the United States. And because no salesmen call on you and all sales costs are kept very low, you get the most protection for the lowest possible rate.

The National Ben Franklin Life Insurance Corporation, Chicago, Illinois, a member of The Continental Corporation, among the largest insurance groups in the entire world. ...AND IMPORTANT QUESTIONS ANSWERED...

1. What is the Extra Cash/Plus Plan?

The Extra Cash/Plus Plan is an entirely new, low-cost plan that pays extra cash direct to you from the very first day when you or a covered family member are hospitalized for sickness or accident.

2. What are my chances of having to go to the hospital?

1 out of 7 people do each year. Yes, one out of two families could have a loved one in the hospital this year. It could be your wife, your children or you. Think of the additional bills you will have if hospitalized. You could count on up to $15,000 with Extra Cash/Plus!

3. $15,000.00? How come Extra Cash/Plus offers so much coverage at so low a cost?

Because of mass enrollment throughout the country and because no salesmen will call, sales costs are kept to the barest minimum with savings passed along to you in lower premiums!

4. What will you pay for my Wife?

Same big benefit as yours, $600 a month (under age 65); up to 25 months. This means up to $15,000 for each of your wife's hospital benefit periods too!

5. Are maternity benefits included?

Yes, unlike many companies, National-Ben Franklin pays $600 a month up to 25 months for your wife's hospital confinement for pregnancy, (and its complications), which begins while both of you are insured. No separate charge!

6. Will Extra Cash/Plus take care of our children?

Yes, we pay up to $7500—$300 a month up to 25 months for any of your children's hospital benefit periods. Each new baby is covered automatically after 1 month and through age 18. Yes, one low premium will include coverage for all of your children—no matter how many.

7. When does my family protection begin?

Every eligible family member is covered immediately for any accident or any illness that begins after your policy is issued.

8. Does Extra Cash/Plus cover nursing home care?

Yes, and not many do. Regardless of age, it pays up to $300—$10 a day for 30 days (each hospital benefit period) for confinement in a nursing home or hospital convalescent unit, which starts within 7 days of a 3-day (or more) covered hospital stay.

9. What is the 25% cost-of-living raise?

A hedge against even higher hospital costs! Each person's original benefits will increase 5% for benefit periods which start after the end of the 1st year of his coverage. Similar increases for 4 more years. This means 25% more cash for you at No Added Cost!

10. Does the "intensive care" feature of Extra Cash/Plus really Double my benefits?

Yes, for adults under 65 Extra Cash/Plus pays $20 a day up to 30 days each benefit period. Up to $600 are added to your hospital income dollars, a total of $1200! (Other generous benefits for other age groups). Even regular recovery room service is covered after 24 hours.

11. Do my children get the "Plus" benefits too?

Yes, Up to $300 additional for Intensive Care; up to $300 Nursing Home Care. Cost-of-Living Raises bring children's $300 benefits to $375 after 5 years.

12. What if I have other insurance?

Cash/Plus pays in addition to your group coverage, Workmen's Comp, Medicare, Blue Cross, and any other company's policies.

13. Who gets the cash?

You do. No payments to the doctor or hospital unless you say so. It's all yours.

14. All mine? No taxes?

No taxes.

15. Just who can get Extra Cash/Plus?

You and your wife—Each, who has not been hospitalized for sickness for more than a total of seven days in the past two years, are eligible. All of your children under 19 are eligible even if they have been hospitalized.

Here's Why—National-Ben Franklin Extra Cash/Plus Policy is Your Best Protection for the Lowest Cost.

16. Why is Extra Cash/Plus so attractive to Senior Citizens? What features in Extra Cash/Plus are designed to serve those over age 65?

At age 65 Extra Cash/Plus pays you up to $14,400 . . . for up to 25 months (over 2 years!) for each hospital benefit period. $300/month, first 2 months; $600/month for 23 months more. The $600 benefit means more money when you need it most—when your Medicare stops.

17. Do we get the "Intensive Care" feature?

Yes, 65 or over, $10 a day for 30 days, up to $300, is added to your hospital income payment.

18. What is our Total Cost-of-Living Raise for age 65 or over?

Your original benefits will increase up to a total of $375 for each of the first two months and $750 a month thereafter.

19. What am I paid for less than a month?

You're paid 1/30 of your monthly benefits for each day of confinement from the 1st day.

20. How often can I be hospitalized and still collect my full Extra Cash/Plus benefits?

As often as necessary for as many different injuries and ailments as occur. Later confinements for the same condition will be treated as continuations of the original confinement—then, after 12 months free of hospital or convalescent confinement for that condition, you will again be entitled to a new full 25 month benefit period.

21. Can my premiums be changed or can my policy be cancelled?

Your policy can never be singled out for change or cancellation because of claims or poor health. Rate schedule changes or cancellation could only occur for all policies like yours in your class and state upon proper notice; nothing of the sort is foreseen. You're Safe with Extra Cash/Plus.

22. Will I receive my money promptly?

Yes. Your claim will be handled promptly and your tax-free extra cash will be sent directly to you to use any way you wish!

23. What About "pre-Existing" conditions?

Even these are covered when hospitalization begins 2 years or more after protection starts.*

*Washington and Montana Residents: 1 year.

24. What few exclusions are there?

Only a few—to help keep your rates low. They are conditions resulting from declared or undeclared war or act of war; mental illness or nervous disorder; confinement† in any federal hospital or federal convalescent facility. Even maternity is covered when both husband and wife are insured.

25. How much does my first month cost? How much do I pay after that?

You pay only $1 for your first full month's coverage regardless of how old you are or the size of your family. After that you pay only the small monthly premium for your age group.

26. Whom should I list on the Enrollment Form?

We recommend you include every eligible member of your family. Remember, though, at least one parent must be covered to include any number of your children under their low rate offered during this Enrollment Period. The premium for family coverage is so low you can't afford not to have the added protection.

†Except under Missouri policies.

POLLY'S POINTERS

DEAR POLLY—This pointer is really my aunt's idea. She hung an old shoe bag in the baby's playpen. Baby has fun taking toys out of, and putting them in the pockets, and it is easier to keep the playpen neat and clean.—LISA

DEAR POLLY—If anyone in the family is unfortunate enough to break an arm, try ripping several inches of the underarm seams to sleeves and then sew several inches of elastic to each side of the open seams. This makes sleeves easier to slip over a cast, and they still have some shape.—MRS. L. T. S.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY—I have used the following Pointer so many times that I thought it might be useful to others. After dry cleaning or washing my drapes and hanging time comes, I find I have misplaced my hooks or do not have enough, so must improvise. The old-fashioned bobby pin comes to my rescue. Bend the longest side to make a hook to fit over the rod or into the traverse rings and you are in business again.—MARIE Polly's Note—The other straight side would have to slip up between the folds of the pleat.

DEAR POLLY—If your linoleum floor becomes gouged, repair it the following way: Scrape the surface of a matching scrap of linoleum, and when you have sufficient powder, mix it with shellac to make a paste. Fill-in the damaged spot. When dry, wax and polish.—MRS. R. N. T.

DEAR POLLY—I fastened a revolving cup rack underneath the shelf in my clothes closet, and use it as a belt holder.—PATTY

DEAR POLLY—I found it hard to get small curlers for setting "banana" curls on the sides of my face (in front of the ears), so I now use the lid (cover) of a lipstick tube. I place the open end down so I can easily push hairpins or bobby pins up, on the outside, to hold my hair in place on the tube.—BARB

DEAR POLLY—When pressed for time, I clean my bathroom sink with window cleaner. Spray it on, wipe it off and the sink is soon sparkling.—C. B.

DEAR POLLY—Rusty screws are often very hard to remove, so I apply a very hot iron to the head and then use the screwdriver while the head is still hot. The screw will usually come out very easily, but DO be careful not to scratch your iron foot plate on it.—SUE

DEAR POLLY—The quickest way I've found to pull up sagging stockings and panty hose is to dampen the palms of my hands, encircle a leg with both hands and draw the hands upward. This really stretches the hose for a tight fit.—MRS. H. B.
